FINANCE GROUP NAMED TO END CAR DEADLOCK

Sprague Picks 5 Men to Determine Plan.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Col. A. A. Sprague, acting chairman of the citizens' committee, who had been requested by the council subcommittee on transportation to help break the deadlock in transit negotiations, attended a meeting of the aldermen yesterday and offered his plan.

After hearing the councilmen detail their difficulties, Col. Sprague characterized the problem as purely financial, and appointed a committee of five to hold hearings and recommend an acceptable line of action.

Thompson Heads Committee.

The committee selected follows:

Charles M. Thompson, dean of the college of commerce at the University of Illinois, chairman.

David A. Crawford, president of the Pullman company.

John A. Carroll, head of several south side banks.

Victor A. Olander, prominent labor leader.

George A. Ranney, vice-president of the International Harvester company.

"This sharp difference of opinion appeared two weeks ago," Col. Sprague said. "While not taking part in the negotiations except as an observer, I had practically decided what I would suggest, if requested. The points on which the negotiations have reached the rocks are: the construction of subways, the rate of return to the company and its financial structure.

"Purely Financial Problem."

"Subways constitute an engineering problem, on which your engineers are working. The delay incident to that is because the engineers haven't reported, and no difference of opinion is now involved. The other two stumbling blocks are neither legal conundrums nor engineering puzzles. They constitute purely a financial problem. The financial plan of the city and of the company can be tested. Each is capable of being weighed and measured by men skilled and experienced in financial matters. I will give you my suggestion within two hours."

Within that period Col. Sprague announced his plan. Briefly, he would have a committee thresh out in the open the financial structure and rate of return of the consolidated company to take over the surface and elevated lines. After naming the members of the committee, he continued to outline his plan.

"This committee, together with the present transit subcommittee of the city council, will hold public hearings, at which interested citizens, organizations and financial experts will be asked to present facts and opinions orally or by written briefs," he declared.

Aldermen Asked to Attend.

The aldermen asked that they be permitted to hear or read all of the information collected. Mr. Sprague not only invited them, but urged them to be present. "I also hope that the committee will have the fullest coöperation and support from the companies," he said, "and that they, at an early date, will be ready to present any ideas relative to a financial setup they may have."

On the present transit situation Mr. Sprague commented: "Time presses, and the public is insistent that the transportation problem—which means so much to the future growth of the city and the prosperity of its people—be settled. There is nothing in the present phase of the situation that should prevent a sound conclusion, fair to both the city and the companies, if the matter is given the fullest hearing and the facts obtained."

Col. Sprague plans to start the open sessions of the financial committee next Monday afternoon, preceded on Monday morning by a conference of the members. Dean Thompson, who is now delivering a series of lectures at Northwestern university, agreed yesterday to give up his vacation and start work Monday.

"Best Advice in U. S." Sought.

Exactly what plan and procedure the committee will adopt is uncertain, but Col. Sprague will urge them to seek "the advice of the best financial minds in the country." Col. Sprague and Prof. Thompson are scheduled to confer this morning, after which the new chairman is expected to announce what he will suggest to the committee.

The point of difference between the city and companies relates to return on the investment. The companies

PRIEST OUTWITS CAPTORS, FOILS EXTORTION PLOT

The Rev. Conrad Hoffman, a Jesuit priest who teaches French at Loyola university and is a summer student at Northwestern, was sitting on an Evanston beach near the Northwestern campus yesterday afternoon, studying a textbook, when he was disturbed by a tap on the shoulder.

"We're police officers," said one of the two men who had come upon him unobserved. "We've had complaints about you. Come along."

The astonished priest protested there must be a mistake, but the pair propelled him towards their car, bidding him to save his excuses for the judge. Inside the car they offered to parley.

"The charge against you is mighty serious, but $250 might square it" one of his captors suggested.

Father Hoffman began to comprehend the real situation. He asked to be driven to the Commercial Trust and Savings bank from which, he said, he could withdraw the sum required.

The priest went into the bank alone, one of the extortioners remaining at the entrance and the other in the car. A few minutes later, Policeman Bert Schelenger, stationed in the bank, arrested Leo Angelo, who gave 6034 Ingleside avenue as his address, but refused to name his accomplice, who drove away. Angelo, arraigned before Police Magistrate Charles G. Franklin for attempted blackmail, was unable to furnish $1,000 bond.

TWO MEN SHOT DOWN AS RESULT OF OLD GRUDGE

As the result of an old grudge, Thomas Novotny, 3911 Garden avenue, Western Springs, who conducts a soft drink place at 1721 String street, Chicago, and his friend, Edward Sipek, 1919 South May street, were shot and seriously wounded early this morning by John Vohasek, owner of a restaurant at 571 West 16th street. Vohasek fled after the shooting, but soon afterward walked into the Canalport police station, handed his gun to Sergt. Andrew Kaupert and surrendered. Police said he was intoxicated.

According to Novotny, his feud with Vohasek began when they quarreled in a dance hall fifteen years ago. He declared that as soon as Vohasek entered the place he fired six shots, one bullet striking Novotny in the abdomen, and another lodging in Sipek's groin. Vohasek's story was that he fired when he was attacked by Novotny and Sipek.

Dirigible Los Angeles Off on New England Hop

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Under the command of Lieutenant Commander Herbert T. Wiley, the navy dirigible Los Angeles took off shortly after 6 o'clock tonight for a flight that will take her over New England and as far north as Boston.

Letter Links Chicagoan to Dead Divorcee

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The name of Walter Farwell, 66 year old millionaire and a member of one of Chicago's oldest families, was brought into the inquest at Poughkeepsie today into the deaths of Mrs. Monte Mansfield Ovington and Gail Hamilton. Mrs. Ovington, a divorcee, and Hamilton, apparently committed suicide yesterday at the woman's country home outside Poughkeepsie, where a gay party had been in progress for several days. Farwell's name came into the case through the discovery of a letter from him among Mrs. Ovington's effects, which also included an address book containing the names of several men. The finding of the letter and address book caused Coroner Card of Poughkeepsie to consider jealousy as a possible underlying cause of the double tragedy.

Written Last June 11.

The letter was dated June 11, from "Mallow," Farwell's palatial estate at Syosset, L. I., and was as follows:

"Dear Monty—Congratulations on establishing a country estate. I think it is a grand idea, but you should have asked my permission before going so far away.

"Did you say you were coming in next week? If so, why not have lunch with 'Three Bachelors' Wednesday, the 19th, at 1 o'clock, at the Metropolitan club, 60th street and 5th avenue, ladies' side?

"It looks to me that you have found a beau you like better than me. In any case I do hope to see you next Wednesday.

"Very sincerely,"

WALTER FARWELL.

Farwell Explains.

Farwell, reached by telephone today at Syosset, admitted writing the letter, but said that "the man who died with Mrs. Ovington must have been sadly misled" if he saw anything but friendly interest in my relations with her."

"My acquaintance with Mrs. Ovington began during a visit to Farwell, Tex., where her father was employed by a Texas oil company in which I am a shareholder." Farwell said. "When she came to New York her father asked me to take an interest in her and look after her so far as I could. I met her occasionally and had lunch with her. The letters I wrote her were just friendly letters to a young lady whose father was an associate of mine. My relations with her were perfectly conventional and there was nothing in the world wrong."

Farwell is the son of the late United States Senator C. B. Farwell and a nephew of J. V. Farwell, founder of the family fortune in Illinois. Three of his sisters are society figures—Mrs. Reginald De Koven, Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Taylor and Mrs. Robert G. McGann. He married Mildred Williams of Washington in 1902.

103, HIS RECIPE FOR A LONG LIFE IS "JUST LIVE"

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 15.—[Special]—Galusha M. Cole, who joined in today's celebration of his 103d birthday with the zest of a youth, has a succinct recipe for long life. It is: "Just live. There isn't any rule to follow if you want to be one hundred."

"You just live and that's all there is to it," he said with a chuckle. "Daily dozens, eighteen day diets? Land sakes, no! I have lived a normal life. I never have taken more than a few spoonfuls of medicine in my whole life; I never was really ill. Years ago my wife bet me I could not quit smoking. I just showed her I could and I haven't smoked since.

"When I was 95 I climbed Mount Wilson, but I guess it was a crazy thing to do. I haven't walked much this year. I like to swing at the corn patch in my back yard with a hoe, and I read the daily newspapers, 'cause there's lot going on these days."

STATEWIDE QUIZ BEGUN; CHICAGO DEALER IS HELD

Complaints Pour In at Hearing.

A state-wide investigation of real estate swindles by which several Chicago real estate concerns are alleged to have defrauded 400 or 500 investors of an estimated $3,000,000 has been launched.

Commissioner A. A. Crissey of the real estate board of the state department of registration and education, yesterday concluded a two day hearing of complaints at Rockford and will move next Monday into quarters at 130 North Wells street to hold hearings all week in Chicago. Thereafter he plans to hold hearings in Moline, Freeport, Danville and Peoria.

Clyde I. Backus, assistant director of the department of registration and education, attended the Rockford hearing, at which agents and members of three Chicago real estate concerns were questioned and scores of complaints recorded.

Arrest Chicago Realty Man.

The hearing resulted in arrest for John Warner, partner in the firm of Todd & Warner, 105 West Monroe street, who went to Rockford from Dubuque to testify. Warner, whose company has branches in Rockford, Freeport, and Aurora, was held in the Winnebago county jail at Rockford last night, unable to provide $10,000 bail to cover two charges of selling real estate without a license.

Lillian Tierney, former saleswoman for the Herbert E. Graves organization, 100 West Monroe street, testified that Todd and Warner, acting as brokers for the Graves concern on a Waukegan subdivision, were paid as high as 50 per cent commission on sales. Miss Tierney said prospective purchasers of the Waukegan development were promised a resale and profit of 25 to 50 per cent within six months.

Questioned About Contract.

Another witness was Joseph I. Musliner, former agent for the H. Roy Berry company, 77 West Washington street. He was questioned regarding a contract alleged to have been given to Mrs. Marie L. Gross of Rockford guaranteeing her $3,000 within twelve months for a lot sold to her for $1,875. An alleged photostatic copy of the contract was produced at the hearing.

John Van Algort and S. B. Schosberg, Chicago salesmen scheduled to appear at the hearing, failed to do so.

"This investigation is no reflection on the general real estate business as conducted in Illinois," Mr. Backus said. "It seems, from our investigation, that a few of the less reputable Chicago firms, having exhausted their lists in the city, have begun to prey on the more gullible small town business men and in some cases on aged persons of no business acumen.

Tells Workings of Plan.

"The practice of these concerns seems to have been uniform in that they opened a subdivision and with the sales contract offered another document represented as a contract. In this second document, the company appears to have agreed within a specified time to assume the obligation to resell the property involved at a substantial profit for the customer.

"While this practice savors of fraud, the department of registration and education will not undertake to prosecute offenders. We are interested only in revoking the licenses of concerns following such methods."

Mr. Backus indicated he would invite the coöperation of state's attorneys in counties where hearings will be held, with a view to having criminal proceedings instituted where convictions are deemed likely.

"The difficulty in prosecuting such cases is that complainants are reluctant to have their credulity exposed in open court," Mr. Backus said. "Publicity of an impersonal kind helps to bring cases of fraud to light."

Railroad Shopman Found Shot to Death in Garage

John Woytko, 53 years old, 10316 South Lawndale avenue, an employé of the Galewood shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, was found shot to death early this morning in the doorway of a garage at the rear of 2106 North Mason avenue, where he kept his automobile while at work. The police were unable to determine whether Woytko had been slain by holdup men or by enemies.

Call 60,000 Chinese; War Clouds Gather

LONDON, Aug. 16 [Friday].—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Mukden, Manchuria, this morning said that Chang Hsueh Liang, governor of Kirin district and son of the late Marshal Chang Tso Lin, had ordered 60,000 Fentien troops to the Siberian border. Field Marshal Wang Shih Chen was to command half with western headquarters at Manchuli while Gen. Ho Yu Kwan would establish eastern headquarters at Suifenho.

Report Further Clashes.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Further reports of fighting with soviet troops on Chinese soil came tonight. The government was informed from Harbin that soviet troops at Lankianghsien, Siberia, at the confluence of the Amur and Sungari rivers last Tuesday attacked Chaohsinhsien on the south and Chinese bank of the Amur. After several hours of severe fighting the soviets withdrew. Russia was also alleged to be moving troops along the Amur toward the Sungari river where soviet gunboats had appeared.

A Japanese Rengo agency dispatch from Manchouli tonight said "a Chinese-Russian encounter on a fairly big scale occurred west of here late yesterday. The Chinese artillery constructed a shelter trench and is now stiffly opposing. The telephone line which for weeks has been the only means of communication between China and Russia, has been severed."

The same agency quoted an official of the foreign office as saying, "Although the situation along the Manchurian frontier is tense, the Nationalist government is resolved not to change its attitude nor to concede the soviet demand. Any soviet invasion of Chinese territory will be opposed by force of arms."

Moscow Remains Calm.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—The Manchurian crisis continues to develop steadily—almost, it seems, inevitably—toward war. The Moscow public learned today what insiders knew for some time—that the southeastern Siberian frontier is the scene of constant skirmishes as White guard forces raid into soviet territory in an attempt to cut the Amur railroad or threaten Blagovestschenk, the "Dawson City" of the Siberian Klondike.

The Moscow public has received the news calmly. Confidence in the Red army is so great that no one seems to fear any derangement of national life. Since the army's reorganization on a territorial basis matters are simple and the partial mobilization already carried out in eastern Siberia did not stir a ripple west of the Lame Baikal.

Official soviet circles make no attempt to disguise the gravity of the situation, although they try to emphasize the fact that the raids and skirmishes are not the same as war, which they still hope may be averted at the eleventh hour.

But there is ominous significance in the manner in which the news is presented by the press. The Pravda—Lenin's Pravda, the Kremlin's voice—runs a six column scare head across the front page: "Insolence of Chinese generals increases with each day."

China's Envoys Return.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 15.—Three Chinese delegates, Chu Shaoyang, representing Nanking interests, and Tsai Yung-hsien and Li Shu-kun, representing local Manchurian interests, returned to Harbin this afternoon from Manchouli, near the Manchurian border.

Chinese Deport More Russians.

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Harbin dispatches of the Rengo News agency tonight said the roundup of malcontent soviet employés of the Chinese Eastern railway was being carried on relentlessly by Chinese authorities.

YOUNG BANDITS HOLD UP CAFE ON MICH. BOUL.

In plain view of passing motorists three youthful bandits early this morning held up the La Salle cafeteria, 324 North Michigan boulevard, herded Joseph Bennett, the manager, four other employés and Patrick Lynch, 8355 South Ada street, a customer, into the basement and obtained $125 from the cash drawer and the six men.

A passing taxicab driver saw the holdup and summoned Policemen Michael Daly and Paul Moldenhauer, who rushed to the place. As they entered two of the robbers jumped through a window and fled. The policemen cornered the third robber, who threw down his gun and surrendered. He gave his name as George Grauer and said he lived at 1021 North Ashland avenue, Evanston.

Sergt. Andrew Carroll's squad took charge of Grauer, and a few minutes later arrested the other two robbers at 632 North Clark street. The gave the names of Robert Arnold, 810 Cass street, and Edward Waldron, living at the McCoy hotel on West Madison street.

VEERS COURSE AFTER CROSSING RUSSIAN BORDER

Ship Unable to Fly Over Moscow.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A Kovno, Lithuania, dispatch to Telegraphen Union at 11:10 a. m. (5:10 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time), said the Graf Zeppelin was nearing the Ural mountains at about the center of the mountain chain.

BULLETIN.

MOSCOW, Aug. 16.—Friday.—(U. P.)—The Graf Zeppelin flew over the city of Vologda, 260 miles northeast of here, at 4:55 a. m. (9:55 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time) today. The ship was flying in a northeasterly direction.

MOSCOW, Aug. 16.—[Friday.]—[U.P.]—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, speeding across Russia to Tokio on the second leg of its flight around the world, altered its course slightly early today and passed north of Moscow.

Dr. Eckener, commander of the big ship, decided not to fly over the soviet capital because of adverse winds. He headed for Vologda, far to the north. The Zeppelin was reported passing north of Moscow at 2:20 a. m. [7:20 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time].

The dirigible crossed the soviet frontier at the town of Bigosovo, in the Dvinsk [Duenabur] district yesterday at 2:20 p.m. Chicago time.

Shortens Distance to Urals.

It was scheduled to fly over the soviet capital about dawn, but officials were informed that weather conditions had compelled Dr. Eckener to change his route slightly. The change of course also will shorten the distance to the Ural mountain range considerably.

Vologda is 260 miles northeast of Moscow and about 560 miles from the point where the dirigible crossed the soviet border. The Graf Zeppelin, with favorable weather, should reach there shortly after dawn.

Throughout the day the big ship had made steady progress. It was sighted by many cities after leaving Friedrichshafen about dawn. Beginning at Berlin, it was one hearty reception after another along the route. The big ship in steady succession passed the cities of Stettin, Schivelbein, Pomerania, the free city of Danzig, Koenigsberg, East Prussia; Tilsit, where it left German territory, and Dvinsk, Latvia, near where it crossed the frontier into soviet Russia. The dirigible is estimated to have averaged about 60 miles an hour.

ALONG THE ROUTE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—The Graf Zeppelin, which left Friedrichshafen at 4:30 a. m. today, appeared over Berlin at 10:30 a. m. [4:30 a. m., Chicago daylight saving time], flying low and very smoothly.

Its visit nearly cost the lives of four when in a frenzy of joy at sight of the proud airship a few enthusiasts leaped from the crowded roofs of houses and fell to the streets. Factories stopped working, schools were closed, and offices were empty. The streets, roofs and balconies were jammed. One man racing after the airship tried to shove a moving street car out of its path. The street car won and the man joined the four roof enthusiasts in the hospital.

Friedrichshafen Prays.

In Friedrichshafen immediately after the start of the Zeppelin hundreds went to church at early dawn. Churches of all denominations were thronged with worshipers praying for their airship and their men.

Frau Manz, mother of the Zeppelin's cook, later confided her anxiety.

"Poor Otto" [her son]. "He was quite worried. The water is so strictly rationed that there will be almost none for washing the dishes. Capt. von Schiller told the passengers just before embarking that they would have to be most careful regarding water, and advised them to do without shaving at least until they reach Tokio."

To Nelson Morris of Chicago this is somewhat consoling. Not allowed to make the trip at the last minute, despite his $9,000 ticket, he good humoredly laughs:

"At least I will be able to wash. Nobody will be able to ration my water or soap."

He is leaving for Paris tonight.

Passes Over Stettin.

STETTIN, Germany, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Making steady progress on her flight to Tokio the world girdling Graf

Zeppelin passed over Stettin at 12:10 p. m. [6:10 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time], headed for the coast along the Baltic.

After leaving Stettin the Graf Zeppelin was expected to swing eastward toward Danzig. She covered the distance from Berlin to Stettin, about 90 miles, in an hour and forty minutes at an average speed of about 55 miles an hour.

60 Miles an Hour Over Pomerania.

SCHIVELBEIN, Pomerania, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, rapidly approaching Danzig, passed over Schivelbein at 1 o'clock this afternoon [7 a. m. Chicago time], en route to Tokio.

Schivelbein, which is in northeastern Pomerania, is about 55 miles from Stettin. The Graf had covered the stretch in fifty minutes or at a slightly better average than sixty miles an hour.

The Graf was cutting across Pomerania and it was apparent that she would not skirt the Baltic coast except—perhaps just before reaching Danzig.

Koenigsburg Radios Greetings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KOENIGSBERG, East Prussia, Aug. 15.—At 4:15 p. m. [10:15 a. m. Chicago time] the Graf Zeppelin arrived over this town from Danzig. It flew over the latter city at 3 o'clock [8 p. m. Chicago time]. The entire population here was out waving greeting to the giant ship. Mayor Lohmeyer sent a radio saying:

"The capital of the province of East Prussia, which was cut off from its fatherland, sends you greetings. The Zeppelin is a link between us and incites us to exert powerfully our determination to become reunited."

After describing a big loop over the city, the Graf disappeared in the distance. It was flying about 60 miles an hour.

Reports from Danzig indicate a similar enthusiastic reception. The senate of the Danzig Free State radioed a hearty welcome over the territory. The Zeppelin dropped a German flag over the former German city

The latest weather reports, radioed to Dr. Eckener while flying over Koenigsburg, were somewhat unfavorable. Gales are sweeping the Baltic and Finland northward to the sixtieth degree of latitude and the depression spreads over Russia, extending even beyond the Ural mountains. The weather here is squally, with low visibility.

Leaves German Soil.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TILSIT, East Prussia, Aug. 15.—Shortly after 5 p. m. [11 a. m. Chicago time] this town saw the Graf Zeppelin disappear far in the distance, heading directly for Memel and Russian territory. When the airship was first sighted here all church bells started ringing and while it was circling over the town factories were blowing their whistles and jubilant crowds stood on the corners to catch a sight of the big ship. The dirigible left German soil here.

Cross Soviet Frontier.

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin crossed the soviet frontier near Dwinsk at 9:30 p. m. [2:30 p. m. Chicago time].

Japanese Warships on Alert.

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—[U. P.]—The Japanese admiralty today instructed the naval stations at Yokosuka, Maizuru and Ominato to keep warships in readiness to assist the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, en route to Tokio from Germany, in the event of a mishap when the Graf reaches Japanese waters.

BARE FIGHT FOR PATENT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The steadfast persistence of Dr. Eckener, German commander of the Graf Zeppelin, over a period of seven years in seeking a United States patent on a "rigid airship with gas cells" is shown in the complete record of the case, made public today by the patent bureau.

Dr. Eckener set forth thirteen claims for separate cell devices preventing destruction of dirigibles by fire and lightning when he first filed application for patent, Nov. 27, 1922. His basic idea was to insulate inflammable gas by separate cell of noninflammable gas.

Five times his claims were rejected by the patent board, on the ground that two English, two French, and two American patents embodied his various ideas, and that, therefore, he had no invention. After each rejection Dr. Eckener filed amendments. Final rejection was made Oct. 12, 1927, and he appealed.

A hearing was held before the board of appeals on Jan. 28, 1929, and after a favorable decision on March 12 Dr. Eckener amended his application in accordance with the decision of the board. He was at last allowed patent on three of his thirteen claims on April 8.

ROBBED BY CHANCE ACQUAINTANCE.

A chance acquaintance who offered to drive him to his home Wednesday night robbed L. T. Moore, 104 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, of $20, a watch, and a cigaret lighter. Police caught the stranger as he was about to board an elevated train. He gave his name as Phillip Battaglia, 25 years old, 1154 Ohio street.

WIND PREVENTS TEST OF YANKEE SCHNEIDER PLANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 15.—Still waiting for an obscure breeze that will enable him to take his Schneider cup candidate plane up and out over Chesapeake bay, Lieut. Al Williams spent his time today fretfully watching for an on shore breeze that will veer around to meet his plans. Davis S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, today called on Lieut. Williams at the naval academy here and inspected the plane and assured him that he will have the complete coöperation of the navy for the Schneider cup races to be held three weeks hence.

British Entry Circles Bremen.

CALSHOT, England, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Flying Officer Atcherley, making a practice flight for the Schneider cup competition flew over the steamship Bremen as it was steaming up the Solent today. He flew twice around the liner making two steep banks and flying low in front of the bow when making a landing. The passengers of the Bremen had a good view of the plane during the 20-minute flight.

Announce Italy's Pilots.

ROME, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Italy's aviation team of six pilots for the forthcoming Schneider cup races in England was announced today by the ministry of aeronautics. Three of the pilots will be chosen for the race on the eve of the contest, the other three remaining in reserve. The members of the team are Capt. Joseph Motta, Capt. Albert Canaveri, Lieut. John Mnoti, Lieut. Remo Cadringheri, Marshal Thomas Dal Molin, and Sergt. Maj. Francis Agello.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 15.—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE party of airmen, crew of the lost 'Untin' Bowler, were entertained this afternoon during a stop of a few hours in Winnipeg by members of Railway Traffic association, the royal air force and Press club. Illinois bands also serenaded them at their hotel before their departure. They left at 6 p. m. for Minneapolis where the day will be spent. They leave there for Chicago on Friday night.

TRAFFIC POLICE FOR AIR PLANNED BY COUNTY BOARD

Coroner's Jury Asks Step to Stop Accidents.

Elimination of flying field death traps by the enforcement of air laws and the adoption of accident prevention regulations under the guidance of a county air supervisor was recommended yesterday by a coronor's jury investigating the deaths of a pilot and his woman passenger at a west side airport on July 21. Four aviators, headed by Maj. Reed Landis and Maj. R. W. Schroeder, served on the jury at the invitation of Coroner Bundesen.

They recommended the employment of a county supervisor for three months to clean up the present situation. President Cermak of the county board has offered to provide for the salary from his contingent fund. Maj. Landis is to select an aviation expert for the job.

Will Examine Airports.

The duties of the supervisor were set forth in six accompanying recommendations. He is to instruct county and other police on air laws and make a personal examination of airports, giving his finding to the aviation advisory committee of the county board for submission to the board and the legislature.

Unsafe fields and aircraft should be forced to cease operation or meet standards set by the supervisor. He is to require all fields to meet or exceed federal rating requirements, and see that the county has its quota of government inspectors.

Suggests Field License.

The jury suggested that airports should be licensed for a nominal fee before being allowed to operate. The license would require the field to meet certain minimum requirements and infraction of regulations might be curbed by closing the port until conditions were bettered. Fines might be imposed for violations, Maj. Landis explained.

Coroner Bundesen was urged to continue careful study of all air accidents to determine their cause and suggest means of prevention. The coroner immediately sent letters to all police officials asking them to guard wrecked machines so that information which might explain the accident cannot be destroyed by meddlers.

Blame Pilot for Crash.

The jury placed the blame for the accident on Akers field, Grand avenue and Wolf road, on the pilot, Jens Jensen, who was killed with his passenger, Miss Hilda Schanfelberg, 21 years old, 1842 Milwaukee avenue. A second passenger, Miss Pauline Taylor, 28 years old, 120 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, was injured. The verdict found that the plane was unfit for service and that Jensen was not licensed to carry passengers.

The jury also found "that Irving Akers, operator and proprietor of the airport from which Jensen flew on this and other flights, should be severely censured for his carelessness in permitting a pilot not properly licensed to carry passengers for hire in a aircraft in an air unworthy condition."

Aviation Notes

Three Chicago flyers seeking to break the air endurance record established recently in St. Louis were beaten for the second time by magneto trouble last night. The three—Russell Mossman, Earl Steele and Wilson Herren—brought their "Chicago — We Will" plane to earth at the municipal airport at 7:25 o'clock—a little more than four hours after the take-off. A crowd of about 1,000 persons saw the big Stinson-Detroiter land.

The first effort to crack the 17½ day record failed on Wednesday night, also due to the magneto.

A bid of nine cents a pound for air mail, which is by far the lowest bid ever received by the postoffice department, is made by the Varney Air Lines, Inc., of San Francisco, to carry air mail from Pasco to Portland and Seattle, and from Pasco to Spokane, according to Washington dispatches. Contracts will be awarded within two weeks. Three other bids were by the National Parks Airways, Inc., Salt Lake City, 97 cents a pound; Robert Smith of Portland, Ore., 74 cents; and the Boeing Air Transport company, $1.19 cents a pound.

Flint Grinnell, manager of the Chicago Better Business bureau, yesterday issued a statement declaring that a few fake schools purporting to teach aeronautics are taking thousands of dollars from Chicago youths ambitious to learn flying. Misleading literature leads to an advance payment of from $350 to $650 per person for aviation instruction, Mr. Grinnell said.

Planes of the Interstate Airlines, Inc., an aviation corporation subsidiary operating an air mail and passenger service, flew 316,650 miles during the first half of 1929.

Purchase of a stock interest in Mid-Continental Air Express by the Aero corporation of California, Inc., was announced in Los Angeles yesterday. The amount was not stated. Mid-Continental, affiliated with Western Air Express, plans to open air lines on Aug. 20 between Denver and Kansas City and El Paso. Aero Corporation operates between Los Angeles and El Paso.

The Ohio Seamless Tube company, Shelby, O., announces it will award a silver and bronze trophy cup to the winner of the nonstop race from the Pacific coast to Cleveland, to be held in connection with the national air show.

Power circuits to connect with ground radio stations at fourteen points in seven states are being installed by the Boeing system, which will soon inaugurate a continuous voice communication between pilots and planes on the 2,000 mile air span between San Francisco and Chicago.

Lay Cornerstone of New St. Francis' Hospital

The corner stone of the new $500,000 addition to St. Francis' hospital, on Ridge avenue in south Evanston, was laid yesterday with ceremonies directed by the Rev. P. L. Bierman, pastor of St. Nicholas' Roman Catholic church. The new wing will contain a chapel, a nuns' home and equipment for 100 patients.

4 CANAL BRIDGES LEFT UNFINISHED; TIE UP HIGHWAYS

Dempster Street Blocked to Traffic 9 Months.

For more than nine months motorists have been denied direct egress from Evanston on its principal westward highway, Dempster street, because of the financial stringency resulting from the extravagance of sanitary district trustees under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe, former president.

Dempster street is a forty foot concrete highway joining Waukegan road, Milwaukee avenue, Rand and Higgins roads and the Northwest highway. It is blocked to motor traffic because the construction of the new Dempster street bridge at the district's north shore channel was halted about Jan. 15 by the sanitary district's shortage of funds. Before construction work was stopped the street had been closed for two months. An expenditure of $75,000 would complete the bridge.

Church Street Bridge Held Up.

For the same reason the bridge at Church street is held up, and motorists are compelled to detour via Emmerson street. Bridge crossings from Devon avenue northward for nearly three miles are, for the most part, either unsatisfactory or blocked. Motorists may cross a temporary wooden bridge at Touhy avenue, although the approaches are rough. A temporary wooden bridge has been built at Devon, but the old bridge is still in use.

There is a narrow bridge at Main street across the channel and another crossing at Oakton avenue, but there is a stretch of a mile and three-quarters from Main street north to Emmerson street without a single bridge across the channel.

Contracts Let Before Election.

Before the election last November contracts for the four bridges at Devon avenue, Touhy avenue, Dempster and Church streets were awarded to the O'Brien Brothers Construction company for a total of approximately $600,000. The contracts were awarded by the now defunct "department of permanent plants and structures" which flourished under the Crowe régime. Construction ceased on all four bridges in January.

Although an appropriation ordinance was passed, effective June 30, by the sanitary trustees, the clause applying to the bridges was knocked out because no specific application of the moneys was made. Construction is expected to be resumed by Oct. 1, according to Walter E. Beebe, attorney for the sanitary district, after the district trustees appropriate funds next month.

Urges Survey for Two Level Road System in Chicago Area

BY HAL FOUST.

Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the council subcommittee on two-level streets and separated grades, yesterday proposed that Gov. Emmerson's road committee also consider preliminary work on a comprehensive elevated highway system for the metropolitan area.

The alderman made the suggestion in a letter addressed to Frank F. Winans, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the governor's advisers on expenditure of the gasoline tax revenue. Mr. Winans promptly appointed the alderman as a member of the advisory board.

Affects Large Area.

"The elevated highway problem," said Ald. Massen, "is properly a part of the citizens' committee's work because it can not be overlooked in a study of traffic in the metropolitan area. It is also a problem that concerns too large an area to be handled by either the city of Chicago or the county of Cook.

"Questions concerning a comprehensive elevated highway system will be before the next session of the general assembly, two years hence, for enabling legislation. We need specific information, scientific data, to present to the legislators. I suggest a two year survey of the metropolitan traffic area to determine the benefits and to estimate the cost of elevated highways.

"The survey would show the value to commerce and business both within and outside of Chicago to be obtained through better motor transportation facilities. It would show the value of time that is lost by pleasure motorists during the unpleasant delays at grade crossings of our present highway system.

Thinks Value Dwarfs Cost.

"A thorough study, I am certain, would prove the economic value of an extensive elevated highway system notwithstanding the large cost of such an improvement. The governor's commission may not be in a position to direct such a survey. But it could recommend that the state make the study.

"The state highway department will be adequately supplied with funds from the gasoline tax. I believe it is now generally conceded that the original official estimates on total revenue were low. With so much money for highway construction, it is likely that there will be a comfortable surplus from registration fees for projects not on the gas tax road building program."

PILOTS TAKE OFF FOR REFUELING HOP ACROSS U. S.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—N. B. Mamer and Art Walker hopped off at 5:58:10 p. m. [Pacific time] today in their Buhl plane, "Spokane Sun God," on a nonstop Spokane-San Francisco-New York-Spokane endurance flight.

Mamer hopes to set a new goal for loaded commercial planes by making a transcontinental round trip refueling flight. The flight may become an attempt to break existing endurance and long distance flight records, Mamer said, if he returns safely to Spokane. The pilot has intimated he may attempt the transcontinental route again, or may fly over northwest territory until forced down. With him went an official barograph of the National Aeronautic association.

The flyer stated that he hoped to demonstrate possibilities of commercial aviation by showing that a commercial ship could make a faster flight by refueling in the air, and that it could stand the stress of such a long flight while fully loaded.

BRITAIN HANDS ULTIMATUM TO HAGUE PARLEY

Demands Allies Decide on Claims Tomorrow.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, Aug. 15.—Impatient over the delay in replying to his demands for a greater share of the German reparations under the Young plan, Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, fired another ultimatum today at the financial commission of the international conference to liquidate the outstanding problems of the world war.

The delegates of the four powers, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan, following a conference, announced tonight that they were solidly opposed to raising the British share of the German indemnity, and therefore rejected Mr. Snowden's demands. The delegates of the four powers met again late tonight in an effort to avoid a definite rupture of the conference.

Snowden's Ultimatum.

The ultimatum from Mr. Snowden which precipitated this new crisis was in the form of a memorandum to President Houdart of the conference, saying that he expected the financial commission to be ready Saturday to answer Great Britain's demands for redistribution of the reparations under the Young plan.

"The British government maintains the position announced at the opening of the conference," wrote Mr. Snowden, "and will insist on reallocating the annuities Germany pays, giving Great Britain justice and fair consideration of its sacrifices."

Italy Refuses Cut.

The collection taken up yesterday by the four powers in an effort to make up the $10,710,000 per annum increase demanded by Mr. Snowden by reducing their own portion was not successful. Although Mr. Snowden indicated a willingness to accept a $8,830,000 increase in the British share, the four powers got less than $1,750,000 by passing the hat among themselves. Italy was the chief obstacle. Senator Antonio Mosconi, Fascist finance minister, insisted that Premier Mussolini would not permit a further reduction in the Italian share.

Premier Jaspar made an offer on behalf of Belgium, and M. Loucheur pledged that France would give 52 per cent—its proportion under the Spa agreement—of anything the others give.

The French had hoped to raise $6,000,000, expecting that Mr. Snowden would accept this compromise, but unless the four powers get together tonight and tomorrow the conference seems to be doomed on Saturday.

Rhine Evacuation Nearer.

Meanwhile, Premier Briand of France has practically completed his conversations with staff officers relative to evacuating the Rhineland and it is expected the French premier will announce Saturday that the poilus will be ready to begin to withdraw from the occupied territory before the end of the month.

It is generally agreed that Dr. Stresemann, German foreign minister, will be informed that the Young plan is to be adopted before the conference breaks up, in so far as Germany is concerned, so the German government can begin its new reduced scale payments, which are $119,000,000 below the Dawes plan, on Sept. 1, as the Young plan provides.

Then the allies will postpone the problem of distribution of the indemnity among themselves until after the league of nations assembly ends at Geneva the latter part of September. Premier Briand is hopeful of inducing Prime Minister MacDonald to state the British demands when they meet at Geneva next month.

BIG MALE DRESS REFORM RUDELY JOLTED IN CANADA

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 15.—[U.P.]—The great male dress reform wave came to an abrupt stop here today when Edward Kahrns, Ontario's leading reformer, tied up with the head waiter of a leading hotel.

Mr. Kahrns presented himself at the door of the main dining room in his new outfit. He was dressed partly like a big game hunter and partly like a child at the beach.

"We do not admit persons without coats," said Henri Maillard, while several of the largest bus-boys sidled insinuatingly close. "Much less do we admit persons without collars, ties, socks or trousers. I am very sorry. You may go away somewhere and disrobe." Seen later, Mr. Kahrns said, "Dress reform is futile. I am through crusading."

James C. Roop Sworn In as Director of Budget

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Col. James C. Roop, Chicago banker, today took the oath of office as director of the budget. The oath was administered by H. W. Stutler, assistant chief of the treasury appointments division. Roop, the third person to hold the position, succeeded Gen. Herbert M. Lord, who resigned recently to enter private business. Charles G. Dawes, now ambassador to Great Britain, was the first director, with Lord serving as his assistant.

ONCE 'BAD' DOODY GETS JAIL HOUSE BLUES; CAN'T EAT

Not a Hunger Strike; He Just Feels Sad.

Little Willie Doody, the fire eater of gangland up to his capture last Tuesday, lost his appetite yesterday. Willie was, O so blue, in his cell at the federal building, and after he had twice refused food a report spread that he had started a hunger strike. It developed, however, that Willie just felt too discouraged to eat.

Postoffice inspectors, who have Doody in charge pending a habeas corpus hearing today, expressed alarm, however, that their small prisoner would starve himself to death, and thus cheat justice. After vainly tempting the bandit with offers to buy him any choice viands he might select, they succeeded in getting him to drink some coffee, which they diluted liberally with milk, getting some calories into Willie in spite of himself.

He Talks Again of Suicide.

"I just don't feel like eating," said Willie, scoffing at the idea of a hunger strike. He repeated his dark threats of suicide.

Doody did a little talking yesterday to Chief of Detectives John Egan. He told Egan where the automobile he had used in the last two months could be found. The police recovered the car in a garage at the rear of the home of Michael Gleason, 5423 Gladys avenue, who said he rented the garage to Doody on July 27.

Tells of Eluding Police.

The car had been stolen from Don O'Brien, 5121 Emerald avenue, on June 15, and the license plates were also stolen. Doody said he had been at Winters, Wis., a month when detectives and postoffice inspectors made a futile dash to the summer resort on an anonymous report that he was in hiding there. According to his story, Doody saw the detectives and escaped in his car.

Peter Dominick, 25 years old, boyhood companion of Doody, and for whom Doody pleaded with Deputy Commissioner Stege on Wednesday night, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a robbery charge. Dominick was identified by Ernest Taylor of the Y. M. C. A. hotel as one of two bandits who took $20 away from him on Tuesday night.

SMASH CAPITAL'S "BIGGEST LIQUOR RING"; ARREST 8

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Government officials believed that they had smashed the largest liquor ring ever operated in the national capital with the arrest of eight men today and apprehension of four others imminent.

Six of the eight men surrendered voluntarily, one of them the owner of two garages and proprietor of a rent-a-car service.

The garages, owned by Herbert Glassman, were held by officials to have been the distribution center for the liquor brought in by trucks and automobiles under convoy.

Glassman, with three others, was released on $5,000 bond.

1,000 Cars in Week

Illinois peach growers shipped more than 1,000 carloads of the fruit through Chicago to the nation's markets in the last week. This was announced by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce yesterday. Of this total 338 carloads were routed through here on Wednesday, and before the season ends on Sept. 1 a total of 3,700 carloads will have been packed and shipped. A basket of the choicest peaches, weighing on an average of 10½ ounces each, has been sent to President Hoover for the White House breakfast table.

WOMAN LEAVES STREET CAR, IS KILLED BY AUTO

Miss Helen Fuchta, 26 years old, 3132 South Racine avenue, was fatally injured last night when she was struck by an automobile at 31st street and Racine avenue. Frank Cozzo, 21 years old, 3657 South Hamilton avenue, whose car hit Miss Fuchta, drove around the left side of a Halsted street car from which the woman had alighted, according to the police. He was arrested.

This death and two others raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 531. The other victim:

Zilman Volgamatt, 15 years old, 2709 Miller avenue. Killed when he was struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle at Halsted and 190th streets.

Walter Michalek, 20 years old, 2969 Lime avenue. Killed when the automobile in which he was driving plunged over an embankment at Archer and Narragansett avenues. Harry Francis, 21, 2613 Wallace street; John Dartczyk, 19, 3756 South Hermitage avenue, and Edward Staszak, 17 years old, 2816 Throop street, were injured. Francis and Dartczyk suffered fractured skulls.

IRONWORKER ON RAMPAGE STARTS NIGHT CLUB PANIC

A husky ironworker's threat to beat up a night club manager "on his own dance floor" for an alleged insult to his fiancée, a former entertainer in the club, created a near panic last night at the "10 West Chicago avenue" establishment.

James P. Kane, 32 years old, 2801 Seminary avenue, was arrested with a revolver in his possession when frightened patrons called police after Kane charged through the place in a vain search for Wallace Rogers, the proprietor. The girl, Miss Olive Hart, 22 years old, 5338 North Clark street, fled when Sergt. John O'Toole and his detective bureau squad arrived on the scene.

According to Kane's story, his fiancée quit her job several days ago and, as she left, was abused in vile language by Rogers. She reported it to Kane, who bought a revolver and took her to the club to have it out with Rogers. He said he did not intend to shoot the proprietor, but to have his fiancée hold the gun while he "beat him up."

SLAYER OF WIFE ENDS LIFE NEAR MURDER SCENE

Stabs Self with Same Knife; Child Safe.

The body of Clarence Flener, a garage mechanic, 31 years old, and that of his wife, Flora Eva, ten years his junior, last night lay side by side in a morgue in West Chicago, Ill., outside the village limits of which Flener on Wednesday stabbed his wife to death and then killed himself. Flener's body was found about 100 feet from the place at which he killed his wife. It was plain, according to the police, that he had severed his jugular vein and then plunged the knife with which he had killed his wife twice into his own heart.

Flener's body was discovered early yesterday by Roy Carey, who, with his brothers, Ted, Harry, and Joseph, had joined a posse that was hunting for Flener in Du Page county. The dead man, Carey said, was sprawled in a clump of weeds at the foot of an oak tree and the knife lay near his right hand.

Ends Life Just After Murder.

The coroner said Flener had been dead almost 24 hours and that he must have taken his own life almost immediately after killing his wife.

The discovery of Flener's body came as detectives in Chicago sat in the home of Mrs. Charles A. Hubbard at 1120 Addison street, where Flener last Monday had left his 3 year old daughter, Dorothea, after kidnaping her from her mother. It was thought Flener had fled after murdering his wife and the detectives were waiting for him to come to the child. Instead, as they waited, word came of the discovery of his body.

Has Child Since Monday.

Mrs. Hubbard earlier had telephoned the police she had the child. She said she had read of Mrs. Flener's murder and of reports that Flener might have killed the little girl also. Flener, she asserted, brought the child to her on Monday after he took it from his brother's home at 625 Sibley street, where the girl and her mother were staying. She said that Flener instructed her to see that the girl wanted for nothing.

Relatives of Flener said he had threatened to kill his wife and kill himself. They said there will probably be a double funeral in the next few days.

The inquest into their deaths will be held at the undertaking rooms at 15 Depot street, West Chicago, at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Blame Friends of Robber for Cleaning Shop Bomb

Intimidation of one of the owners by friends of an alleged habitual criminal now held without bail in the county jail was assigned by Englewood police last night as the motive for the bombing of the Supreme Cleaners and Dyers shop at 916 West 57th street, early yesterday. Raymond J. Nurre, part owner, said he had been active in the prosecution of John Rafferty, 22 years old, 5327 South Carpenter street, whom he identified as a robber. Rafferty's friends, Nurre said, have threatened him several times in an attempt to force him to accept a money settlement and drop the case.

FETE ROSENWALD TONIGHT; FINISH HOUSING PROJECT

Julius Rosenwald, founder of the $3,000,000 Michigan Boulevard Garden apartments, a model housing project for Negroes, will be the principal guest at a dinner to be held at the Standard club tonight in celebration of completion of the project.

One hundred leaders in the enterprise will attend the dinner. Announcement was made that 98 per cent of the five storied block of apartments at Michigan avenue and 46th street has been leased.

The project occupies an entire block, of which only 40 per cent is occupied by buildings, the remainder having been laid out in gardens, walks and playgrounds. There are 421 apartments in the structure. A nursery school for training children, with two instructors, is another feature.

Mr. Rosenwald received the Austrian government's grand insignia of honor yesterday afternoon at the Mid-day club, awarded in recognition of "valued services rendered" by promoting industrial museums in Europe. The gold medal, bearing a white swastika cross and the country's flag, was presented by former Judge Michael F. Girten, Austrian consul. Mr. Rosenwald has donated funds for the rehabilitation of the old Fine Arts building to house an industrial museum in Chicago similar to those made possible by him abroad.

Next U. S. Move Will Be Grand Jury Action.

Federal prohibition enforcers departed from East Chicago, Ind., yesterday after a two day stay in which they arrested 108 persons, including Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, Police Chief James W. Regan and Attorney Lester Ottenheimer, Republican leader. Thirty-five warrants were still to be served in the steel mill town, United States Attorney Oliver Loomis of South Bend announced.

The prosecutor, who declared conditions in East Chicago were such as to call for martial law, said there would be no other federal activity in East Chicago until Aug. 28 or 29, when a federal grand jury will be impaneled. He refused to say whether other raids will be made on a wholesale scale in the Calumet region, but his remarks indicated that other cities of Lake county, Indiana, may expect federal intervention if conditions are not immediately improved.

Other Communities Warned.

It was thought that the raiding in East Chicago had served as a warning to nearby communities and that dry law violators had taken cover. Mr. Loomis would not say whether the corps of 150 prohibition agents used in making buys and doing the raiding had purchased liquor in any other northern Indiana towns.

Mayor Halt left for Montreal yesterday without having commented on his arrest. A statement was given out at his office to the effect that he would not abandon his campaign for reelection this fall but that he would continue as the Republican nominee and would be in the race until election day.

Hunt Deportation Evidence.

United States immigration inspectors continued their investigation of the status of the prisoners, seeking evidence on which to base deportation proceedings. They reported that communistic literature was found in many of the homes and beer flats raided by the prohibition agents.

ENGLISH COTTON MILLS WILL HUM AGAIN ON MONDAY

Workers and Operators Fix Arbitration Court.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Lancashire cotton stoppage is over. The deadlock ended tonight when representatives of the employers and operatives met in Manchester for the first time since July 27 and greed on the terms of reference of the arbitration court to be set up to settle the cotton wages dispute. The mills will resume work Monday at pre-stoppage wages and rates until the court of arbitration has delivered judgment on the application of the employers for reduction.

The result was announced late tonight after an all day conference lasting 11 hours between the employers and operatives' representatives. Meanwhile, today actually saw several mills reopen, and the general opinion in Lancashire now is that all the mills will be working again Monday or Tuesday.

Peace Delights Lancashire.

The early report of tonight's decision was received with delight everywhere in Lancashire. The settlement was then confirmed just before midnight by Sir Horace Wilson, permanent secretary of the labor ministry, who acted as mediator.

Announcing the terms of the settlement, Sir Horace Wilson said that the employers and operatives pledge themselves to abide by the award of the arbitrators. The board of arbitration is to consist of two persons nominated by the employers, two by the operatives, and an independent chairman to be mutually agreed upon, the chairman to have full powers as umpire in the event that the other members of the court are unable to agree.

The stoppage, which closed 1,500 mills, began on Monday, July 29, and has lasted two and a half weeks. It was caused by the employers' demand for a 12½ per cent reduction in the operatives wages.

Industry Long in Trouble.

The stoppage was the culminating disaster after a long period of trouble. Following a brief post-war boom came years of ever-increasing depression, resulting in heavy losses for the mill owners and short-time work with consequent loss to the workers in wages. The question of wages reduction was raised several times, but the threat of serious trouble was averted.

The climax came when the employers gave notice of the proposed cut, pleading that only by reduction in production costs could foreign competition effectively be met. Half a million cotton workers refused to accept the proposed reduction or even the principles of reduction, their case being that wages were already too low.

Negotiations were opened, but broke down, owing to the determination with which both sides held to their particular viewpoints.

With the stoppage ended, Sir Horace Wilson is arranging to leave for Canada on Friday, as he had arranged, in order to meet J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister of unemployment.

TINY VENEZUELAN NAVY MOBILIZED AGAINST REBELS

Old Gould Yacht Acts as Flagship.

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PUERTO CABELLO, Venezuela, Aug. 15.—The old Gould yacht Atalanta, which was purchased by Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, is now the Venezuelan cruiser Mareschal Sucre, of 12,000 tons, and the navy's pride. The former yacht with the Venezuelan gunboat Maracay and the 800 ton cruiser General Salom, sailed towards Ucomare, 30 miles east of Puerto Cabello on the coast, and there 700 troops got aboard to move against the rebels.

The government has here as well the small gunboats Brien, 29 de Enero, Jose Felix Ribas, and Miranda, getting ready for any emergency. The government owns an efficient floating dry dock and shipyard here.

Try to Bomb German Steamer.

It is reported that the army plane commanded by the French instructor, Capt. Gurin, making for Cumana, Venezuela, made a forced landing at Barcelona, Venezuela. Capt. Gurin's objective was to bomb the tramp steamer Falke, flying the German flag.

The National Steamship company's steamship Guarico, with 500 troops, is advancing towards Cumana also.

The steamer Falke left Danzig on July 1 loaded with ammunition and with documents for China, but it changed its course on the high seas, making for Venezuela, obviously chartered by the rebels.

Pirate Crew in Dispute.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The German steamer Falke, denounced as a pirate ship by the Venezuelan government, was in port here today, with officers and crew divided among themselves as to the propriety of their aid to revolutionists who attacked Cumana, Venezuela, Sunday.

Cornelius Van H. Engert, American charge d'affaires at Caracas, advised the state department that the Venezuelan government had requested all maritime powers to proceed against the German steamship Falke as a pirate vessel, as a result of its alleged participation in the attack on Cumana.

DYERS' INDUSTRY SAYS IT'S PURGED OF RACKETEERS

Imported Cleanup Chief Tells of Campaign.

Racketeering is declared to have been eliminated from the cleaning and dyeing industry in Chicago, following several months of effort by the Chicago Master Cleaners and Dyers' association. This was announced yesterday by C. L. Patterson, the executive secretary imported by the organization to do the job.

A new set of officers and directors holds sway now, Mr. Patterson said, in the offices of the association at 1618 South Wabash avenue.

Mr. Patterson was brought to Chicago through the aid of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the United States Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of fighting the racketeers who were said to have dominated the industry.

Tells of War on Rackets.

"When I came to Chicago six months ago I found that 75 per cent of the men in the industry were absolutely clean," Mr. Patterson said. "I found that another 20 per cent of them were indifferent, and that the remaining 5 per cent consists of racketeers or men willing to deal with racketeers.

"I discovered that this 5 per cent was dominating the industry, fixing the prices, and running things with a hard hand. I determined then that these men would have to be eliminated if we would clean up the industry and we have now eliminated them.

"Not one of the old officers or directors remains. The new board and officership are composed of the outstanding men in the industry and these are now running the industry in a clean way. The racketeers are gone and they will never get their grip back again for we will fight them to the last ditch."

Statement Is Corroborated.

G. L. Hostetter, executive secretary of the Employers' association, which long has fought the cleaning and dyeing racketeers, corroborated in a large measure what Mr. Patterson said.

"I know that serious attempts are being made to rectify the unwholesome conditions that heretofore have prevailed in the cleaning and dyeing field," Mr. Hostetter said. "The attempt centers in Mr. Patterson, a man of known integrity, whose employment as executive secretary of the association was accomplished through the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"We bespeak all coöperation for Mr. Patterson."

LAKES HARBOR BODY TO BOOST ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY PROJECT

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Great Lakes Harbor association which has waged a fight against the Chicago water diversion, will now devote its efforts to boost the St. Lawrence waterway project and help develop harbors and administration of ports on the great lakes, William G. Bruce, Milwaukee, said in his president's message here today at the opening of the eighth annual convention of the association.

While emphasizing that the association led opposition against the Chicago water diversion, he made it plain that the organization is not opposed to the Mississippi waterways project from the great lakes to the gulf of Mexico.

Bruce, who has served as president since the organization eight years ago, has announced his retirement.

ask a "just and reasonable" return, to be fixed by the local transit commission. The city has asked that there be an agreed rate of return on the present investment of approximately $260,000,000, and new capital at cost, with a reward added for economy and efficiency in service.

The new committee is to collect information and advice on which view is the better and to report its conclusions to the citizens' committee. The city's view has heretofore been presented by Walter L. Fisher and Ald. Frankhauser [49th] and supposedly supported by other aldermen.

McDonough Hits Citizens' Plan.

Ald. McDonough [13th] indicated yesterday that he is not wedded to the city idea. He said: "I believe that the people are intensely interested in good service, extensions and the lowest practical fare. Therefore, I want a valuation on the properties that represents only actual investment. How the bonds and stocks shall be apportioned among the present security holders does not concern me.

"I will do my best to safeguard the public, but I appreciate that at the same time the people who put up the money must be treated fairly. If there isn't a fair return, the new company will not have any credit. They will have to have credit, if they are to get money for extensions. I am anxious to hear what the financial experts will suggest."

COURT REOPENS DOG TRACKS BY NEW INJUNCTION

Officials Are Warned to Respect Writ.

Dog racing was reopened last night following an injunction issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher restraining the state's attorney, the sheriff and the police from interfering with the three tracks where the hounds chase the mechanical rabbit and the betting is under the so called certificate system.

Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office waited till 6 o'clock last night for orders whether to raid the betting booths as he had done on three other occasions. State's Attorney Swanson was out of the city and his first assistant, John E. Northup, would announce no decision, so Roche sent his staff of raiders home subject to call if the prosecutor decided to ignore Judge Fisher's injunction, as he had on the previous occasions.

Reinstates Old Injunction.

Judge Fisher reinstated the temporary injunction which Judge George Fred Rush dissolved when attorneys for the dog racers sought to have Prosecutor Swanson, Sheriff Traeger, Police Commissioner Russell and Roche cited for contempt of court for having made the other raids in violation of the injunction originally issued by Judge Fisher. He said he would rule finally on the question of the legality or illegality of the betting system early in September.

Judge Fisher's written opinion contained a warning to State's Attorney Swanson regarding the respect due an injunction. It said that public officials should uphold the dignity of the law as expressed through the mandates of the courts or a condition of anarchy would prevail. The court also expressed his opinion of "pseudo reformers" who urged the state's attorney to violate the previous injunction and who had criticized the court for having issued it.

Master's Opinion Upheld.

The judge's ruling affirmed the opinion of Master in Chancery Max M. Kershak that the legislature, in legalizing the pari-mutuel betting system for horse races, legalized it also for dog races, and that the contrary provision in the statute was unconstitutional. Any doubt, he said, must be resolved in favor of those whose property rights are jeopardized—in this instance the owners of the dog tracks—and, pending a final decision, he forbade any more raiding.

"I appreciate the position that the state's attorney and the sheriff find themselves in," Judge Fisher stated. "Pressure is being brought upon them by pseudo reformers who so far forget themselves that in their fanatical zeal to impose their own and righteous wills upon a sinful multitude would have these officers of the law violate the injunction of the court.

Advises Public Officials.

"These public officials must content themselves with the knowledge that the responsibility for interpreting the law rests upon the courts alone, and that it is infinitely more important to society that the courts' mandates be obeyed than that some form of wagering, the legality of which has been brought in question, should be immediately suppressed.

"Gambling, in any form, was not prohibited by the common law, and its prohibition forms a part of that bulk of statutory laws that are constantly increasing in volume, whose purpose is to rid us of our weaknesses by the strong arm of the law.

"That such laws are necessary in instances of recognized social evils may be admitted, but altogether too often they are carried to such extremes that they become ludicrous, or what is more serious, an alarming menace to the civil liberties of the people."

Judge Attacks Reformers.

Regarding the reformers, Judge Fisher said:

"I have no hesitancy in expressing the opinion that these self-appointed guardians of other individuals' virtues are a greater menace to the happiness and well being of our people than all the gambling indulged in by the citizens of the entire nation."

PAIN AFTER EATING

can be quickly stopped with ACIDINE, the new discovery, because it eliminates excess acid and digests starchy foods. Six out of every ten suffer from starch digesting failure or as Webster's Dictionary puts it "Diastatic Deficiency."

ONLY IN ACIDINE CAN YOU FIND AN EXTRAORDINARY ANTI-ACID PLUS THE EXTRAORDINARY STARCH DIGESTANT "JAPTASE" WHICH DIGESTS 800 TIMES ITS OWN WEIGHT IN STARCHY FOODS.

At the first sign of SOURNESS, ACID, BELCHING, INDIGESTION, BILIOUSNESS, HEARTBURN, GAS OR A FEELING OF FULLNESS, take ACIDINE at once. Immediately your discomfort will vanish.

ACIDINE prevents starchy foods from getting into sour fermenting lumps and at the same time kills excess acid conditions. Potatoes, bread, cereals, in fact all starchy foods are liquified within 30 minutes and pass out of the stomach as liquid dextrin. SEMI-COALITION PROPOSED FOR JUDICIAL RACE

Plan Is Discussed in Both Parties.

Now it's semi-coalition they're talking about in connection with the judicial election.

Out-and-out fusion lost standing with the politicos of both the major parties some time ago, but its proponents apparently have not given up all hope for some sort of protection for the sitting Superior judges whose terms expire. They have suggested a form of compromise between coalition and a battle between two complete tickets.

It hasn't been brought out into the open yet, in fact it hasn't even been formally christened as semi- or hemi- or demi- coalition. But talk of the plan spread rapidly yesterday in both Democratic and Republican camps, the inclination being at least to discuss it as a novelty with all sorts of possibilities.

How Plan Would Work.

The basic idea of the scheme is that neither party would place a complete ticket in the field. Each would renominate its sitting judges or as many of them as the bosses and the conventions determine should be renominated and in addition only as many new candidates as there are places open after the total of the renominees is subtracted from the total of the places to be filled at this election.

The terms of twenty Superior court judges expire. Eleven of them are Republicans. The remaining nine are Democrats. Two of the Republicans, Judges Wells M. Cook and Charles M. Foell, because of their physical condition, probably will not seek renomination. That leaves each side with nine potential renominees for the Superior bench. In addition there are two vacancies in the Circuit court, that of the late Victor P. Arnold and that of John A. Swanson, now state's attorney.

26 Nominees for 22 Seats.

To put it into simple arithmetic, the semi-coalition plan is that each party will renominate nine men for the Superior court, nominate two new men for that bench, and nominate two men for the Circuit court. In other words it would allow each side to give four new aspirants a chance to run in November. Each party would nominate thirteen men, making a total of twenty-six regular nominees for twenty-two seats. Four must lose out.

Advocates of simon pure fusion behind a single ticket in either the Republican or Democratic column or on the ballot are not satisfied with this suggestion, it is said, because it fails to guarantee full protection for the sitting judges. It is pointed out that the added starters would be running against the sitting judges as well as against each other and that some of the incumbents might lose out in the contest.

There is also the fact that the Republican leaders of the old Thompson-Crowe organization are still wrestling with the Eller problem. They hope Judge Emanuel Eller and his father, Morris, will not demand the former's renomination. If Judge Eller should retire from the race it would create an inequality between the parties so far as renominees are concerned.

PUT EVERY ABLE MAN IN BATTLE TO SAVE FOREST FROM FLAMES

Wenatchee, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Every able-bodied man in northern Chelan county was being drafted into service tonight to fight the fire in the 12,000 acre Chelan national forest, which was breaking out anew on the Lake Chelan watershed. Only a rain would control the fire, it was stated.

Pray for Rain; None in Sight.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Pacific northwest was praying for general rains today, without much encouragement from the weather bureau, as armies of forest firemen patrolled miles of smoldering and blackened lands or strove to keep more active blazes from ravaging greater areas of timber.

The fire situation was worse at Sand Point, in northern Idaho, where a steady southwest wind fanned the Pack river fire across four sections of timber. The Bald mountain fire at the head of Sand creek advanced yesterday despite efforts of fire crews to control it. Heavy damage has been done to the Sand Point watershed.

GIRL ACCUSER OF PANTAGES STICKS TO ATTACK STORY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—After a three hour ordeal on the witness stand during which she collapsed and fell from her chair, Miss Eunice Pringle, 17, dancer, was excused this afternoon in the preliminary hearing of Alexander Pantages, vaudeville millionaire, accused of a statutory offense against the girl.

When the strain of the long questioning by the defense caused the girl to collapse near the end of her ordeal she partly fell from the stand exclaiming:

"It was awful—awful," as the defense drew the story of the alleged attack from her.

Denies Love.

The questioning of Miss Pringle revolved principally around her first testimony at the opening of the hearing yesterday in which she recounted the alleged attack. During that examination she fainted twice.

Defense attorneys questioned her closely but were unable to shake the girl's story. She also denied defense questions intimating she had figured in two love affairs involving Mickey O'Neill, a vaudeville actor, and Nick Dunave.

Miss Pringle and Dunave had planned a dancing act and the girl alleged it was during an interview with Pantages in an effort to place the performance on his vaudeville circuit that she was attacked.

Pantages was pale and appeared nervous and rarely looked at the girl. Miss Pringle was composed until she was forced to describe the assault a second time.

She was followed on the stand by W. L. Gordon, who, the state claimed, witnessed part of the alleged struggle.

Gordon, who testified the girl's repeated screams drew him from his office in the Pantages building, declared that as he reached Pantages' office door Miss Pringle's hand was protruding. As he pushed the door open Gordon said the girl half fell out, then ran down the hall screaming for aid.

The witness declared that as he looked in the door he saw Pantages. Then a young woman came behind him, attempting to "reach around me and close the door." Then, Gordon states, a "young man in a blue suit rushed past me into the room, helped Pantages to his feet, and slammed the door." As the Pringle girl ran out, he continued, Pantages said, "Hush; close the door."

Under cross-examination at a night session of court Gordon stated that as he pushed open the door Pantages was hanging on to Miss Pringle's ankle as she tried to escape.

ZONING REPEAL HEARINGS WAIT FOR ALDERMEN

Dust Gathers on Order for Cuneo Inquiry.

BY CARL WARREN.

Prospects for repeal of the zoning ordinance amendment under which John F. Cuneo expects to put up a sixty story tower at Michigan avenue and Randolph street appeared remote yesterday when an inquiry showed that members of the city council contemplate leisurely, if any, action on the matter.

Although the buildings and zoning committee, after finding that it passed the amendment in ignorance of its contents, agreed to start hearings a month ago, Chairman W. R. O'Toole [13th] has called no meetings. William Harrah, secretary, said yesterday that as far as he knew the next meeting would be a regular one, on Sept. 9, while members of the committee expressed surprise at the chairman's inaction, but disclaimed responsibility. Ald. O'Toole was out of the city.

Cuneo Plans to Go Ahead.

Meanwhile, with the amendment remaining in effect, Mr. Cuneo intends to proceed with work on his building and there are rumors that other property owners will seek similar permits.

Barnet Hodes, attorney for Mr. Cuneo, announced yesterday that his client has little fear of an upset in the courts to which a recent decision of the zoning board of appeals, upholding the amendment, probably will be carried. Mr. Hodes said he advised Mr. Cuneo that he "now has a perfect legal right to go ahead," and that Mr Cuneo said he proposed to do so.

The zoning code amendment, now generally known as the "Cuneo amendment," was presented to the council last May by Ald. O'Toole, who said it was handed to him by Attorney Hodes. The amendment authorized the erection of buildings 440 feet high without setback towers on sites bounded by three streets, one 100 feet wife, and across from a park, playground, waterway or cemetery. These provisions fitted the Cuneo site exactly, while buildings on lots not so located still must conform to the old ordinance requiring setbacks at 264 feet.

Amendment Passes Council.

Without a word of discussion the amendment slid through the O'Toole committee and the council, and on July 8, the day it became effective, Mr. Cuneo obtained his permit.

An uproar of protest followed. Officials of the Illinois Architectural society called the amendment "the rankest sort of special privilege."

Then came a special meeting of the buildings and zoning committee, at which one member after another declared that he had never heard of the amendment, although he had voted for it. Demanding explanations for its passage, they were informed by Ald. O'Toole that all had been legal and proper. Thereupon the committee unanimously passed a motion directing the building commissioner to revoke the Cuneo permit. Then it ordered the commencement of hearings the next week with a view to the amendment's repeal.

Hearings Are Not Held.

Building Commissioner Paschen, upon the advice of the city law department, ignored the committee's order as legally worthless, and the hearings have not materialized.

At Ald. O'Toole's home yesterday, it was said that the alderman is spending a large part of his time at his summer home in Michigan City, while at his office a secretary said he is now at his farm at Manteno, Ill.

"What can we do if the chairman doesn't call a meeting?" said Ald. T. J. Bowler [41st], a member of the committee. "I am absolutely opposed to the amendment and will vote for its repeal, but with the chairman and many of the members gone, I doubt if there will be another meeting before Sept. 9.

Others Oppose Amendment.

Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th] made a similar statement, while Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], said that he too opposes the amendment, but just now is busy with transit hearings. Other committeemen were noncommittal.

The members of the committee, aside from those mentioned, are: Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], R. R. Jackson [3d], Sheldon Govier [9th], John P. Wilson [11th], B. J. Zintak [12th], James G. Coyle [17th], Walter W. Morris [18th], O. E. Northrup [19th], W. V. Pacelli [20th], Joseph Cepak [22d], H. C. Van Norman [27th], A. J. Horan [29th], J. H. Smith [32d], Eugene Nusser [36th], Frank Ringa [39th], Joseph C. Ross [40th], Dorsey Crowe [43d], and Curtis F. Mellin [50th].

PAYS ROYALTY TO HOLD POSTOFFICE JOB, WOMAN ALLEGES

Desarc, Ark., Aug. 15.—[Special]—The widow of a Republican postmaster here charged in a suit filed against W. E. Witter, chairman of the Republican county committee, that he has been collecting $10 a month from her for the privilege of serving as postmaster of Desarc.

Mrs. Maro O. Miles, acting postmaster, according to her petition, seeks to keep from continuing these payments to Witter, which she alleges now total $637.50.

Postmaster Miles died in April and his widow was named acting postmaster. The permanent appointment has not been made.

Witter denies the allegations in the suit, although he has not made answer in court. The postmastership here pays $2,000 annually.

PRISONER SPOILS PALATINE'S JAIL DEDICATION PLAN

Palatine will dedicate its new $42,000 city hall and jail next week. Residents who were surprised when the dedication did not take place as scheduled on Tuesday learned the reason yesterday.

Early Monday morning, it was revealed, Village President W. S. Bollinger moved his staff to the new quarters in preparation for the ceremonies. Chief of Police George Henning, thinking it as important to have the jail occupied as the city hall, took his force out Monday night and caught a prisoner.

The prisoner, who gave his name as A. L. Fialka, 43 years old, 1532 West Cullerton street, Chicago, was locked behind the new special composition, nonmalleable, inescapable bars on the windows. But when the day of the celebration dawned the prisoner was gone. And the window was a wreck.

So there will be a dedication as soon as the jail is repaired. Chicago police caught Fialka yesterday at his home and took him to the county jail, charged with burglary and jail breaking.

Youthful Arms Bearer Gives Loop an Innocuous Thrill

Lugging a shotgun in one hand and a pistol in the other, 15 year old Roy Kelleher, 703 South Yale avenue, Villa Park, marched down Dearborn street, scattering loop pedestrians to right and left until at Madison street he encountered Sergt. John Ryan who disarmed him and called a patrol wagon. Amid much neck craning and head shaking at the supposed desperado's youth, Roy was driven off to the detective bureau, but was held only five minutes. The boy identified himself as a messenger for the American Bond and Mortgage company, 127 North Dearborn street, on an errand to a gunsmith for his employer, [illegible] C. Mitchell, who had just returned from a hunting trip.

Court Orders Prosecutor to Return Broker's Books

Records of the brokerage concern of J. B. Greenfield, who was recently named in five indictments for embezzlement, were ordered returned to the company yesterday by Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Attorneys representing Greenfield charged that the records were improperly seized by the state's attorney's office in a raid on Greenfield's office at 310 South Michigan avenue. Greenfield is charged with having received $750,000 from customers for the purchase of Trustee Standard Oil shares, which were never delivered.

GOVERNOR SEES 8,000 ILLINOIS TROOPS PARADE

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Illinois National Guard's annual two weeks encampment reached its climax today with the divisional review before its commander in chief, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. The Thirty-third, with its 8,000 men moving like West Pointers, never put on a more impressive spectacle.

"Excellent, wonderful," were the governor's comments as the citizen soldiers marched by under the critical eyes of the occupants of the reviewing stand. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the sixth corps area, called the division one of the finest bodies of state troops he ever had seen.

Gov. Emmerson, Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, and members of the governor's staff were escorted to the parade grounds at 10:30 o'clock this morning by the Black Horse troop. Gen. Parker, motoring here from Chicago, entered the camp at 9:25 o'clock and was greeted with a salute of 15 guns. He was escorted by the Black Horse to Maj. Gen. Keehn's headquarters.

Half an Hour to Pass Stand.

Planes circled over the field as the guardsmen, arms and uniforms spotless, put on their brilliant show in the presence of thousands of cheering spectators.

"Governor's day," which was marked by perfect weather, was a succession of demonstrations which revealed the division to be in a high state of efficiency.

Early in the afternoon there was a demonstration of modern warfare, with infantry, aircraft and tanks in action. Later the aviators of the 108th observation squadron put on a thrilling air circus for the commander in chief. Led by Maj. Merrill D. Mann, the six planes were put through daring loops, dives, spins and barrel rolling.

Likens Them to Regulars.

Gov. Emmerson said he was surprised by the efficiency shown by the guardsmen in spite of the highly commendatory reports he had had of them. He remarked upon the improved physical appearance of the camp and declared it ranked with the finest army posts in the country.

"These citizen soldiers compare very favorably with regular army troops in the precision with which they maneuver and in their general appearance," said Gen. Parker. "It reflects great credit upon the ability and efficiency of their commanders."

Among the guests present for the day were Col. Charles J. Craft, commanding the 202d C. A. C. (anti-aircraft); Lieutenant Commander Charles J. "Daddy" Schick, Capt. Edward A. Evers, commanding the U. S. S. Wilmette; David E. Shanahan, speaker of the house of representatives; Senator Herman Haenish, Gen. James E. Stuart, W. H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission; W. Rufus Abbott, Gen. John V. Clinnin, Henry R. Lundblad, Nathan William MacChesney, Charles W. Hadley, William H. Stewart, Chicago; Judge Oscar E. Heard, Freeport; Charles E. Hadley, Wheaton; Paul Kuhn, Batavia; Martin R. Carlson, Moline, president pro tem of the Illinois senate; Julius Johnson, Moline, and Mrs. George Bell, widow of the wartime commander of the Thirty-third.

Gov. Emmerson remained at camp tonight until after the divisional boxing and wrestling championships had been decided and presented the medals to the winners.

Tomorrow brings the conclusion of the two weeks' training period. The troops will entrain for home Saturday.

SNOOK'S COUNSEL SEEK NEW TRIAL; SAY JURY BIASED

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Attorneys for Dr. James H. Snook, who yesterday was found guilty of murder in the first degree of Theora K. Hix by a jury of 11 men and one woman, announced today that the fight to save Snook from the electric chair had "just started."

The attorneys, E. O. Ricketts, John F. Seidel and Max Seyfert, stated they will file a motion for a new trial on the ground that one or more jurors was unduly influenced by outside sources while the trial was in progress, that the entire jury was prejudiced and biased when it was seated, that the verdict was not justified by the law and testimony, and that the outburst of applause following Chester's final argument was "planted and planned" in order to influence the jury.

Attorney Ricketts said his motion for a new trial would be filed before Saturday. Judge Henry L. Scarlett set Monday, at 10 a. m., for the hearing on the motion. If it is overruled Judge Scarlett will sentence Dr. Snook then to die in the electric chair in 100 days. Ricketts and his co-counsel expressed confidence that a reviewing court would reverse the findings of the Common Pleas court. Plans already are being made to take the case to the Court of Appeals.

FASCISTS' BOAST OF SCHOOLS IN U. S. "FANCIFUL"

Federal Officials Refute Propaganda Claim.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Reports published in Rome last Saturday by Piero Parini, secretary of Fascist organizations and activities in foreign countries, showing tremendous progress of the Fascist propaganda campaign among Italians in the United States, were branded by federal officials today as a fanciful statement, probably intended for domestic consumption.

Cabled dispatches from Rome to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE quoted Sig. Parini, who works under the immediate direction of Premier Mussolini in the Italian foreign office, as claiming in his reports that 35,000 students are registered in schools in the United States and Mexico maintained by subsidies from the Italian government.

The reports also claimed that Sig. Parini's department has established 22 colleges in the United States to carry on the program to "foster patriotism, and pride in Italy among Italian citizens" in this country.

Figures "Unbelievable."

Officials of both the federal immigration bureau and the bureau of education asserted Sig. Parini's figures were "so astonishing as to be unbelievable," and declared that a propaganda campaign on a scale involving the establishment of schools and colleges could not possibly be undertaken without attracting their attention. It is probable, they agreed, that in order to make an impressive report of progress, Parini may have counted as potential Fascist propaganda agencies and schools maintained in Italian districts as well as classes in Italian are literature and history in American universities and colleges.

"If there were any such schools in the United States as Sig. Parini claims, some of them undoubtedly would have applied before now, for the sake of prestige, for certification as schools for the education of immigrant students under the 1924 immigration law," declared Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband. "And so far as I know there is not what could be known as an Italian school among the 1,391 accredited institutions on our list."

Fascists Have Few Followers.

Mr. Husband added that during the last year only 13 Italian immigrants who gave their occupations as teachers were admitted to the United States, while 16 Italian teachers returned to Italy. The assistant secretary asserted, as evidence, he said, of the failure of Parini's propaganda campaign, if it is actually operating here, that the most accurate figures now available indicate only about 30,000 of the approximately 3,500,000 Italians now resident in the United States are claimed as members or sympathizers by the Fascist or anti-Fascist groups in this country.

At the bureau of education it was asserted that so far as is known the Italian government is not subsidizing any schools in the United States nor are there any schools or colleges in this country preaching or teaching Fascism to Italian-American students. Likewise, the officials of both bureaus asserted they were unaware that, as claimed by Sig. Parini, Italian-American students are making annual pilgrimages to Italy under the auspices of the Fascist League of North America to study with young Fascists at summer camps and schools, where they are urged "to spread the cult of their nationality" when they return to the United States.

EX-PAY ROLLERS OF CANAL BOARD QUIZZED ON JOBS

More than 60 payrollers of the Sanitary district during the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday to fill out questionnaires about what work they performed for their salaries. Fifteen of the former district employes were taken before the grand jury to verify under oath the truth of their statements.

The investigation of the old sanitary district régime had been dormant for several months, since Attorney Frank J. Loesch stepped out of the inquiry to take a position with the crime commission appointed by President Hoover. This intermission has apparently given a majority of the payrollers courage to say they worked faithfully for their money, according to one of the men connected with the new investigation. During the original inquiry many of them admitted doing little or nothing for the pay received. Most of those questioned yesterday said they inspected water meters. A few admitted that they had spent most of their time in political work. More payrollers will be questioned today.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt have arrived in Tokio where they will remain a week, visiting old friends of the late President Roosevelt. The colonel will return to the United States via Honolulu where the Washington administration has asked him to investigate certain immigration problems.

Col. Roosevelt is thin, but looks well, and has completely shaken off the effects of tropical fever from which he and his whole party suffered in Indo-China. He said that from a scientific viewpoint, the expedition's hopes were fully realized. Specimens of several varieties were obtained by means of which the study of natural history in America will be greatly enriched.

MINISTER HEADS SWANSON'S NEW YOUTHS' BUREAU

The Rev. Charles A. Gage, a Methodist Episcopal minister, was appointed yesterday to head the youth's service bureau which State's Attorney Swanson announced he would establish soon after his election last December. He will have headquarters in the prosecutor's county building office.

DR. CHAS. A. GAGE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

"The desire is to raise the youth of Chicago into a clear brained, clear eyed, open hearted manhood," reads the prospectus for the new bureau which was sent out by the prosecutor in announcing the appointment of Mr. Gage.

Coöperation is to be sought from the commissioner of police, the superintendent of schools, and the juvenile department to make the new bureau successful in its aim to prevent crime and delinquency among the youth of the city.

WOMAN ESCAPES PROSECUTION FOR LIQUOR ON MARGO

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—There will be no prosecution of liquor or customs charges against Mrs. Louis Mendelssohn of Detroit as the result of the seizure of the yacht Margo, it was learned here today, after District Attorney J. R. Watkins had spent the day in conference with department of justice and treasury officials in Washington.

Officials said they were content to let the case rest with the $30,000 penalty assessed against Mr. Mendelssohn before the yacht was returned to its owner, Burt A. Massee of Chicago, by federal authorities.

The view of the officials is that there is no need to invoke the Jones law or drastic penalties in the Margo case. They do not believe that the Margo or Mrs. Mendelssohn were in any way involved in liquor smuggling for profit. Although the yacht was chartered by her husband, it was said that Mrs. Mendelssohn had ordered the liquor placed aboard the Margo. It was the discovery of this liquor that resulted in seizure of the boat.

REVALUATION OF RAILS, STOCKS ASKED BY COUNTY

Claim Big Corporations Escape Tax Burden.

By a unanimous vote, the board of county commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution asking the state tax commission to order a reassessment of railroads, personal property, and the capital stock of corporations in Cook county. The resolution was sponsored by President Cermak.

Because of the shift in property values to the suburban towns, brought about by the reassessment of real estate, and the plan of the smaller taxing bodies to cut their rates, the railroads are going to escape with much lower payments this year, the resolution stated. According to Mr. Cermak this means that the suburban home owners will shoulder part of the burden taken off the big business interests.

Cermak Criticizes Malone.

In a speech prior to passage of the resolution, Mr. Cermak criticized W. H. Malone, chairman of the tax commission.

"Mr. Malone has been over here telling us what to do on real estate taxes with the result that the county and other Chicago taxing bodies are facing bankruptcy," he said. "Now, let's toss the kitten back into his lap and find out what he's going to do with other kinds of property."

Mr. Cermak's resolution cited the Western Electric company, located in Cicero, as an example of "gross inequality" in the present situation.

In 1927, according to the resolution, the personal property of the company was taxed at $438,000. The tax rate of Cicero for school, town and park purposes is $5.96 and it is planned to cut this in half because of the increased property values. This, the resolution pointed out, will bring the Western Electric personal property tax down to $250,000 unless there is a reassessment on that type of property.

Cites North Western Depot.

"In contrast to the doubling of values in Cicero," the resolution continued, "an example of the Chicago situation is the North Western railway depot, which is on the books at approximately $7,215,700, and a conservative present value is $21,951,360. Thirty-seven per cent of this or the assessed value will be $8,122,000."

Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to Mr. Malone, members of the tax commission, and to Gov. Emmerson.

Mr. Malone yesterday was in Rockford and could not be reached for a statement. In previous statements, however, he said that all of his attention has been focused on the real estate situation and that he has had no time to consider a reassessment of personal and railroad property and capital stock.

ONLY HORMEL FOODS ARE "FLAVOR-SEALED"

U.S. INSPECTED and CERTIFIED

TO THE FOOD RETAILERS OF CHICAGO

Here is the latest in food.

A revolutionary development—in convenience, in protection, in goodness.

The "open cracker barrel age" is past. The sealed package has given the housewife foods that are always wholesome, sanitary and standard in quality.

Now—WHOLE Chicken may be had in a vacuum-sealed package.

INSPECTED and CERTIFIED by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

And identified by a nationally advertised label.

For two years, the scientists, chefs, and dietitians who developed the Flavor-Sealed Idea have been concentrating on this—another innovation.

"What is the most widely used food which the Flavor-Sealed Idea can improve?" they asked.

"Chicken," was the answer.

"It must be a WHOLE chicken," said one, "not simply chicken meat, but the whole bird, neither cut up nor boned."

"That's what the public has been waiting for," said another, "a whole chicken ready cooked, but one which can be roasted or broiled, fried or fricasseed, in a fraction of the ordinary cooking time, and instantly ready for salads and cold luncheons."

"That's it," said a third, "the Flavor-Sealed Idea—save kitchen time—the heavy labor all done—no more cleaning, singeing and picking pin feathers!"

So the Flavor-Sealed Idea was applied to WHOLE Chicken.

First a selected WHOLE chicken is put in the sterilized tin and vacuum sealed. Then it is cooked, sealed tight, so as to retain all those natural flavors and juices, which by ordinary cooking methods escape in steam and water.

"But," said the dietician, "the housewife wants to see the chicken she buys—she wants to know that she is getting a good, young, tender bird."

"Yes," all agreed, "we must use none but carefully selected milk-fed chickens."

"How will the housewife know that she is getting a healthy bird?"

"Every Flavor-Sealed Chicken will be INSPECTED and CERTIFIED by the U. S. Government."

Thus was Flavor-Sealed WHOLE Chicken conceived. Thus it is produced.

By special arrangement, Government Inspection has been carried to the heart of that great poultry-producing region of the Northwest.

Thus the originators of the Flavor-Sealed Idea brought new-found convenience into the serving of chicken. Thus its natural goodness is protected all the way.

This way, too, you secure the rich jelled juices for flavorful, tempting aspic, soups and gravies.

The more alert and modern food retailer will be quick to adopt this new way of selling whole chicken. The public will be quick to appreciate its goodness—its time and labor saving convenience.

VOICE OF EXPERTS TO COUNT IN NAVY CUT—STIMSON

Says Hoover Will Rely on U. S. Department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The Hoover administration expects to give careful consideration to the views of the naval experts before agreeing to any particular formula for naval reduction, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson indicated today.

Following a luncheon conference with President Hoover, Col. Stimson denied the navy department had been given a minor rôle in the naval negotiations and asserted no move had been made by the White House without first consulting with officers or officials of the navy.

As outlined by Mr. Stimson, the state department and the White House will settle questions of policy which come up during the negotiation of an agreement for reducing the major navies of the world.

Will Listen to Experts.

The navy department, according to Col. Stimson, will be relied on to advise the President as to how certain propositions for naval reduction would affect national defense.

Mr. Stimson indicated no step toward reduction of American naval tonnage will be taken until the experts have had an opportunity to outline how such a cut would affect this country's preparedness for war.

Aside from the officers of the navy general board, all the President's advisers on naval reduction are civilians. Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, is an internationally famous yachtsman, but has no naval experience before he entered the Hoover cabinet.

Cotton Ex-New York Lawyer.

Under Secretary of the State Joseph P. Cotton was a New York lawyer until he accepted a position in the state department at the request of Col. Stimson.

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, who has represented the United States at all recent naval disarmament discussions abroad, heads the naval experts consulted by Mr. Hoover and the state department.

Secretary Adams also confers with Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief executive of naval operations, and Rear Admiral Andrew D. Long, chairman of the executive committee, of the navy general board, when called upon for advice by the President.

Scaffold for Rum Pirate Is Erected by Coast Guard

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Preparations virtually were completed tonight for the hanging here Saturday morning of James Horace Alderman, 50 year old rum pirate, for the killing of two coast guardsmen during a gun battle two years ago. A massive wooden scaffold has been erected in a metal seaplane hangar on the coast guard grounds. Alderman was convicted in January, 1928, of shooting to death Sydney C. Sanderlin and Victor A. Lamby in a sea fight while he was bringing a boatload of liquor from the Bahama Islands to Florida.

FIVE POWER DISARM PARLEY WILL MEET IN LONDON IN DECEMBER

BY WAVERLEY ROOT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The visit of Prime Minister MacDonald to the United States next October and calling of a five power naval conference in London in December are now regarded here as certain.

It is understood that negotiations between Washington and London are progressing so rapidly that the official announcement of an agreement on naval reduction by the two countries may be forthcoming a week from tomorrow, when Gen. Dawes will journey to Elgin for another conference with Mr. MacDonald.

No less a person than the Duke and Duchess of York and Prime Minister MacDonald were admonished today by a meeting of the assembly commission of the Free church of Scotland for breaking the Sabbath.

At Forfar last Sunday the duke and duchess presented ambulance medals, while a month ago Mr. MacDonald talked disarmament with Ambassador Dawes at Forres on Sunday.

The Rev. William Fraser, Scottish minister, remarked that it was regrettable that the Duke of York and his lady would lend themselves to such a thing. He asked the assembly to send a resolution to the duke demanding that "such an insult to Scotland should not take place again."

Archibald Madneilage, another church worthy, said that Mr. MacDonald's talk with Gen. Dawes, as far as he knew, "had not advanced the interest of world peace one iota by taking place on the Sabbath."

The Free church forms a small dissenting body which has refused to join the united Presbyterian church. It has some hundred churches, mostly in the highlands, where they make Sundays really blue. A very austere body, they sing psalms, but no hymns, and do not allow a worldly thing like an organ in their plainly furnished churches.

CHURCHILL SEES PERIL IN BIG U. S., BRITISH NAVIES

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Before any worth while naval agreement can be effected between the United States and Great Britain the United States must recognize certain fundamental differences in the circumstances of the two nations, Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the British exchequer, said here today in an address to the Canadian club. This was his second speech during his present Canadian tour.

"It is obvious there is no parity of conditions between the United States and Great Britain," the ex-chancellor said. "To apply a rigid plan of numerical equality to conditions that are markedly unequal will be extremely difficult in reaching the true goal that Britain and the United States shall be equal powers on the sea."

After analyzing the situation in the light of the 1921 agreement Mr. Churchill reached the conclusion that "if the result of this good will and praiseworthy effort [to reach a rigid naval agreement] were to produce the spectacle of two large and costly navies, the rigid replica of one another, jealousy scrutinized each by the other, it would produce a condition not less vicious than that which attends ordinary naval rivalry."

CALLS U. S. ARMY TOPHEAVY WITH HIGH OFFICERS

House Leader for Hoover Economy Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Hearty approval of the proposal of President Hoover to reduce the cost of the military establishment was announced today by Representative Will R. Wood, [Rep., Ind.], acting chairman of the house committee on appropriations.

The Indiana representative suggested cutting down officer personnel in the army and the sale of "frozen assets" in the shape of war supplies left over from the world war and never converted into cash.

Millions of dollars could be saved to taxpayers, Mr. Wood asserted, if the number of high ranking officers were cut down to army needs and surplus war supplies disposed of.

Consist of 111,000 Men.

"The regular army today consists of 111,000 men in active service with more than 11,000 officers," Mr. Wood said. "It would seem that the officer class is woefully top heavy.

"I give you a concrete example. In time of war one major general will command from 20,000 to 25,000 men. Today in time of peace on the Canal Zone alone, we have 9,000 men with four major generals commanding them, each of these generals with a complete staff. How ridiculous it must appear to the average citizen that if one general could command 25,000 men in time of war it takes four generals to command 9,000 men in time of peace.

"Our coast artillery now exists practically only in name," said Mr. Wood. "Today, with the coast artillery practically obsolete, there is a major general with a full staff complement.

Those Frozen Assets.

"The financial division of the army is a useless appendage. Its duties could just as well and no doubt better be discharged by the quartermasters' department. Yet there is a major general at the head of the finance division with a full staff complement."

Mr. Wood said that while at the Canal Zone recently he discovered $1,200,000 of frozen assets which, he asserted, will not be used in a lifetime and which require an outlay of thousands of dollars each year to keep in condition.

NEW ORLEANS POLICE FORBID MEETINGS AS CITY OPPOSES UNION

New Orleans, La., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Over strenuous objections of union leaders in the street car strike, the police received definite instructions from the city commission council today to enforce strictly the city ordinance placing rigid regulations on the operation of jitneys on the city streets.

To prevent recurrence of rioting such as occurred at the city hall last Tuesday, when the commission council members were mobbed and four persons shot, Superintendent of Police Theodore Ray issued orders to an enlarged police force that no crowds should be permitted to assemble.

The commission council after receiving expressions of regret from union leaders over the beatings administered to them at the city hall still held themselves in readiness to seek a solution of the strike trouble and joined with state and federal courts in their efforts to punish those responsible for starting the riots.

Capiases were being served today on four men charged with inciting the city hall riot. Among the defendants was John T. Banville, a member of the general committee of labor who signed a formal expression of regret to the council for the occurrence. In Federal court, sentences ranging up to 6 months were imposed upon those found guilty of violating the federal injunction protecting the street cars, for stoning cars and beating members of the nonunion crews.

Give Negro Pastor 10 Days of Grace in Church Fight

The Rev. Isaac A. Thomas, pastor of the Second Baptist church (colored) of Evanston, was given ten days in which to close up his affairs and leave the church by Circuit Judge Fisher yesterday. The pastor was ousted by a vote of his congregation, conducted by Master in Chancery Korshak, after a petition for an injunction to restrain Thomas from conducting the church had been filed. The judge upheld the vote and issued the injunction.

HUCKINS SAYS HE'LL GIVE UP TO U. S. TODAY

But 26% Financier Still Is in Hiding.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Elmer S. Huckins, Hancock, Wis., and Milwaukee "mystery financier," promised today through his attorney to surrender here tomorrow on a federal warrant charging use of the mails to defraud.

E. J. Koelzer, federal assistant district attorney, received a phone call late today from Walter J. Barngrover, the Cedar Rapids, Ia., lawyer, who represents Huckins, saying that he would bring his client to Milwaukee tomorrow.

Meanwhile nothing was known of the present whereabouts of the former grocer, who is reported to have induced small investors to loan him approximately $3,000,000 under promise of 26 per cent interest. His son, George, associated with him in his mysterious operations, also has vanished.

Reports from Hancock, where federal agents were seeking the elder Huckins to serve the fraud warrant, said that he had left his $100,000 home there in a hurry Tuesday afternoon and was seen driving south in a fast car.

The federal fraud warrant is the outgrowth of the mysterious operations, said to be a cigar business, conducted by Huckins and his son, George, in which they have been borrowing huge sums.

Waukegan, Ill., authorities today arrested a man resembling Huckins there, but the suspect was found to be a Milwaukee salesman. Investors have begun to come to the office of John H. Leenhouts, assessor of incomes, to explain why they have not reported their Huckins' dividends in their tax returns. All maintain they had been told that it was not necessary.

RITCHIE OF MARYLAND ON STATE RIGHTS.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland spoke at the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia, discussing the position of his state with regard to national prohibition. Maryland has no state enforcement law, being, therefore, one of the states considered anarchistic or rebellious by the prohibitionists. Maryland, said its governor, is not a nullifier of the constitution. It submits to the enforcement of a federal law, by federal authority, which it regards as a nullification of constitutional rights formerly supposed to be imperishably guaranteed the citizens of the country.

These rights included trial by jury, immunity from illegal search and seizure and from double jeopardy, protection in person and property from illegal acts, etc. The action of congress and of sister states had alienated these rights and liberties, but Maryland was not resisting. It merely refused to write in its own laws the provisions of federal law which it held to be inconsistent with the principles of American government. To insist that there was a moral duty upon the state to do otherwise and to violate its own principles in its own laws was absurd. It was enough that it submitted to such violation by federal law.

It was an appropriate occasion and a proper place for Gov. Ritchie to dispose of the fallacious axiom that the way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it. He could remind his southern auditors that they had not rid themselves of the Negro suffrage amendments by enforcing them but by resisting them and finding legal fictions by which they could make them inoperative. They could not live and govern themselves as they wanted to under these amendments. They resisted and avoided them. They had an experience with them when military force applied them, but they had been able to fight their way clear and now each state controlled its own destiny as the whites of the state wished to control it.

The states have always resisted and evaded laws which offended their principles or their consciences. They began doing it when they were colonies and resisted the stamp act, the tea tax, and other acts of parliament seeking to tax them. Northern states resisted the fugitive slave act and prided themselves upon the moral quality of that resistance. Blue laws are in many state codes and are forgotten. The Mann act has been virtually amended by the department of justice and the practice of United States district attorneys in refusing to prosecute under it.

Maryland has not nullified the eighteenth amendment and has not resisted the Volstead act. It has not found a legal fiction by which it can prevent the enforcement of national prohibition. It resists the moral compulsion which would require it to have a state law which it considers bad in both conception and consequences.

"We have tried to nationalize prohibition," said the governor, "but if we ever get anything worth while we must democratize the whole subject and each state must be free from the coercion of the other states. I see no other way out of the wilderness."

The defense of liberties in the history of the republic has gone at various times from one party to another. Jefferson, a Democrat, inspired and directed the fight against the autocracy of the Federalists endeavoring in the time of Adams to suppress opinion, destroy free speech, put down opposition and restrict popular democracy with the sedition act, an act which destroyed them. Lincoln, a Republican, organized the government which put down the slave owning autocracy which had made it treason to refuse to help a federal officer in pursuit of a fugitive slave and unlawful to petition congress for the abolition of slavery.

The country is now in the period of its third great autocratic attempt upon the liberties and rights of individuals and upon the essential principles of American government. Gov. Ritchie, a Democrat, raises one of the best reasoned protests against this. His reading of history is accurate and his conclusions are consistent. It will be such a leader who in the end will take the country out of the wilderness into which it has gone by leaving the road of its own experience and its own real purposes.

A RANK SMELLING PROCEEDING.

The zoning board of appeals has found that the proposed Cuneo tower at Michigan avenue and Randolph street is not in violation of the zoning code. Lawyers who spoke for certain property owners in the neighborhood intimate that an appeal is to be taken to the courts. Self-interest will no doubt dictate the policy of those who believe they have been discriminated against; but if they appeal, they will have the added motive of defending the public interest.

The Cuneo tower, as approved by the zoning board of appeals, is to rise to a height of 440 feet from the sidewalk without a setback. Other buildings may rise to a height of only 260 feet without a setback. The exception in favor of the Cuneo site and a limited number of others in Chicago was made in an ordinance which slipped through the zoning committee of the city council and the council itself with a minimum of discussion.

Mr. Thompson's zoning board of appeals has now indorsed the work of the city council over which Mr. Thompson presides. The ordinance which seems destined to disturb the orderly growth of the city and mar the sky line of the central area was passed without a word of protest or inquiry. None of the recognized experts on architecture, zoning or the city plan were consulted or even advised of the proposal. The proceeding is a threat and a rank offense and should be defeated.

GAS TAX DIVIDENDS.

The advice which the governor received from his committee on road planning for the metropolitan area seems to have been well conceived. The committee was assigned to prepare a prospectus of highway improvements in the Chicago neighborhood to be financed from our share in the gas tax revenue during the biennium. The speed with which the committee completed its work and the judgment the members displayed in selecting the most obvious improvements for first construction are appreciated, especially by the motorists of the community.

When Gov. Emmerson appointed the committee he charged Chicago with the first responsibility of getting a return for our contribution to the gas tax and getting it quickly. That responsibility we have now discharged and the state will deserve the credit or it must accept the blame of administration. The first funds from the fuel tax will be available for road construction on Sept. 1. Mr. Sheets of the state highway department intimated that if the plans for the Chicago district were ready at that time the highway program would be initiated this season. We hope that the state will keep to this agreement.

The months of open weather which remain this season are the most valuable in the year for road building. Ambitious builders can make these days productive in the neighborhood of Chicago, where the construction or widening of any stretch of road brings such important relief to traffic. It is especially important that the grading for much of the road work be laid before winter, for, if the material must be permitted to settle, it is obvious that the winter is the suitable time for the process. Then the surfacing may be completed early for next season's traffic.

Chicago will be measurably compensated for the discrimination it suffers under the gas tax system if our share of the proceeds finance immediate construction of judiciously chosen highways.

BIGGER AND BUTTER PRESIDENTS.

The management of the coming world's fair is considering the suggestion of a Parisian sculptor to build an Avenue of the Presidents in Grant park. All of them, from Washington to Mr. Hoover, would be represented in heroic bronze. There they would stand in their bronze pants and frock coats long after the exposition buildings had crumbled to dust.

This is a splendid suggestion, thoroughly civic in its appeal to the artistic sensibilities of the community. Moreover, it is practical. Offhand we can think of nothing which would prove a greater attraction than the opportunity to gaze at more-than-life-size representations of Rutherford B. Hayes and Chester A. Arthur.

Unfortunately, the suggestion is likely to meet the opposition of certain thin blooded esthetes. Knowing them as we do, we are convinced that they will be caustic in their criticism and wiser than ever in their wise-cracking. They will suggest—indeed, one of them has already suggested—that the statues be erected around the fish house.

Under the circumstances we believe a compromise is indicated, as the doctors say. Let the statues be molded in butter. Butter is, perhaps, a little less civic than bronze, but we must not for a moment forget that the dairy industry is worthy of recognition in this great central market for farm produce. Each visitor to the Avenue of the Presidents might receive a slice of bread spread thick with his favorite President (5 cents) or a bun, similarly treated (10 cents). The sculptors could be kept busy throughout the period of the fair, carving new statues each morning. Every one, including the esthetes, would be happy, and that, after all, is what the fair is for.

The Other Side

BIGGER WATER THEFTS MOOTED.

[Toronto Globe.]

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has assigned Mr. Arthur Sears Henning to write another series of articles to bolster up public approval of the Chicago water theft. That writer has approached his task with determination. He is attempting to prove not only that Chicago has the right to steal enough water to save the expense of a modern sewage system, but also the right to divert enough of the precious fluid to create a deep waterway and ship canal from Chicago to the Mississippi valley! When it comes to sheer hardihood, few will deny the palm to Chicago. But, unfortunately for Big Bill's domain, hardihood is not enough.

THE TRIBUNE's writer fills columns with dark-sounding phrases hinting at the sinister motive behind the navigation and power interests' opposition to Chicago's theft. He struggles through a complicated argument and attempts to prove that Chicago's diversion really lowers lake levels no more than the water conservation works at Sault Ste. Marie or the power turbine water containers at Niagara.

The argument may sound all right in Cook county, but it will hardly make an impression on Canada—the joint owner of the St. Lawrence water now being stolen.

Every Canadian schoolboy knows that the works at Niagara make no difference to lake levels; that the Niagara channel is merely made deeper in one part and shallower in another. All the water goes back where nature meant it to go. And every schoolboy knows that water runs out a hole in a pail. The Chicago hole in the pail has done enough harm in the past. Canadians will hardly sit by and see the hole enlarged.

HER MONEY'S WORTH.

As the old lady strolled through the park she was accosted by two grubby little urchins.

"Mornin', lady," remarked the taller of the two. "Me brother does fine imitashons, lady. Give 'im a penny an' 'e'll imitate an 'en, lady."

The old lady fiddled with her purse and eventually extracted the required sum.

"There you are," she smiled. "Now, what will he do? Will he crow?"

"Naow," replied the urchin, with a withering grin; "'e don't do cheap imitashons of that sort. 'E'll eat a worm."—Ex.

CREEPING ERUPTION WORMS

THERE is a very annoying skin disease which goes by the name of creeping eruption. This disorder is due to a worm which bores its way through the tissues just beneath the skin, causing a peculiar eruption which progresses in jagged lines, day by day. The itching is intense, especially at the progressing end of the mole run in which the worm is located.

I heard once of a drummer traveling by automobile, who picked up a back full of these worms. As he traveled along one day his machine sputtered and stopped. It needed some tinkering from below. The drummer pushed it to a nice cool, moist, grassy spot on one side of the road, stripped to the waist, crawled underneath and lay on his back while he tinkered. When he had finished the job he went to a nearby stream, washed up, dressed, and drove into town. A week later his back looked like a canebrake crisscrossed by cowpaths.

Drs. Kirby Smith, Dove, and White have seen more than 3,000 such cases. They have proved that the cause is a hookworm somewhat related to the hookworm of man. However, this hookworm lives in the digestive tract of dogs and cats. The eggs and young worms are deposited in the soil, and there they stay until there is a chance to get into another host. They can live only in moist soil, and they prosper only in warm weather. The best soil for them is one containing a considerable amount of sand, as well as warmth and moisture.

The measures of prevention recommended by Drs. Smith, Dove, and White are: not to go barefooted; not to wade in ponds, pools, or streams; not to let the skin touch the soil; not to sit on the ground; and not to crawl under buildings. It would be wise to limit the supply of dogs and cats, particularly those of the alley or stray variety. Pet dogs and cats should be treated for hookworm from time to time.

Of 160 patients investigated, 56 thought they contracted the disease at home; 34 ascribed the infection to lying on the beach; 18 were infected by wading; 4, by crawling under buildings; 2, in playing football; 2, from working while lying flat under automobiles, and others in miscellaneous ways.

The disease prevails in warm, rainy weather. It is not fatal nor even serious, though it is very annoying. The treatment recommended consists in locating the progressing end of the tunnel, and freezing the skin there for a distance of about one square inch. It is kept frozen about two minutes. This kills the worm. The local after treatment is such as the inflammation and infection calls for.

CAUSE OF BLIND STAGGERS.

M. L. D. writes: Will you please explain the cause of so-called blind staggers, i. e., right half of vision is blurred and blotted by zigzag streak lasting about ten minutes and getting more intense each minute. It clears suddenly, leaving one with nausea and severe headache. Are bad tonsils and teeth a cause?

REPLY:

My guess is that the attacks are due to migraine. If so, it is not likely that the condition of your teeth and tonsils is responsible. The cure for migraine is not easy.

MAY HAVE VARIED CAUSES.

Mrs. M. G. writes: What causes the ankles to swell during the day? In the morning they are normal. I am 74 and seem to be well except ankles swelling, especially the left one.

REPLY.

There are several causes. Among them are organic disease of the kidneys, heart, or liver; disease of the veins of the legs, such as varicosities, wearing tight garments, hot weather. Many people have swelling of the feet, especially in the summer time. The condition of the kidneys, heart, and liver should be investigated. If these are normal the condition is not of great importance.

THERE IS LITTLE DANGER.

E. L. Q. writes: Is it possible to get any kind of disease from bathing in a tub that is used by several people, apparently in good health?

REPLY.

No.

GYPPED ON WAGES.

Chicago, July 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A maid employed by a certain party at a certain agreed salary has been unable to collect her full wages. Whom may we consult regarding this?

W. A.

An Illinois statute authorizes recovery of attorneys' fees on wage claims but the fees commonly allowed by the courts were hardly adequate to induce attorneys to conduct such small cases in reliance solely on the fee to be allowed. If you are unable to get an attorney to undertake your case, you can apply to the legal aid bureau of United Charities.

INVALID AFTER 7 YEARS.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—Does a person who entered the United States legally in 1902 and who has declared intention of becoming a citizen, but who has failed to apply for his second papers, have to file an application for a certificate of arrival? More than seven years have passed since intention was declared. I understand that those who entered the country previous to June 29, 1906, have no need of certificate of arrival.

S. P.

1. Yes.
2. A declaration of intention is invalid seven years after its date.
3. Under the act effective July 1, 1929, a certificate of arrival is necessary regardless of the date of arrival.

LEGAL DRIVING AGE.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How old does a person have to be to drive a machine?

J. S.

Section 31 of the motor vehicle law is as follows: "No person shall operate or drive a motor vehicle who is under fifteen years of age, unless such person is accompanied by a duly licensed chauffeur or the owner of the motor vehicle being operated." This state law supersedes city ordinances on the same subject matter.

TOURING.

The hum of motor beneath my feet,
Long ribbons of silvery road,
And a gay little face so near to mine.
(On a honeymoon à la mode.)

The trees swing back to watch us pass,
Seeming to curtsey low.
A whirl of dust and a sign "detour"—
(My dear, I told you so!)

A clutter of houses . . . a store or two,
The rush of a farmer's cat,
The shout of a village constable,—
(My word, what town was that!)

The distant spire of a country church,
The passing flight of a finch,
A flutter of hens on the roadway's edge,—
(I missed that one by an inch!)

A brook to cross by a willow row,
A field of golden grain,
The spatter of clouds in an azure sky,—
(Dear me, do you think 'twill rain?)

Another road . . . another town . . .
One swiftly stolen kiss,
Then on . . . and on . . . and on . . . and on . . .
(Good gosh, what State is this!!!)

"Marvelous, Mr. Holmes," Said Dr. Watson; "How in the World Did You Find All That Out?"

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle had an adventure of his own the other day when he rushed into his burning house down near Southampton in England and saved a lot of books and papers out of his library. "Ah," said Sherlock Holmes, looking keenly at Sir Arthur: "Your coat is burned in several places, you have black smudges on your face, you are carrying books which are still burning around the edges; it is quite plain that you have been cooking marshmallows at the campfire of the Girl Scouts." "You go to hell," said Sir Arthur very peevishly. "I was frying eggs over a gas jet."

MILDRED LEE, 11 YEARS OLD, AND HER FATHER JAMES R. LEE WERE KILLED BY AUGUST LOTTNER, CUSTOMS INSPECTOR, WHILE THE LATTER WAS PATROLLING THE DETROIT RIVER. LOTTNER DROVE HIS SHIP INTO LEE'S BOAT AT A SPEED OF 40 MILES AN HOUR DESPITE CRIES FOR HELP, LOTTNER REFUSED TO STOP HIS CRAFT.
THE FEDERAL COURT ASSUMED JURISDICTION IN THE CASE, AND ALL THE FORCES OF THE GOVERNMENT CAME TO LOTTNER'S DEFENSE. THE DRY AGENT PLEADED THAT THE KILLING WAS ACCIDENTAL, ALSO THAT LEE WAS KNOWN TO BE A BOOTLEGGER. WITNESSES TESTIFIED THAT THERE WAS NO LIQUOR IN LEE'S BOAT.

AUGUST 16, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—The New Orleans Era says Admiral Farragut chose a noble position in going into the Mobile bay fight, and maintained it throughout all the terrible firing. Desiring at once to overlook the enemy and watch the movements of his own fleet, he ascended to the maintop of the Hartford and was there lashed fast. A speaking trumpet was run down to the deck and an officer stationed at the lower end to receive and pass on the admiral's orders.

CHICAGO.—William Bross of THE TRIBUNE returned from the Army of the Potomac on the 13th, having found it impossible to recover the body of his brother, Lieut. Col. J. A. Bross, commanding the 29th colored volunteers, who fell in the repulse of Petersburg. Through a rebel major, Mr. Bross learned that a sergeant of his brother's command who had been captured by the enemy had found Lieut. Col. Bross' body the farthest inside of the rebel works and had buried it in a carefully marked grave.

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Burnside has been relieved of command of the 9th corps. The military commission appointed by President Lincoln to investigate the causes of the failure of the assault on Petersburg has heard Burnside's version of the affair. He claimed that he carried out the orders of his superiors and that neither he nor the officers of his command are to blame. Gen. Meade insists that Gen. Burnside did not carry out his orders.

CAIRO.—On the 13th the Ohio river steamer Clara Poe, bound for the Tennessee river with two barges of government stores, was attacked by a rebel force estimated at 700, four miles below Shawneetown. The Clara Poe escaped, but the steamer Kate Robinson was seized and used by the rebels to cross to the Illinois shore, after which they burned her. The confederate raiders caused the utmost consternation and the people were flying before them. It is learned that Gov. Yates and Gen. Carrington at Indianapolis are sending forces of returned veterans to meet the invaders.

FINANCING LOW FARES.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—On the advice of our bank we invested our savings in Chicago Railways 5% bonds, Series B 2 at 88¾. This was about eighteen years ago. We thought this investment in such an important public utility to be absolutely safe. How disappointed was I, when in February, 1927, the bonds were not alone not paid off, but that even the interest on them was withheld.

Whose fault is this? What have politicians to do with dictating transit fares? Is it not the honest thing for them to advocate such fares that will enable the Chicago Railways company to pay the investors the interest on bonds bought in good faith?

The Chicago Railways company's failure to pay principal and interest on the B bonds means hardships for many—surely for me, a widow with dependents. The people of Chicago would not ask for lower car fare if they realized that this could only be done at the expense of the investor who trustingly put his savings in this, our greatest public utility.

DISTRESSED.

TRACTION HINTS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—What a wonderful amount of words, pro and con, have been used in putting the traction question into a position to suit the present occupants of our city streets! Why couldn't the city council draw its own ordinance and submit it to the present street car owners to take or refuse and, upon such refusal, submit the ordinance to some other company? This would be an ordinary business plan by business people.

I note that numbers 1 and 4 of the reasons for nonagreement relate to "rate of return on investment" and "rates of fare." As to the first, why should the rate be any more than these banker owners allow us on savings deposits? As to the latter, one company has offered to accept a 30 year franchise with a 7 cent fare and a return to the city of all property at 30 years termination.

To many readers and voters it is now and has been an unexplained, vexed question. Why not stop all this discussion, offer these bankers a fair franchise, and if they do not accept give some others the privilege of acceptance? These bankers own some property but they do not own our streets. They will ride to a fall at the polls if the franchise is not a fair one to the public.

AMENITIES ON THE "L."

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 12.—You published the complaint of Donald M. Dushane that he failed to receive thanks when he offered his seat in the Evanston elevated trains, and that though the ladies took his seat they acted as though he had been rude in offering it.

I returned to Evanston after nineteen years' absence and use the elevated daily during the rush hours, and have been offered a seat twice in seven months. The first time I accepted it with a word of thanks. The second time the man was so unobtrusive that I thought he was leaving the train and when I saw him standing at the front of the car the entire way to Evanston and realized he had most kindly given me his seat I could not thank him without leaving the seat and thereby losing it. Perhaps some of the benefits of Mr. Dushane's kindness were turned into apparent rudeness by the unexpected courtesy now rarely shown irrespective of age or pulchritude.

FRUITS OF THE WAR.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—I want to congratulate you upon your editorial "The New Germany."

Sometimes I question if the war was of any benefit to the world, but when I read an editorial like this I think I can see things in the proper light. In many no doubt our war in 1860 looked the same way. They doubted if any good results came out of it, but now after 70 years we who now live are convinced it was all for the best.

So Germany in 75 years will look back and wonder how they ever lived under the conditions that existed in 1913 just before they called out the war dogs. Not only Germany but many other nations over there will take on new and better ways. Some, like Russia, may be going too far the other way, but they in time will adjust themselves to proper conditions.

C. S. HAMMOND.

CONFIRMATION.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—After I read your editorial in this morning's paper entitled "The New Germany," I could not help but write you a note of congratulation. This is a most excellent article. I was all through Germany in 1926, and my observations were as stated in your editorial. Such capable writings as these should not go unnoticed and uncomplimented.

THE BISHOP'S CONSTITUENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—I agree wholeheartedly with the opinions of THE TRIBUNE concerning Bishop Cannon. But while I agree I must quarrel with THE TRIBUNE's editorial statement that Cannon "represents the church in politics." On the contrary Cannon does not represent the church in politics, but only an unintelligent minority of the church.

The writer is a churchman, but not a Methodist. He is a communicant of a church of whose membership were three-fourths of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and two-thirds of the signers of the constitution, and whose attitude toward the church in politics is typified in the recent statement of the Episcopal bishop of Washington, D. C., as quoted by THE TRIBUNE a short time ago under the caption: "A Picture of Two Clergymen."

The writer, although a churchman, is not "represented in politics" by Bishop Cannon. And we venture to guess that the majority of our good friends the Methodists also repudiate such representation."

THE HOSPITAL PARK.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—I agree with the doctors and the county board as to the park surrounding the county hospital. There is really no place for a convalescent to get a breath of fresh air if he is a patient at the county hospital. I think it a disgrace that this magnificent city does not provide more congenial surroundings for the unfortunate patients.

Nine out of ten women have lost the lovely color-sheen of their hair on which depends its lustre and beauty.

Modern city conditions are to blame. Frequent shampooing necessitated by the city's dust and dirt . . . acid and carbon fumes found in the city's atmosphere . . . these are the things which rob the hair of color-sheen and leave it drab, faded, lifeless in appearance.

The great Nestle Laboratories, which have contributed so much to the advancement of hair beauty, have worked for years to invent a preparation to restore color-sheen to the hair. At last it is perfected! It is called "Nestle ColoRinse." This marvelous new product is not a dye nor a bleach . . . it is a temporary color that will neither stain nor rub off, yet is easily removed by a single shampoo. The name "Nestle" guarantees its safety!

Now you can give your hair the exact color-sheen you have always wanted—quickly and harmlessly, too—as simple as rinsing! Among the twelve colors of Nestle ColoRinse, you will find the very shade that will bring to your hair new life . . . new lustre . . . gorgeous highlights . . . a color-sheen that literally glorifies your hair.

In addition, Nestle ColoRinse gives the hair a softness, a silkiness, that it never had before. The scientific formula helps to overcome excessive oiliness and to remove causes of extreme dryness. It enhances the beauty of permanently waved or dyed hair.

Purchase a box of Nestle ColoRinse today! Each box contains six rinses. Use one after a shampoo tonight. You will be amazed . . . and delighted . . . with the results! A glorious new hair beauty will be yours!

Charles Nessler (C. Nestle), the originator of permanent waving in 1905, is today considered the foremost hair-scientist in the world. MULTIPLE UNIT REFRIGERATOR IS SUBJECT OF TEST

Kegel Offers New System —Safer, He Claims.

Fatalities from refrigerating gases can be prevented by the adoption of a new type of multiple unit refrigerator which limits the amount of gas that can escape into any apartment, Health Commissioner Kegel yesterday informed the council public health committee. A design of the new refrigerator, which conforms with the regulations of Dr. Kegel's ordinance, has been developed in the health department and will be submitted to the industry for approval.

The new system, according to Dr. Kegel, will prevent the escape of more than two pounds of refrigerant in an apartment, or ten pounds in a basement, in a period of twelve hours. Formerly the commissioner favored the abolishment of multiple systems.

Designed to Meet Requirements.

The principal difference between the Kegel ordinance and those proposed by the manufacturers and the city boiler inspector was the provision in the former that no refrigerator should be installed from which more than two pounds of gas could escape from a leak into an apartment. This provision, the manufacturers complained, eliminated multiple systems. If the new device is deemed practicable, this objection will have been overcome.

Dr. Kegel's announcement was made at the close of a six hour session during which the aldermen discussed the three ordinances. Following his statement, engineers of the industry arranged a meeting to test the Kegel system and will report to the aldermen next Thursday.

Experts' Opinions Differ.

Questioning of the experts present by Ald. Nance [7th] as to whether the multiple systems now used can be made safe brought out a division of opinion. Deputy Boiler Inspector Gearon replied that they could be made safe; Dr. G. A. Koehler of the health department said they would be dangerous if containing 300 pounds of refrigerant; E. T. Williams, refrigerator engineer, said they could not be made safe; and G. B. Bright, Detroit engineer, said they could, but expressed the belief that it would be costly.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS TO ANNUL MARRIAGE OF RICHEST INDIAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Annulment of the marriage of Jackson Barnett, wealthy Indian, and a refund of all money and property held by his white wife, Mrs. Anna Laura Barnett, was asked today in an amended complaint filed by the United States government in federal court here.

Filing of the complaint followed the government's victory in the Barnett case in federal court at New York, which ordered the return of $550,000 in Liberty bonds given by its Indian ward to the Baptist Home Missions society. The government plans to place the securities and property in trust for Barnett.

Three co-defendants were named in the amended complaint. They were Leslie Hewitt, California guardian of Barnett's property; Maxine Sturgess, Mrs. Barnett's daughter, and the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings association.

The government seeks to force the defendants to bring a detailed description into court of all property they have received from the Indian.

Barnett, known to his Indian friends as "Crazy Jack," in 1912 became wealthy almost over night by the discovery of oil on his Oklahoma lands. From a hut his wealth carried him to a palatial residence here and he once was known as the "world's richest Indian."

In 1920 the government charged Mrs. Barnett attempted to marry him, but county officials where Barnett lived refused to issue a license. A month later, the government alleged, she induced him to go to Coffeyville, Kas., where they were married.

BANK RUN LAID TO MAN'S GOSSIP IN A SPEAKEASY

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Rumors circulated by a drunken man against the Bay Ridge Savings bank in Brooklyn, started a run on the institution. It began slowly on Monday and today resulted in several thousand depositors besieging the institution for their savings.

Two thousand men and women were on hand when the bank opened its doors an hour and a half early today, but the repeated assurances of the state banking department of its solvency and the receipt of $14,000,000 in currency, rushed to the bank in armored trucks at intervals during the day, caused the run to abate.

Search for the rumor monger was begun and District Attorney Charles J. Dodd promised rapid prosecution if he is caught.

State Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick called attention to a strong law aimed at persons who spread rumors concerning the condition of financial institutions. Section 303 of the penal code provides a fine of $1,000 or a year in jail or both, for the wilful circulation of any statement or rumor of a false nature against any bank or similar institution.

Counsel of the bank declared that the run had resulted from malicious gossip spread by a man of Swedish descent who became disgruntled because the bank had refused to make a loan of $16,000 on a house appraised at $10,000.

After the bank's officers had refused his request, it is said, the man went to a speakeasy and while intoxicated, made derogatory statements regarding the condition of the bank.

Nurse, Thin, Weak, Gains 7 lbs. in 2 weeks

Build Up Weight in Few Short Weeks With New IRONIZED YEAST. Quick Results Guaranteed—or Pay Nothing

"I am a nurse at the hospital and I am writing you to let you know I am glad to recommend your tonic, IRONIZED YEAST. I do believe I would have been dead if it hadn't been for IRONIZED YEAST.

"It gave me a good appetite. I got strong and gained 7 pounds in 2 weeks. I could write all day about how much good IRONIZED YEAST did me. You would be surprised at the strength I gained in 3 or 4 days. I will send you some of my friends' names so you can write them about it."—Martha Burns, Sumrall, Miss.

Why IRONIZED YEAST Works Such Quick Wonders

Think of it! New strength in 3 or 4 days. New weight added so quickly! People are continually amazed at the wonderful weight-building and strengthening benefits of IRONIZED YEAST. Many write that they were doubtful before they started, thinking it was just like the rest. But after taking it regularly for only a few weeks they were surprised and delighted to find they had gained 5 to 15 pounds! Ugly hollows fill out. Skinny limbs become gracefully rounded. Pimples vanish and blemished skin becomes clear and beautiful.

IRONIZED YEAST is two great tonics in one. Weight-building YEAST and two kinds of strengthening, blood-enriching IRON used for years by highest medical authorities.

The yeast is Violet Rayed to increase weight building values. We concentrate it so that 12 SACKS of raw live YEAST make only ½ SACK of the concentrate which goes into IRONIZED YEAST. You can easily see why each small tablet of this new IRONIZED YEAST gives you quick, EXTRA, weight-building results through this 24-to-1 concentration.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it most effective. For Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of Yeast. That's the reason folks ask: "Why does IRONIZED YEAST add weight and health so quickly?" Pleasant tablets. No "yeasty" taste. No gas or bloating.

"New Complexion in 7 Days"

LOAN HEARINGS ARE SUSPENDED BY FARM BOARD

Desires to Perfect Its Own Machinery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Suspension of hearings on applications for loans pending complete organization of its own operating machinery today was announced by the federal farm board.

During its nearly five weeks of existence the board, officials pointed out, has heard forty various agricultural groups in pleas for assistance but in most of the cases it has been compelled to postpone action on the applications because there has been no time to determine policies, or organize personnel and facilities to conduct the loan and other operations in a businesslike manner.

"These hearings have been most valuable," according to a statement issued by the board, "in that they presented a composite picture of the agricultural situation in the United States and of the various types of need which exist among coöperative marketing associations."

"The board feels," the statement continued, "that the time has come when it can best serve American agriculture in general, and the coöperative associations in particular, by setting aside a period in which it will hold no further hearings, except in distress or emergency cases, and will, instead, devote itself to the perfection of its own operating machinery. Only in this way can the board get itself quickly into a position to respond actively to requests for loans or for other assistance."

Must Organize Loan Division.

The immediate purpose of the board, the statement explained, is to "organize a staff whose purpose will be to furnish facts concerning the coöperative movement and its needs in respect to every commodity in every locality."

In addition, a loan division of financial experts and appraisers able to pass intelligently on applications for financial assistance, and a legal division to safeguard the 500 million dollars placed at the disposal of the board, are contemplated, according to the statement.

"All of these operating divisions," it was asserted, "are completely necessary. For these reasons, the board will not be able to grant hearings to applicants for loans, except when such applications are of an emergency character. The board further asks that no delegations come to Washington expecting hearings except where appointments previously have been arranged.

SENATORS MAY REDUCE HOUSE TARIFF ON SUGAR

Others Fight On for Smoot Sliding Scale.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Indications are that the Republican members of the senate finance committee will reduce the sugar tariff rates adopted by the house when the controversial schedule in the new tariff bill is reached tomorrow afternoon.

While none of the committee members would guess at the rate that would be fixed in the senate bill, it generally was agreed that there is a definite move to cut the house rates of $3 against the world market and $2.40 against Cuban sugar.

Plan Not Yet Dead.

While Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] has abandoned his sliding scale rate schedule, advocates of the sliding scale principle still are fighting for its adoption. Rudolph Spreckels, sugar magnate, asserted today he had been assured that the fight for the sliding scale principle would be carried to the senate floor by interested members of that body if necessary.

Today's session of the Republican members was devoted to completion of the so-called sundries schedule and discussion of schedules already passed over. Before adjournment tonight 240 pages of the bill had been approved, with about 75 remaining to be disposed of tomorrow before the sugar schedule is taken up.

Dispose of Rates Today.

Senator Smoot expressed confidence that all of the rates in the bill, including the sugar rates, finally will be disposed of tomorrow and that, in accordance with previous plans, the rates officially will be made public early next week.

Some time will be given over tomorrow, according to Senator Smoot, to discussion of about 20 pending independent amendments, including that sponsored by Senator G. W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], to add the farm debenture plan to the bill, and others offered by Senators Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] and S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], who would attach riders providing for a tax on transfers of securities bought and sold for speculation.

Joe Saltis, Out of Jail, Slips Away to Woods

Joe Saltis, Chicago beer peddler, yesterday was reported as once more sojourning in peace in the wilds of his lake retreat near Hayward, Wis., following his release from the Kane county jail at Geneva on Tuesday. Saltis completed his thirty days' federal sentence for violation of the liquor laws and left the jail so quietly that news of his departure did not leak out until yesterday. He did not tarry in his Chicago haunts, but went immediately to the Wisconsin wilds, it was said.

FRANCE AGREES TO U.S. VALUATION OF ITS EXPORTS

American Agents to Figure Production Costs.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The controversy between the French and American governments, which began two years ago over the application of an American valuation system to French imports, has finally been settled to the satisfaction of both countries.

One of the chief sources of irritation is thereby removed and a decided improvement in Franco-American tariff relations should follow, although, of course, there remains the French resentment in regard to American duties on de luxe importations.

In any event, when the two nations get together at some not distant date to discuss a commercial treaty, the present solution undoubtedly will be found to have had a beneficial effect upon the situation as a whole.

French Accept U. S. Proposals.

The amicable disposal of the delicate problem has been made possible by French acceptance of proposals contained in a state department note delivered here July 27. In its reply to this communication, which is now on its way to Washington, the French foreign office agrees to permit the return to this country of United States treasury agents. The agents were withdrawn after a temporary tariff accord was reached between the two nations in November, 1927, but their departure provoked a controversy which has gone on ever since.

The agents had been ordered to France and other European countries in compliance with a provision of the tariff act of 1922, which set forth that foreign shippers must submit their books to the treasury agents for purposes of ascertaining foreign production costs. The American duties were then calculated upon the basis of the findings of these agents.

Charge "Commercial Espionage."

The arrival of the agents at once caused widespread anger in Europe, and nowhere was the outburst more vehement than in France. Charges of "commercial espionage" were hurled at the American government by outraged exporters. The agitation was intensified by the enforcement of another provision of the 1922 tariff act, stating that the goods of those foreign firms refusing to submit their books to the American agents would be denied admission to the United States. One French house, which would not give up its books, claimed later that application of this law had ruined its business.

In a temporary tariff agreement in 1927, France succeeded in having the agents withdrawn, but their going left no means of collecting the necessary information about production costs. Complaints were again heard from French shippers, who asserted the American valuation and not the French, was being applied to French imports. Such arrangement, they claimed, had placed their goods at a great disadvantage when compared to American-made products.

No Diplomatic Immunity.

Active negotiations have been going on for nearly a year and now the latest French communication is expected to bring the matter to a close.

The American government has promised to send only agents qualified to speak French. They will be attached to the United States consulate in Paris but, unlike their predecessors, will not enjoy diplomatic immunity. Furthermore, they will act only on "invitations of French exporters," and special care will be taken so that the unfortunate impression of commercial espionage is not suggested by their examinations.

GOOD-BY, SUCKER! TOURISTS WISE TO GYP JOINTS

Gotham 'Hostesses' Wail Blues, Mean 'Em.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—This one-time city of oases today is in the midst of its greatest summer tourist season but it no longer is the national playground of the suckers. The suckers have quit playing and paying and, most of them being natives of this town, they have gone to greener spots for their vacations and left the place to darkness and the visitors.

The visitors are filling New York, but are not getting filled in New York. Naturally, the night clubs, cabarets and other gyp joints from Broadway to Coney Island are as empty as the head of the Statue of Liberty. They are blinking out like electric lights in a hail storm and the cooling winds of autumn are likely to find them as scarce as livery stables in Detroit.

Gyps Prey on Each Other.

About the only night life left in Manhattan is on the east side fire escapes. The night club owners are wringing their hands. The hotel, roof garden, and refrigerated movie folks are smiling broadly and going to the bank twice a day. It is their season, this time.

The wail of the cabaret has succeeded the low moan of the sucker and bucolic laughter echoing through empty rooms greets the plea to "give the little girls a hand."

Suckerland is in the doldrums and the gyps have begun to prey on one another.

Tex Finds Hardy's "Gag" True.

Out on Long Island Tex Guinan has discovered that "Far from the Madding Crowd" means just that, and has admitted privately that the "old bozo who pulled the gag knew his lines." For the first time in her life she has more cotton balls than she has customers to pelt.

Down in Greenwich Village, where the suckers used to step on one another's toes, the lights go out as regularly as curfew rings. Right now, with the exception of a basement revue called "Bare Facts," played on a stage too small for a bath tub, and a singing and eating barn known as the Blue Horse, there is not enough doing in the village to provide the basis for a home talent poem.

Even the speakeasies—Manhattan's widely advertised 33,000 whistle wetting parlors—are giving vacations to their bartenders, closing on Sundays, and doing other unorthodox things. Around Times square, where Police Commissioner Whalen's boys have been dropping in too often for business instead of pleasure, several of the larger quaffing stables have taken a cue from the seafaring folks and are holding "raid drills" three times a day.

A bartender blows a police whistle and the customers line up on one side of the room, the bartenders flank themselves about the cash register. Two back doors and a trap door slide open. The customers slide out the back doors, the booze supply slides through the trap door, and the bartenders begin picking their teeth. The whistle is blown twice and business is resumed. The drill actually is effective occasionally.

With New York's visitors compelled to head shoreward for their entertainment, the gyp men able to dig up subway and train fares have followed them. Out on Long Bach, Far Rockaway, and along Coney island's dirt flecked strand the gambling wheels are in full swing. There is merchandise in the racks behind the wheels, but the wheels are turning mostly on a cash basis.

CONAN DOYLE'S COUNTRY HOME GUTTED BY FIRE

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's residence, Bignell house, in the New Forest, nine miles from Southampton, was partially destroyed by fire today.

Sir Arthur, Lady Doyle, their two sons, and a daughter worked desperately for an hour to save the many valuable books and documents from the flames. Nearly 100 villagers aided them, and the whole library was swiftly moved from the author's house.

Bignell house was originally a thatched cottage, but had a new, modern wing attached. The old building, where Sir Arthur, creator of the well known fiction detective, Sherlock Holmes, did most of his writing, was almost completely destroyed, but the new edifice was saved.

NEW YORK SEEKS EMPRINGHAM FOR MEDICAL FRAUD

But Clergyman Cannot Be Extradited.

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. James Empringham, of the Protestant Episcopal church will face prosecution for practicing medicine without a license, Deputy Attorney General Sol Ullman announced today.

According to charges forwarded by the New York City department of health to the state board of medical examiners and turned over to the attorney general, Dr. Empringham made medical examinations, prescribed treatment and operated an X-ray machine at the Health Education society in this city. This organization was an adjunct of the Church Temperance society, unofficially connected with the Protestant Episcopal church, and was created originally to minister to "all forms of intemperance."

Reported Seeking Divorce.

Dr. Empringham, lately reported to be in Reno, Nev., seeking a divorce left New York, closing the doors of his health center, at about the time that the results of the city health department investigation had been turned over to the state authorities. Not liable to extradition because the offense with which he is charged is simply a misdemeanor, Dr. Empringham will be confronted with proceedings only when he returns to this state.

As head of the clinic, he allegedly cleared $500 a week on fees, collected mostly from women suffering from dietary ailments, although he advertised that the health center operated on a cost basis. Complaints against Dr. Empringham originated as far back as 1924, according to Dr. Shirly Wynne, health commissioner.

Clerical Action May Result.

The health officials reported that associates of Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese had been apprised of the progress of the investigation and that clerical as well as state action against Dr. Empringham may be expected. There was no confirmation of this report at the bishop's office. The bishop is known to have frowned upon Dr. Empringham's activities.

Complaints against the director of the health center came from three sources, Dr. Howard Brown, assistant health commissioner, has disclosed. A physician formerly employed by the health education society voiced one protest because Dr. Brown participated in giving treatment to patients. Neighborhood physicians voiced a complaint over the character of the clinic. And several women patients who had been asked to disrobe and be examined medically by Dr. Empringham added to the protests.

Society Leaders Hail

YERMAT

Costs Only a Trifle More Than Common Beverages

Among the exclusive Lake Forest colony, in the fashionable suburbs, along the "Gold Coast" and the South Shore, YERMAT, the ultra-modern drink, has supplanted familiar commonplace beverages.

Society leaders everywhere serve it at their exclusive bridge parties, dinners and musicales. Sometimes one sees it in champagne glasses sparkling, alluring. Again used in innumerable recipes, and the marvel of it all is YERMAT costs but a trifle more than commonplace drinks. It sells for only 30c per bottle, or $3.25 per carton of 12 bottles.

Much more expensive than the ingredients of ordinary beverages is the imported Yerba Mate from which YERMAT is made. Any attempt to produce a cheap drink from this precious South American herb must end in failure.

YERMAT is not made from an essence or extract, but is actually brewed from the best grade of Yerba Mate with distilled water and without alcohol, preservatives or artificial coloring. Not a ginger ale or near bear but the most beneficial drink known.

Just to taste its wonderfully different and delightful flavor is to discover that as a thirst quencher alone YERMAT has no rival. But YERMAT is the rarest of hot weather drinks and table beverages.

Until YERMAT was perfected through our new and patented process there was no way to produce a Yerba Mate beverage retaining all the virtues of the freshly brewed herb.

Those who, as travelers in South America, already know the value of Yerba Mate and its healthful properties would not hesitate to pay $1.00 a bottle for YERMAT.

It is no wonder that this amazing new health builder is supplanting all other beverages on the tables of Chicago's fashionable families.

Precious indeed are the health virtues and stimulating effects of Yerba Mate. Not the momentary false stimulation of alcoholic concoctions but a persistent exhilaration of the body's organs and nerves. The commonest cause of indigestion, constipation and biliousness is over-acidity. Not only is YERMAT soothing to the stomach but it counteracts such disorders by promoting alkalinity, which eminent doctors agree produces not only health but longevity.

To drink two bottles daily for two weeks and to sense the new physical stamina and mental vigor it imparts is to know why so many of the world's leading medical authorities endorse and recommend Yerba Mate for the relief of fatigue and as an aid to digestion.

Prove for yourself what YERMAT will do for you. Make this test. Drink one to three bottles daily for two or three weeks. Then take account of your new health and energy. You will agree that you never made a better investment.

Order from your grocer or druggist. Price 30c per bottle, 85c for a 3-bottle carton, $3.25 for the family carton of one dozen bottles.

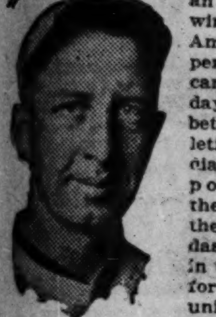
CUBS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER; INCREASE LEAD

PATIENT, CANNY, GENTLE – THAT'S CONNIE MACK

Collins Reveals His Boss' System.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 15.—The ensuing remarks of Eddie Collins crediting Connie Mack with an assist in the winning of the American league pennant this year came after today's ball game between the Athletics and the Indians had been postponed and the members of the ball club had dashed for chairs in the hotel lobby for a p. m. of uninterrupted sitting.



EDDIE COLLINS.

You may say that Mr. Collins was merely talking up his boss, but I do not think he was, and, anyway, if he had been, he would have given the boss the credit for winning the pennant and the players the assist.

Incidentally, before going into direct quotes on Mr. Collins' opinion of Mr. Mack, whom he regards as a valuable citizen on or off the ball field, I will report that when a ball team has a lead of 14 games over its nearest competitor and the competitor is making no progress fast, with about fifty games remaining, it is not easy, if at all possible, to convince the athletes that they are still engaged in a hard fight. Mr. Mack still tells his athletes that, but I do not think they believe him. He probably doesn't believe it himself.

Mr. Collins Speaking.

Mr. Collins:

"Connie Mack knows more baseball than any other man in the game. When Ty Cobb came down to play with us he said: 'I used to think I knew something about playing the outfield, but this fellow knows it all.' You may not think it means much when he gets up there on the step of the dugout and moves the outfielders one way or another by waving his score card at them, but if you don't think so just watch and see how many times a fly ball comes down right where he has planted a man to receive it.

"He doesn't sign for every pitch as they say John McGraw does. I don't know whether McGraw really does or not, but Connie lets his pitchers do the pitching, except that he will make a suggestion now and again. I mean, when they are on the bench he may say to a pitcher, 'Don't you think so-and-so hits curve balls best? Let's not throw him any curves.' And when he is moving his outfielders around he considers not only what the hitter's habits are but what kind of ball the pitcher is throwing. If it is going to be a fast ball, and the hitter is likely to be a little late meeting it, he moves the outfielders over one way. If it is a curve, the hitter is more likely to hit to his natural spot, if he hits, and Connie moves the fielders back again.

It's Very Simple.

"Sometimes he moves the infielders, too, but generally his signals with the score card are for the outfield. It is very hard to hit them where Connie's outfielders ain't and if they are good outfielders they just put out their hands and catch the baseball and the fellow is out.

"There is no such thing as a council of assistant managers on this ball club although Kid Gleason and I have both had experience as managers. There is only one boss and Connie is it. I never saw any man who could stand the strain and tension as he can at the age of 66. He rides the railroads all summer long and runs the ball club in all kinds of weather from the terrible cold of the spring to the awful heat of St. Louis in July and August but he leads a regular life and moreover he has a mind that doesn't waste energy on non-essentials.

"Now and again, when a tense situation develops, you will see Con-

Campolo Puts Heeney Away in 9th Round

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Another smashing giant from the Argentine, fully as threatening to American heavyweight supremacy as the Luis Angel Firpo of six years ago, battered his way into the heavyweight picture tonight over the punch shattered form of gallant Tom Heeney.

VICTORIO CAMPOLO.

Surprisingly clever for all his 223 pounds of bone and muscle, Victorio Campolo, the new galloping gaucho of the pampas country, spread the hard rock from New Zealand on the ring at Ebbets field as only Gene Tunney was able to do before him. Campolo was awarded the fight on a technical knockout in the ninth round of a ten round match as Heeney, torn by body punches and reeling under ponderous right hand smashes to the jaw, staggered helplessly into the arms of Tom Crowley, the referee. The round lasted 2 minutes and 46 seconds.

It was a vicious slugging battle from the opening gong. In the nine rounds Heeney was on the floor twice, once for no count in the eighth and finally in the ninth just before the end came. 18,000 saw the fight. The receipts were estimated at $30,000.

Far from a punch-soggy wreck after the terrific battering Gene Tunney meted out in his final defense of the heavyweight title, Heeney fought an aggressive, punishing battle that held the South American giant even for the first seven rounds. Then the thudding right-hand punches Campolo buried into Tom's body from the opening gong took their toll and once his strength was sapped Heeney weakened fast.

In the Wake of the News

BROADCASTING.

THE Wake has received several letters from readers protesting because promoters did not allow progress of recent boxing contests to be sent over the air. We were urged in these letters to lead a crusade toward a reversal of this policy.

That is a subject, we think, without our province. In the first place, we have no decided opinion on its merits, and secondly, in a general way, it is hardly any of our business—not that we do not sometimes project our opinion into affairs that are not strictly our business.

Boxing is a commercial sport. Its promoters conduct shows with a view to profit, not from humanitarian or eleemosynary motives. If promoters think broadcasting hurts attendance, we suppose they are justified in withholding such permission. The fact that baseball and football contests are broadcast does not enter into the subject except as a basis of comparison.

There is no question many radio listeners enjoy reports, especially those at a distance who would not attend anyway. Our opinion is that air reports affect patronage little, if any. Here is a typical letter:

Wake: Championship boxing contests must be losing their popularity in Chicago when promoters are afraid to have fights broadcast for fear of keeping down the attendance. There are thousands of fight fans throughout the country who would be glad to attend a fight like the recent Mandell-Canzoneri one if it were possible. Therefore it seems a damn shame these fans were robbed of the privilege of enjoying it over the radio due to the promoter's selfishness.

Important football games are broadcast and the stadia are filled to capacity. Baseball owners don't seem to be afraid of cutting down their attendance. Let's have more football and baseball and less boxing.

OAK BROOK NIPS FT. LEAVENWORTH IN POLO, 11 TO 10

Oak Brook yesterday became the first Chicago team in history to reach the final of a national intercircuit polo tournament by defeating Fort Leavenworth, Kas., in an overtime battle, 11 to 10, at Onwentsia.

As a result, Oak Brook will clash with the Midwicks, Pacific coast champions, in the final tomorrow.

Led by Maj. C. C. (Square) Smith, Fort Leavenworth back, the Kansans, with the aid of their two goal handicap, piled up an impressive lead on Oak Brook in the first three chukkers. But speedier horses, plus fine team work, helped Oak Brook knot the count and go ahead momentarily in the sixth chukker.

A long goal by Maj. Innis P. Swift, No. 3 for Fort Leavenworth, nullified Oak Brook's margin and a subsequent goal by Capt. G. I. Smith put the Kansans in front. Paul Butler's only goal of the game brought a deadlock in the eighth period, but Maj. Smith's goal after foul shoved the Rocky mountain champs ahead, only to have Carl Crawford kick in with his fourth goal and another tie.

Art Meckel produced the winning marker before the extra period really got under way.

Butler's hitting and riding, along with the scoring efforts of Crawford, Crites, and Meckel, featured Oak Brook's play.

OAK BROOK [11].		FT. LEAVENWORTH [10].
Art Meckel	No. 1	Maj. R. L. Reed

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

George Halas and Edward Sternaman, north side gridiron magnates, devoted their dinner hour last night to calling on sport departments.

"The fans are anxious to know whether we're going to strengthen the Bears this fall," they explained, "and we've kept silent as long as we can."

Simultaneously each reached into his inside coat pocket and drew forth a document. They unrolled it, cleared their throats in unison, and read aloud, to wit:

"This is to announce that Walter Holmer, last season's all western full back and one of the foremost candidates for all-American honors, will continue his sensational triple threat doings on the north side this fall. Signing of Holmer as a member of the Chicago Bears' 1929 back field is herewith announced by George Halas and Edward (Dutch) Sternaman, the popular owners of the Bears."

After a pause for emphasis, Messrs. Halas and Sternaman bowed.

They admitted that they would like to gratify public demand for football news even further, but that experience convinced them it would delight the fans more to get the good news in small portions over a period of time. They hinted that the signing of Holmer was only the forerunner of many changes in the lineup of the Bears.

Incidentally, Dick Hanley, coach, and Tug Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, probably will receive the Holmer announcement with more surprise than pleasure.

They had understood that Holmer would return to Northwestern this fall in the rôle of back field coach. Conference rules would prevent him from playing professional football.

Speaking of the pros it might interest you to know that Red Grange has completed a vaudeville tour and is now in Hollywood training for the season with the Bears.

Messrs. Halas and Sternaman are certain that Grange is taking his conditioning seriously. He has been forced to, they explain, by the movie concern that plans to produce a new football picture starring Red.

Grange expects the picture to be the biggest contribution yet offered his public. He says that while "A Minute to Play" cost only $185,000 to produce, the new picture will be produced for not less than $300,000. Maybe it will be titled "Two Minutes to Play."

While Grange is preparing for the new movie and his season with the Bears, Charley Pyle, the debonair promotor, who took Red from the campus at Champaign to make him the most talked about professional football star of record is dodging old John Law in Los Angeles.

Late reports quote Pyle as saying he hasn't a cent. His creditors are listed by the dozen. Some of them are hopeful of registering Charley at the Los Angeles workhouse.

Hales and Sternaman believe Grange will play good football for the Bears. They say he's found out that a collegiate reputation wears thin. This fall they think he will play for the professionals with the gusto that made him famous at Illinois.

So far Bennie Friedman is the one college star to play more sensationally as a professional than he did as an amateur. Bruce Caldwell of Yale fame and Earl Britton, Grange's Illini teammate, are the pro gridiron's outstanding disappointments. Grange was neither very good or very bad.

The phantom of Champaign will need be very good this year to share the public spotlight with Holmer on the north side and Howard Maple, the Oregon star, who has signed with the revamped Cardinals on the south side.

In fact Grange will find it necessary to play in Illini form to keep up with the age defying Paddy Driscoll. Paddy has been a professional ground gainer for twelve years. And he says he is not yet through.

Driscoll, Holmer and Grange—not a bad combination. It will be interesting to see which of the three shines the brightest. D. M.

Deliver 8,000 Bids for Army-Illinois Grid Tickets

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 15.—[U. P.]—Eight thousand letters requesting reservations for the Army-Illinois football game here Nov. 9, were delivered today to the Illinois Athletic association football ticket office when it opened for the season. The Illinois stadium will hold 67,000 spectators.

FABER FAILS TO PULL UP FALLING SOX; LOSES, 9-4

Red Faber yesterday sought to forget an attack of the grippe in order to stem the tide of poor baseball that has been submerging the White Sox. But such a task is no job for a sick man. The Washington Senators defeated the Comiskeys, 9 to 4, in a game that had little to commend it as a major league event.

The contest was rather interesting up till the fourth inning, however. Neither side scored. But in the fourth Red began to feel the effects of his illness and the Senators forthwith started production.

Tate Starts Attack.

Goslin opened the inning with a liner to Shires, but Tate tripled and scored on West's single. Gooch singled, West going to third. Gooch was out when he tried to stretch his blow to a double. Cronin walked and was trapped off first with a throw from Faber. When West pulled the play away from Cronin, Clancy threw the ball past Kamm to the stands, West scoring and Cronin taking third. Cronin scored on Hayes' single.

Three hits, one a homer by Goslin, produced three runs in the seventh, the last inning pitched by Faber. The Goose's wallop was his thirteenth homer of the year and scored Rice ahead of him.

Faber retired to get some rest for the gala celebration and gold shower in his honor on Aug. 20. The affair promises to be one of the most impressive of the kind ever given in a Chicago ball park.

Sox Revived In Ninth.

The Senators made two runs off Adkins in the eighth and another in the ninth. The score as the Sox went into the last of the ninth was 9 to 1 against them. They showed a great burst of power and rolled up a total of three runs for the inning.

This afternoon Thomas will pitch, which probably will make the game worth the admission fee.

It Might Interest You to Know That—

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Dazzy Vance claims the Cub who annoys him the most is Charley Grimm. The team captain proved it today with two singles and a triple. For a runner like Cuyler the triple would have been a sure home run.

Doug McWeeny is no longer appreciated in these parts. When he left the mound after walking three successive batters in the fourth inning of the first game there was quite a bit of hissing by the assembled 20,000 spectators.

A wild pitch by Bush almost put Taylor out of the first game. Guy bounced one up to the plate in the opening inning and it plunked against Taylor's left wrist. He rubbed it for a few moments and then decided to stick. But it hurt the rest of the afternoon.

Infielder Beck, who was left at Boston to recover from the effect of a boil on his foot, will rejoin the team in a couple of days. McMillan, the other cripple, expects to have his spiked toe in such shape as to permit him to play about Sunday.

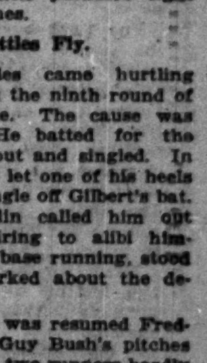
BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 15.—An even break was all the pacemaking Cubs figured they needed today for pennant purposes, and that is what they got.



Kiki Cuyler yesterday obtained one-sixth of the Cubs' hits

Using their heavy artillery in the first affair, they nailed down Guy Bush's seventeenth win of the year by slaying the Robins in a 9 to 5 affair that terminated with a quantity of pop bottles sailing in the general direction of Umpire McLaughlin. The terrible Dazzy Vance hurled the second game and that is another way of saying the coming champs were humbled. The score of Vance's achievement was 5 to 4.

As the Braves were thoughtful enough to suppress the second place Pirates, the Cubs picked up half a lap to make the difference between themselves and their pursuers eight and one-half games.

Pop Bottles Fly.

The pop bottles came hurtling through the air in the ninth round of the opening battle. The cause was Rube Bressler. He batted for the pitcher with one out and singled. In going to second he let one of his heels get nicked by a single off Gilbert's bat. Umpire McLaughlin called him out but Bressler, desiring to alibi himself for his stupid base running, stood at second and barked about the decision.

As soon as play was resumed Frederick sent one of Guy Bush's pitches over the wall. The two runners hardly had crossed the counter before the glassware appeared. An unsung hero back of first tossed one at Grimm and another threw one out to where Hornsby was standing. This was the signal for a barrage from the third base side of the stand.

Bottles by the case fell around McLaughlin, who was standing at third base.

Bush Gets Plenty of Help.

In view of two bad innings on Bush's part in the first game it was well for his record that his mates were in a hitting mood. They slipped him a three run lead in three rounds by thumping Lefty Clark, a homer by Hornsby being the outstanding blow. But Bush was almost eliminated from the struggle in the home third, when five sound whacks sent three Robins home to tie the count. After this Bush was a finished workman except in the ninth, but by that time the Cubs were coasting as the result of two runs off Doug McWeeney in the fourth and four off Win Ballou in the seventh.

Although Vance and his tattered shirt sleeve accomplished their purposes in the second fight, the Cubs at least made it more interesting than usual. The Dazzler was handed a four run lead in two innings because of Fred Blake's ineffectiveness.

The Cubs, maybe because they loosened up and regarded a defeat as harmless, gave him a touch of high life at several stages. They were particularly severe on him in the fourth, when they picked up three runs, and they had him in a jam again in the eighth when three hits drove home another tally.

Root Hurls Tomorrow.

No account of an effort by Vance against Chicago's tourists would be complete without details regarding the deeds of Hack Wilson. It is Hack's habit not to do much more than collect strikes against the Flatbush speed baller. He collected six of them in two attempts this afternoon and laughed about it. After that, however, he didn't try to break his bat on every swing, and the result was two singles, which was two more than Hornsby could produce.

For tomorrow it will be Charley Root against Ray Moss.

The Cubs needed three hits to get one run in the opening round of the first battle. Blair set the day's work in motion by taking three strikes, but English cracked a double to the fence in right. Hornsby's best was a tap to Gilbert, on which English was run down. In answer to the usual Brooklyn salute Wilson sailed a line single over short, Hornsby legging it for third. Bancroft knocked down a hard grounder by Cuyler, but coudn't hold it, so Kiki was credited with a hit and Hornsby crossed the plate. The session ended with Stephenson fouling to Gilbert.

With the coming of chapter three came Hornsby's No. 26. He led off by plunking the ball over the concrete barricade in right center. A fly to left disposed of Wilson, but Cuyler started another run on the way by doubling down the third base line. Stephenson duplicated the hit, Cuyler scoring. Neither Grimm nor Taylor could prolong the spurt. This much put the Cubs in possession of a 3 to 0 lead.

The Robins pounced on Bush for 3 runs in the third inning, tying the score.

Cuyler Held to Single.

The Cubs got in on a rare bargain in the fourth when they broke the deadlock by scoring twice. The tallies were harvested without the assistance of a base hit. McWeeny started to hurl in this chapter and the first and only good thing he did was to retire Bush. Blair, English and Hornsby then walked in succession, loading the corners. McWeeny's job was turned over to Ballou, who passed Wilson, forcing Blair to score. English ran home while Wilson was being forced on Cuyler's roller to E. Moore.

Cuyler's third hit was the item that touched off the four run rally against Ballou in the seventh. Cuyler plastered one against the wall in right but was held to a single because Herman knows his baseball billiards. Stephenson scratched a hit off Gilbert's paw and a pass to Grimm jammed the sacks. Taylor relieved the congestion by scoring Cuyler and Stephenson with a single. Grimm and Taylor moved up on Bush's sacrifice bunt and went home when Blair singled through second.

In the second game Vance had a little more respect for the Cubs after they whistled a few hits around the premises in the fourth. At this stage Brooklyn was leadinf 4 to 0. Cuyler sent a homer over the right field wall. Stephenson clicked a single through short and Grimm shoved him across the plate with a triple to right center. Gonzales bounced one high in front of the plate and was thrown out, but Grimm scored on the play. This put the Cubs behind by only one run.

Wilson had the honor of starting the late rally against Vance in the eighth, when the Robins were leading 5 to 3. Hack singled to center, his second off his ancient nemesis. A long fly by Cuyler made the second out. Stephenson singled past first base, sending Wilson to third. Grimm pasted a hit through short scoring Hack and planting Stephenson on third with the tying run. Then Heathcote was ushered forth to bat for Taylor but he popped out.

Boy, 16, Credits Success of Cubs to the Rajah

Eight and a half games ahead and still climbing.

What factor or factors have enabled the Cubs to acquire such a substantial lead in the National league pennant race?

Young Chicago, through the columns of THE TRIBUNE, is advancing the reasons. Ten letters from Cub fans between 10 and 16 years of age were printed last Sunday. Ten more will appear next Sunday. The author of each letter published will receive $5 and a chance to win a ticket to the opening game of the world's series.

The 1,600 boys who have entered the contest thus far have covered nearly every possible reason for the Cubs' success. You still have a chance, however, to earn $5 and perhaps a free ticket to the world series. Remember that originality, logic and clearness are the points judges consider in picking the winning letters. The contest closes a week from Saturday. The final group of letters will be printed a week from Sunday.

Edgar Toerper, 1908 Monterey avenue, has his own idea why the Cubs virtually have clinched the league championship. It's their ability to win on the road. His letter follows:

Dear Editor: The Cubs, for several years, have been conceded a great pitching staff, and, as the records show, their fielding has been more than brilliant, nor have the Cubs been poor at bat. Then why did the boys not win in 1927 and '28?

Their inefficient way of winning ball games on foreign soil has been their downfall. However, the Bruins seem to have overcome this defect in 1929.

Their improvement is due to Hornsby. His experience has consoled pitchers and steadied the infield in a pinch. His batting punch has been sufficient to drive in that extra run, which cost the Cubs so many of their previous games . . . and this year their road trips average better than .600. Yours for a world's series,

EDGAR TOERPER.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The great crowd which stood in the rain and cheered Clyde Van Dusen when he won the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs last May wouldn't have been very proud of the son of Man O' War at Hawthorne yesterday.

Clyde Van Dusen lined up at the barrier in a field of five, the Irving Park handicap at six furlongs. At the end of the struggle he was next to last and losing ground at every stride.

Greenock, taken out of a claiming race in Maryland last spring by August Sutro, turned up as the winner. He beat Brown Wisdom by a length. Martinique was third and the rear guard was composed of Clyde Van Dusen and Lawley, each doing the best he could it seemed to finish last.

Sixth Defeat Since Derby.

It was Clyde Van Dusen's first start in several weeks. It was his seventh start since he galloped to fame and fortune in the Derby. In those seven starts Clyde Van Dusen has won just a single race. And in his six defeats just about every horse that he defeated in the Derby has turned the tables on him.

Clyde had a slight excuse to offer for his bad showing. Lawley carried him wide most of the way. But he was far back of Greenock in the early stages and back of all the placed horses in the run down the stretch.

Greenock, ridden by Jockey F. Halbert, went to the front at the rise of the barrier. He stayed there until his number was dropped into the winner's slot. Brown Wisdom, with Shropshire urging him hard, made a stout challenge is midstretch. He pulled up within less than half a length of the flying Greenock. That was as far as he got. Greenock pulled away and when he stepped the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5, he turned in the fastest race at the distance of the Hawthorne season.

May Go Home for Rest.

Clyde Van Dusen maintained his popularity with the crowd until he was beaten. He was backed stoutly and so was Brown Wisdom. Greenock also had his followers and paid $8.56 to win $3.18 to place and $2.74 to show.

Clyde Van Dusen's showing was so bad it is doubtful if he will go in the Test stakes, a $10,000 event for 3 year olds, next week. It was reported he will be shipped back to Kentucky and turned out for a rest.

Chicago Marksmen Ready for Grand American Trapshoot

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago's best trap shots, armed with their pet guns and their impressive averages, are sharpening their shooting eyes for the outstanding trapshooting event of the year, the Grand American handicap, which will be held in Vandalia, O., beginning Monday.

This event, which brings together the cream of the amateur shooters of the United States as well as a large number of professional trap shots, lasts for six days. Nearly 1,000 gunners will bang away at the clay pigeons this year in an effort to corral part of the $12,850 purse which will be divided among the winners in addition to thousands of dollars' worth of cups and other prizes.

Chicago Entries Formidable.

Judging by the list of Chicago entries some of the money and prizes should come to this city. Following are a few of crack shots [with their averages] who will compete with the best the country can offer: Frank Hughes [97.50], Walter Warren [98], Sam Jenny, Highland Park, Ill. [97.25], Reginald James [94.90], who broke 150 straight a few days ago to make the Lincoln Park Trap club's diamond team; Walter Peacock [illegible], Roy A. Nutt [94.75], C. M. Spainhour [93.70], John Torp [93.72], Erwin Wagner [92.45] and A. H. Ammann [94.43].

Chicago's nationally known professionals also will participate in this clay pigeon rodeo. This group will include F. H. Huseman, E. P. Troeh, Jay R. Graham and W. M. Myers.

Downstate Experts Enter.

To form a strong Illinois team several of the Chicago shooters will combine with downstate experts. W. G. Warren, who broke 198 out of 200 pigeons to win the state shoot last May, will be on the Illinois team as well as H. Schomerus of Hillsdale, Ill.; Sam L. Jenny [each with records of 197 out of 200], L. Gilmore and Fred Welstein of Springfield, Ill. Jenny is a former winner of the Grand American handicap.

I TRIED THAT! OH WELL,, I WONT TRY TO MAKE UP HER MIND FOR HER
SAY YOU DON'T WANT HER TO GO SYLVESTER. I THINK YOU'VE STILL GOT A TENDER SPOT FOR THE LITTLE WOMAN.

Charges Made by Paddock Roil A. A. U.

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Charles Paddock, erstwhile "fastest human" and for many years the stormy petrel of track athletics, soon may join Ray Barbuti on the suspended list of the Amateur Athletic union.

Barbuti, it will be recalled, made certain allegations against the A. A. U., which promptly suspended him when he failed to support the charges at a hearing called by the registration committee of the Metropolitan association.

Paddock's charges against the A. A. U., which appear in the current issue of a weekly magazine, contain similar material and have so aroused that organization that Avery Brundage, its president, has taken up the case.

Under the caption, "No Son of Mine," the Los Angeles bachelor tells readers that he will guard his, as yet ethereal offspring, from the petty and penurious evils which surround the amateur champion. He goes on to recite those evils, using, as do most critics of the A. A. U., the overworked "Mr. Blank" as the guilty party in certain alleged unamateur practices.

But finally he strikes out more boldly to charge A. A. U. officials with an attempt to use him as a gate attraction in their effort to swell the coffers of the American Olympic committee and, at the same time, prevent him from winning a place on the 1928 Olympic team.

BRUNDAGE ANSWERS CHARGES.

Avery Brundage, A. A. U. president, last night issued a broadside in answer to statements made by Paddock.

"By admitting that he has been sailing under false colors and never has been an amateur honestly, actuated solely by the love of the game," Paddock, in the magazine article in question, "confirms the suspicions" which nearly caused his disbarment from the Olympic team last year, Brundage declared.

"It seems unfair for Paddock, who has made so much money from the lecture platform, the movies and the magazines, while eluding athletic authorities and keeping his amateur standing, to couple himself with poor Joie Ray and unfortunate Charley Hoff, who were so unsuccessful in their attempts to make a living from amateur athletics and were declared professionals.

Sensationalism, Brundage Says.

"Padodck's article is filled with inaccuracies and untruths, is sensationalism of the rankest sort and is just what might be expected from one whose record has been so replete with efforts to cash in on his athletic prowess regardless of the rules."

SHEA AND MASTRO MEET IN STADIUM WINDUP FRIDAY

Four ten round bouts will feature the boxing show at Chicago stadium next Friday night. The battle between Eddie Shea and Earl Mastro, both of Chicago, probably will occupy the windup position because of local interest in the pair, although Rene De Vos, Belgian middleweight, and Johnny Burns of California are attracting considerable attention.

Joey Medill of Chicago meets Stanislaus Loayza in another of the ten round bouts, while My Sullivan and Roxie Allen will clash in the fourth fight on the card. De Vos, Loayza and Sullivan are expected to arrive here the early part of next week to begin training.

W. C. Grunow Wins Low Net in Park Ridge Plae Dae

BY HARLAND ROHM.

W. C. Grunow turned from radios, which have given him little time for golf in many months, back to his game in Park Ridge's annual Plae Dae yesterday. He toured the once familiar fairways of his home course in many shots less than usual and won the low net prize on 36 holes from forty foursomes with the almost insolent net of 129. With a handicap of 26 he shot 48-43-91 in the morning and 48-42-90 in the afternoon.

E. B. Monteith, also of the home club, was second, and R. M. Jackson, another Park Ridge member, third, both of them with scores below their usual games. Monteith scored 81 and 82 with a handicap of 13, and Jackson 85 and 90 with a handicap of 47, giving them nets of 137 and 141.

B. F. Hall held down gross honors for the home club with two rounds of 40-38-78 and 41-39-80, which was just three shots better than any one else could do. Dr. A. O. Young, nine times champion of Park Ridge, did 77-84-161; Dr. H. K. Nicoll, 79-82-161, and Arthur Perry of Bob o'Link also 78-83-161. Dr. Young won low gross in the morning, and H. S. Stagg, 67 Today, Ready for 38th Year as Coach

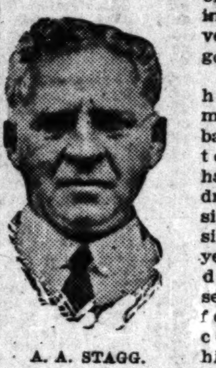
BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, 67 years old today, will start his thirty-eighth year of football coaching at the University of Chicago next month.



A. A. STAGG.

Coach Stagg has developed many great football players. His teams always have been well drilled in offensive and defensive tactics. For years the Maroon director has served on the football rules committee and his comment on the various changes always has met with serious consideration from other members of the board.

In the fall of 1903 Mr. Stagg was stricken with pneumonia. In that year Michigan defeated Chicago, 28 to 0, but Stagg left his sick bed on a cold day to watch the game from a carriage on the side lines. There were at least four inches of snow on the gridiron.

He has sent his teams through practice drills in rain and snow and on gridirons as hard as a paved street. The Grand Old Man, however, never has shirked his duties. He always is on the job and there is not a man who listens to his advice but who has the highest regard for him.

Stagg, along with George Huff, director of athletics at Illinois, was the prime mover in the organization of the western conference.

As nearly every follower of college sports knows, Stagg was one of the greatest pitchers in Yale's baseball history. He played end on the football team and was named on the All-American eleven of 1889.

In the old days the Maroon athletic field was known as Marshall field. Alumni and members of the faculty started a movement to honor Stagg by having the name of the field changed to Stagg field. As a result the field will be a monument to a man who has done much for intercollegiate athletics.

Canny, Gentle, Patient—That's Connie Mack

nie's hands tighten on the scorecard. He will sit up straight and rigid with anxiety. But when the next play is done, whether it goes our way or the other way, it is past, and his grip on the scorecard loosens and his body sags. He knows how to relax, either naturally or by cultivated habit.

Never Bawls 'Em Out.

"I have never heard him bawl a man out for anything. I have heard players come in, though, and ask him what it was that they did wrong when they knew they had done something wrong. He doesn't fine them. He doesn't shadow them. He just tells them what the club rules are and if they simply won't live by his rules he won't have them.

"He understands the men better than they understand themselves. When a fellow gets excited and does not know what he is thinking about, Connie knows just about what's on his mind. He gets no pleasure out of humiliating or hurting men, and I have never seen him do it. Once in a great while, a pitcher may be a little excited over being taken out of a game, but Connie just says, "Well, you'd better take your glove and go on in the clubhouse,' and that's all there is to it.

"Sometimes he lets fellows get away with things when they aren't kidding him at all, merely because he thinks it is better to rely on a fellow to do the right thing in the long run than to expose him in something he shouldn't have done, which would only upset the player and, perhaps, make him sulky.

"He is no preacher. He does some helling and damning now and again. If he doesn't like a fellow, he'll let the fellow know. But he doesn't keep books on things that can't be helped and in the fall and winter, after the season and before spring training, baseball is out of his mind, and he shoots a lot of golf, first around Philadelphia, and after the snow sets in, down in Florida. He hits a conservative game—around 90. And when he dubs one its dubbed, like a ball game that has been lost, and he is thinking forward in a straight line."

Comiskey, Just 70, Observes Birthday at Summer Home

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, yesterday observed his 70th birthday in semi-seclusion at his summer home at Eagle Lake, Wis.

Mr. Comiskey has been seriously ill all summer, but reports from his camp yesterday said he was slightly improved as a few of his most intimate friends came to congratulate him upon his arrival at three score and ten.

Despite his ill health, Mr. Comiskey has managed to keep in active touch with baseball affairs and is said to be playing a really active part in the plans to rehabilitate his ball club.

It is said the Old Roman has found the sylvan surroundings at his camp so restful and beneficial to his health that he probably will not return to Chicago till late fall.

FAVORITES WIN NATIONAL JUNIOR TENNIS MATCHES

Culver, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Favorites advanced to the semi-final round of the national junior singles tennis championships on the hard courts of the Culver Military academy today.

They were Keith Gledhill, the elongated sharpshooter from Santa Barbarbara; Junior Boehmer, St. Louis; Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., and Robert Bryan of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Driving and volleying with consummate ease, Gledhill eliminated Hugh McArthur, Los Angeles high school youth, 7-5, 6-3. Boehmer, who appears as if he never tries, defeated Karl Kamrath, Austin, Tex., 6-1, 6-2. Vines hammered out at 6-4, 6-3 victory over Fred Roll of Philadelphia, and Bryan gave an exhibition of steadiness and accuracy by crushing Earl Bossong of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-0.

Gledhill, Vines Favored.

In tomorrow's semi-finals, Gledhill will meet Boehmer, while Vines will clash with Bryan. Because of their greater tournament experience, Gledhill and Vines are favorites to meet in the finals Saturday. Boehmer, however, has forged to the front this week by his brilliant play and may cause Gledhill trouble.

Richard Hebard of White Plains, N. Y., defending champion in the boys' singles, advanced to the semi-final round today, defeating C. R. Hunt, San Francisco, 6-4, 8-6. Superior court covering ability and steadiness pulled the champion to victory.

Hebard meets Bed Friedman, Philadelphia, in tomorrow's semi-finals. The Philadelphian entered the round today by beating Marco Hecht of New York, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Doubles Final Today.

In the lower bracket, Jay Cohn of Santa Monica, Cal., meets Frank Parker of Milwaukee. Cohn defeated George Boynton of Atlanta, 6-4, 6-4, while the diminutive Parker trounced Francis Cantwell of Youngstown, O., 6-2, 6-0.

Bryan and Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., defeated McArthur and William Schommer, Milwaukee, 6-8, 7-5, 6-3, while Gledhill and Vines defeated Kamrath and John McDiarmid, Forth Worth, Tex., 6-2, 6-3, in the semi-finals of the junior doubles.

The finals will be played tomorrow afternoon.

Endicott Johnson.

A. B. A., Glenwood City, Wis.—After a comparatively poor start in 1929 Endicott Johnson corporation has come ahead noticeably in the recent past, with the result that the total output in late weeks has substantially exceeded that of a like period in 1928.

The corporation has curtailed its inventories materially since the first half of the year in line with its new policy of carrying smaller stocks. According to officials of the company, the flow of orders was unusually high during July. All factories are reported working at full capacity.

A ten to twelve per cent drop in shoe prices since last year, however, may prevent the company from showing materially increased income this year over 1928.

For the first six months of 1929 the company reported sales amounting to $32,562,227, compared with $32,594,673 for the like period of 1928. Expenses, depreciation, etc., were $32,060,461, against $30,542,480 for the first half of 1928.

Net profit for the first half of 1929 was $438,665. After provision for preferred and common dividends there was a deficit for the half year of $949,209. Net profit for the first half of 1928 was $1,667,284, sufficient to cover dividend requirements and leave a surplus of $270,264 for the period.

Earnings for the six months ended July 6, 1929, were equivalent to 16 cents per share on 405,360 shares of $50 par common stock, compared with $3.17 per share on a like number of shares in the first half of 1928.

Balance sheet surplus as of June 30, 1929, was $10,860,443, against $11,744,692 a year before.

The corporation has improved its financial position during the last few months by paying off all bank loans and reducing borrowed money to $1,000,000. At the half year mark current assets were 8½ times current liabilities, whereas on Jan. 1, 1929, the ratio was 4½ to 1.

Dividends are being paid on the common stock at the annual rate of $5 per share.

The preferred stock is high grade.

Woodley Petroleum.

A. A. G.—Directors of Woodley Petroleum company on June 8, 1929, voted to defer further payments of dividends, choosing to use available cash to liquidate current bank loans. The last previous dividend was 15 cents, paid April 1, 1929.

The company reported net earnings of $280,783 in 1928, $142,040 in 1927, $344,304 in 1926.

Earnings in 1928 were $1.06 per share.

Mississippi River Power.

C. D. R.—Mississippi River Power company first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due Jan. 1, 1951, are secured by a first mortgage on the entire property now owned or hereafter acquired, including the hydro-electric plant on the Mississippi river. TRICONTINENTAL CORP. REPORTS ON OPERATIONS

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Tricontinental corporation, $50,000,000 investment trust, today reported an increase of $5.29 a common share in liquidating value for the first six months of operations, ending July 31. This indicates earnings on the common stock at the annual rate of $10.58 a share, after providing for preferred dividends and all expenses.

That the break in stock prices last Friday had no effect on Tricontinental's holdings is shown by the company's statement that the liquidating value was greater on Aug. 12, than on July 31. The common stock had a liquidating value of $25 a share at the time it was offered last January by J. & W. Seligman & Co.

Tricontinental Allied corporation, an investment trust affiliate of Tricontinental corporation, is being organized, with public offerings of $50,000,000 in securities planned for next week. Announcement of the capital structure of the new company is expected to be made tomorrow.

BROKERS' LOANS SHOW DECLINE OF $68,000,000

Traders Are Pleased with Reduction.

The speculative fraternity was pleasantly surprised after the close of the market yesterday when the federal reserve board at Washington announced a drop of $68,000,000 in the amount of brokers' loans for the week ended Aug. 14 compared with the preceding week.

Loans for the week totaled $5,952,000,000. This is still $1,729,000,000 above the total for the corresponding week of last year. The liquidating of loans in the market break of a week ago today shows that the member banks of the system in New York were able to reduce their loans on stock market collateral by $124,000,000. Out of town banks, however, continued to send more money into New York for stock market purposes and increased their total by $21,000,000.

Place More at Call.

Corporations and investment trusts were attracted by fairly good interest rates and took an additional $35,000,000 out of their accounts to put on call in New York.

In cutting off $124,000,000 from their borrowings from the federal reserve bank, member banks in New York reduced their indebtedness to $191,000,000, only $3,000,000 above the total for the same period last year.

The weekly report of the twelve banks of the federal reserve system revealed that the reduction in the buying rate for bankers' acceptances had the expected effect of jumping the acceptance holdings of the banks by $38,727,000. Member bank borrowings were down $46,082,000.

Total reserves increased $5,472,000 and government securities declined $3,297,000. Total receipts dropped $1,194,000. The ratio of reserves to deposits and federal reserve note liabilities stood unchanged at 74.6 per cent.

The report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York indicated a falling off of member bank borrowings of $99,493,000, due to the raising of the rediscount rate. Bankers' acceptances advanced $36,632,000 and total deposits were up $2,315,000. The ratio of reserves to note liabilities advanced to 74.3 per cent from 69.1 per cent.

Member banks of the system in the Chicago district increased their borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago by $11,884,064. Bankers' acceptances were down $686,877 and total reserves declined $15,678,199. Total deposits were off $8,288,981. The ratio of reserves to liabilities declined to 82.2 per cent from 83.1 per cent.

Merchandise Exports.

Exports of gold last July were $803,000, compared with $74,190,000 for the same month the previous year while imports were valued at $35,524,000, against $10,331,000. The department attributed the great difference between exports and imports of gold to the high interest rates prevailing in this country, which attracted gold from abroad.

Silver exports were $6,784,000, compared with $6,160,000 for July, 1928, and imports were $4,723,000, against $6,544,000.

Exports of merchandise for the first seven months of 1929 were valued at $3,024,068,000, which is the highest figure for the first seven months since 1920. Exports for this period last year were $2,756,973,000.

The value of imports for the first seven months was $2,639,354,000, the highest figure for that period since 1926. Imports for this period last year were $2,403,780,000.

Gold movements at the port of New York for the week ending Aug. 14, comprised imports of $49,000 and exports of $290,000. There was no change in the stock of ear-marked gold for foreign accounts. Of the exports, $165,000 went to Mexico and $125,000 to Straits Settlements.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE SURVEY

NORMAN SAYS HE KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT BIG CREDIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—"I know nothing about it," Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, declared tonight when questioned regarding the New York reports that the Bank of England had arranged credit of $250,000,000 through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

In banking circles there is a concerted demand that Mr. Norman offer further explanation of the American reports, which caused a good deal of excitement in the stock exchange today.

Financial leaders continue to link the recent purchase here of 14,000,000 pounds in gold (about $67,760,000) by the Bank of France with the reparations deadlock at The Hague, and it is suggested that unless Philip Snowden, Labor chancellor of the exchequer, eased his demand, France might withdraw all its balances from the Bank of England, thus weakening the bank's reserve.

Hartman Corp. Estimates Earnings for Six Months

The Hartman corporation has officially estimated net earnings, after all deductions and changes, but before federal income taxes, of $559,172 for the first six months of 1929, compared with $422,102 in the corresponding period of 1928. In announcing the earnings, Martin L. Straus, president, said: "It is significant that whereas our sales in the first six months of this year increased 10.27 per cent, the net income was 32.47 per cent greater. It might be stated that July business showed a very substantial increase over a year ago, and August is maintaining this record."

Elect Hoyt Chairman of Curtiss-Wright Board

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Richard F. Hoyt today was elected chairman of the board of Curtiss-Wright corporation, recently formed holding company for Wright Aeronautical corporation, Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor company and ten affiliated concerns. Other officers elected were C. M. Keys, president; Charles L. Lawrence, vice president; J. A. B. Smith, secretary and treasurer, and John Sanderson, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

Baldwin Locomotive Gets Orders for Chilean Engines

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Baldwin Locomotive works has received orders for five locomotives for the Chilean State railways in addition to twelve ordered from that company several weeks ago. Iron Age reports that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad is in the market for 200 gondola cars; that the Central of Georgia is inquiring for 500 box cars, and that the Central railroad of New Jersey is asking for revised bids on 250 steel gondola cars.

National Bank Resources Off 1½ Billions

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A decrease of $1,500,000,000 in the resources of national banks in the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii was reported today by J. W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, but the institutions, through an increase of $92,000,000 in invested capital in the last year, were described by him to be in a relatively stronger position than in the past.

In his report the comptroller showed the resources of 7,536 banks on June 29, the date of the last national bank call, totaled $27,440,228,000. Compared with the reports on March 27, the previous bank call date, when there were 7,575 banks this made a decrease of $1,581,684,000 and for a year ago when there were 7,691 banks, a decrease of $1,581,684,000.

Other Decreases.

Decreases in the banks also were reported in deposit liabilities and loans and discounts, including rediscounts. On June 29, Pole's report showed a total of deposit liabilities of $21,598,088,000, a decrease of $1,274,792,000 below the March call figures and of $1,041,249,000 compared to a year ago. The total for loans and discounts was $14,801,130,000, a decrease of $48,796,000 since March, and a $116,120,000 drop from last year.

In commenting upon the report, Comptroller Pole, in a statement issued tonight, said, "While the total resources of national banks have been reduced, it will be noted that the invested capital has increased over a year ago by about 92 millions, which places the national banks in a relatively stronger position than ever before, and also accounts to some extent for the decrease in deposits."

In regard to the banks' loans, the comptroller continued, "there is only a small decrease, relatively speaking, of $116,000,000 since last year. In other words, the reduction of national bank credit for the year is for the most part in their security holdings, the banks having sold part of their investments to meet the requirements of trade and industry." He added that since the middle of June there has been a material increase in bank credit, especially in loans, while investments have continued to diminish.

Reason for Showing.

The decrease of approximately a billion dollars in deposits was held by Pole to be due "to a considerable extent to a reduction in the amount held by national banks as balances for their correspondents, which in many instances are state banks." The withdrawal of balances by the state banks, he added, was in part represented by the latter's efforts to meet demands upon them without borrowing or further reducing their secondary reserves. Another factor was "the very considerable withdrawal" of individuals from interior banks for investment or speculation.

Discussing mergers or conversions of national banks with state banks, Pole said these were factors in today's report. He added that the mergers have been taking place largely in metropolitan centers, where the largest banks are located, and these changes "would naturally have the largest influence on the total volume of national bank resources."

PAPER PROFITS EXIST ONLY BY FORBEARANCE

Investors' Holdings Prop Up Values.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Market quotations on many stocks dealt in on the established exchanges have no relationship to present earning power and little to prospects of future earnings. The values are made for trading purposes and are based on ownership turnover that often involves only a negligible fraction of the total stock outstanding.

It can hardly be doubted that the investing class, defined here as persons who purchase stocks with the intention of keeping them to collect the income they earn, has the power to wreck these stock market quotations at any time. There is no particular reason why investors should will to do this. They can do it, however, without intention if any large proportion of them decide to market their holdings and take the profits at prices that are, or seem to be, out of line. The anomaly in the situation is that high paper profits exist only because so few persons try to take them.

Selling Beats Down Values.

A statistical review states that the stocks of twenty-nine leading utility concerns listed on the New York Stock exchange had an appreciation in market value of $1,604,000,000 in June and $1,101,000,000 in July. If all the holders of all these stocks had sold at the highest point their profits would have been sufficient to furnish every man, woman and child in the United States with an income of $24 for the two months. If the market appreciation of the railroad stocks in July alone had been added to this, and the profits also taken, 551 million dollars, the total amount would exceed 20 per cent of the economists' figure on total national income for two months.

But the profits were not taken by any large number of the stockholders. It is probable that if even one-fourth of them had attempted to do so the high price level would have been at once beaten down to something like a true investment value. There would have been no one to purchase their vast holdings once the resources of the speculators who now fix the prices had been exceeded.

Bulk Held by Investors.

In some of the issues, one-tenth or even one-twentieth of the whole amount of stocks dumped on the market at once would precipitate a downward movement and the establishment of an entirely new level. One-fourth was mentioned because one of the strongest and most heavily traded stocks, United States Steel, has its market set by trading in less than that amount. This company's reports show that brokers on March 31 were holding 1,685,502 shares of a total of 7,116,235 outstanding. The remaining three-fourths were described as being in the hands of investors.

In the week ending Aug. 3, Steel common traded reached 727,000 shares and the price range was from 204½ to 215⅛. In the week ending Aug. 10, the trading reached 1,032,400 shares and the range was from 209¼ to 221⅛. The steel corporation furnishes an extreme example of a wide market, although it can be assured safely that 75 per cent of the stock is locked away in deposit vaults and held for the income.

At the other extreme may be taken some of the utility stocks that have had sensational movements. Public Service company of Northern Illinois, listed on the Chicago stock exchange, is an example. It serves a population of 1,250,000. It had outstanding at last reports 401,691 shares of common stock, of which 120,075 were $100 par and 280,941 no par. Each of these shares, regardless of par, pays $8 annually. Earnings in the year ended March 31 were $12.60 a share.

Called "Mind" Money.

In the week ending Aug. 3 the sales of no par common on the local exchange were 1,546 shares, averaging less than 260 a day. But the price range was from 332 to 435 and the week closed with a stock market gain of fifty-six points. In the week ending Aug. 10 the same stock varied from 391 down to 352½ on a total turnover of 661 shares, or 110 a day. Of the $100 par, which followed the price levels of the no par closely, 156 shares were traded on the exchange in two weeks.

Thus 2,363 shares bought and sold in twelve days set the market price for 401,691 shares. A little more than one-half of 1 per cent of all the common stock in that period sent the price fluctuating over a range of more than $100 a share. But there was no market for an investor with 1,000 shares in a block. Neither the high figure nor the low meant anything to him as a seller. The forty million dollars difference on the whole issue —high to low—was just mind money. Few could collect from it.

The large owners of stocks like this one doubtless are not trading in them. Even if they could sell, they would be forced to reinvest in other stocks at similar high prices and in addition pay income taxes. Substantial blocks thrown on the market probably would not, in any event, bring anything like the present speculative levels.

The Prairie Pipe Line company declared the usual extra dividend of 50 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share.

Ragged Prices Feature Curb Mart Trading

New York, Aug. 15.—Ragged and indecisive price movements characterized the curb exchange today, with utilities continuing to sag due to further liquidation and profit taking. Activity was quiet and the volume of transactions light in consequence.

Most of the demand converged on a few issues. Golden Center Mining was given a whirl which almost doubled its price. De Forest Radio developed an outburst of activity which added 2⅝ points to its previous gains.

Tri-Continental, an investment trust, lifted its high on a large turnover as its report was published, showing an increase of more than $5 a share in its liquidating value since it was organized last winter.

Utilities backed and filled with the forenoon trend downward. Allied Power and Light took a 5 point loss when bears felt out some of the utilities but recovered all except 1½ points of this. Electric Bond and Share, as the time for expiration of the rights approached, continued to display conspicuous strength and moved up 2½ points when the forenoon selling subsided. American Superpower, Central States Electric, Middle West Utilities, Utilities Power and Light and other members of the group moved within narrow limits, mostly downward for slight losses.

Further realizing was apparent in Aero Supply "B," Dubilier, Foltis-Fischer, General Laundry Machinery and Lehigh Coal and Navigation, all of which had recent upward moves.

For the quarter ending June 30 the net income of the Columbian Carbon company and subsidiaries amounted to $1,025,632, equal to $2.25 a share on 457,344 shares, compared with $1,059,957, or $2.32 a share, in the preceding quarter, and $659,319, or $1.64 a share, on 402,131 shares in the second quarter of 1928.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, denied today that the company would split its stock and denied also that the Western Electric company, controlled by American Telephone and Telegraph, would revise its capital structure. In spite of this and previous denials, the belief persisted in Wall street that some sort of readjustment is pending.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—They went through the motions of a stock market as usual on the floor of the big exchange today but that was about all the session amounted to so far as important price movements were concerned. Some stocks were shoved forward for a few notches, others fell back as much and a great majority slept virtually undisturbed through it all.

It was pretty much of a professional party all the way through with the public taking little interest in the doings at any stage. Volume was slightly above 3,500,000 shares with activity centering once more in a handful of favorites.

Mood of Traders.

Efforts to revive the four day advance which all but petered out yesterday were put forward in determined fashion at several intervals during the day, but it was evident to the most sanguine that the pets of late drives have become pretty well worn out and there was no denying at the end of the day that the trading community is pretty well resigned to the inevitability of a short period of "corrective" selling. Indeed, most traders seem in a mood to welcome a temporary reaction as providing a fresh buying incentive for those who are now unwilling to follow the advance.

Money conditions were slightly firmer with call funds ruling at 7 per cent all day and the trade news was generally favorable. Two items in particular tended to contribute to a cheerful feeling regarding the business outlook. One was the foreign trade figures for July and the other was the report on railroad car loadings for the first week in August. The railroads continue to handle more traffic than they ever hauled before. The week's loadings were above the previous week a year ago and two years ago and the record for the year to date is well above that of previous years.

Transportation

The present position of railroad stocks suggests that the securities of companies furnishing the necessary service of transportation offer highly attractive opportunities for investment. We recommend the capital stock of International Carriers, Ltd. as a means of sharing in the benefits of expertly directed investment in this field.

RALLY FOLLOWS EARLY BREAK IN WHEAT TRADING

Closing Prices Show Net Gains of 1 1-8 to 1¾c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish sentiment seems to be increasing among wheat traders, and while there was an early break yesterday again around noon declines brought in aggressive buying and the finish was at the top with net gains of 1⅛@1¾c. Strength in Winnipeg had considerable influence toward the last and that market finished 2¼@2⅝c higher for the day.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to bear pressure in the early trading and toward the last advanced sharply with many of the early sellers over on the buying side, and the close was ⅞@2¼c higher, with September showing the least advance, due to selling by scattered longs. Oats gained ⅝@1c, with September leading. Rye gained ⅛@½c for the day.

Canadian Yields Light.

Crop reports from North America no longer attract attention, as harvesting of spring wheat is under way and Winnipeg received its first car of new grain of the season. Threshing has started in the southern sections of the three provinces, and first returns show disappointing yields with the quality rather poor, due to light weight, and in some instances Winnipeg people showed a disposition to look for the final returns on the western provinces to be below present expectations. The final checkup of the 1928 crop suggested that the yield had been about 544,000,000 bu, against the official estimate last fall of 509,000,000 bu.

No frost was reported in the Canadian northwest over night, but the forecast was for somewhat lower temperatures. Liverpool closed ½@¾d higher after being sharply lower early on reports of general rains in Argentina, and an estimate that the French crop would be around 332,000,000 bu against 286,000,000 bu last year.

Broomhall, in explaining why he lowered his estimate on European import needs despite a smaller crop this season, called attention to the higher prices prevailing at the present time, and also to the fact that the corn crop was in excellent condition, and the use of low grade wheat would be much less in evidence.

Despite the strong statistical position, foreigners failed to show much interest in North American wheats, and no sales were reported at the seaboard. Cash wheat in the leading markets continues to advance, and a local house which three weeks ago bought No. 2 hard winter to come here at equal to 9c under September, said the best offer during the day was equal to September price.

September Corn Easy.

Selling of September corn against purchases of December by a local operator, with spreading corn and oats, and an increase in country offerings had a tendency to depress the nearby delivery. The deferred futures, however, showed a decidedly strong undertone, with temperatures over the belt too low for the rapid maturity of the crop, and there were also damage reports from Nebraska. A soaking rain would be very beneficial over a large area. The local spot basis was steady to ½c higher.

Hedging pressure in oats was absorbed by commission houses on resting orders, and prices advanced rather sharply toward the last. Unfavorable crop comments continue to be received from the Canadian northwest. Scattered liquidation was on in rye, but it rallied toward the last in sympathy with wheat.

Canadian Wheat Crop Distribution in 1928

Exports of Canadian wheat and flour from the 1928 crop were 408,554,000 bu. as given out yesterday by the Canadian government report. Required for seed for the 1928 crop, 44,500,000 bu; food requirements, 44,000,000; total accounted for, 497,000,000 bu. Stocks in Canada on July 31 were 104,000,000 bu, making 601,000,000 bu accounted for. Carry over on July 31, 1928, from the 1927 crop was 77,800,000 bu. Imports, 1,000,000 bu. Imports, 1,000,000 bu. Amount of wheat disposed of during the year was approximately 523,000,000 bu; unmerchantable grain from the 1928 crop estimated at 27,854,000 bu; loss in cleaning, 16,007,000 bu. These figures indicate a gross crop harvested in Canada in 1928 of 567,00,000 bu, of which 544,000,000 bu were grown in the prairie provinces.

An elevator man at Regina, in a wire to B. W. Snow of Bartlett Frazier company said that hot, scorching winds are not doing the wheat crop any good, with wheat in the north proving unsatisfactory, it being too hot during the filling period. Stubble wheat that has been thrashed in the south is very poor, 2 to 7 bu, with many fields not worth harvesting. Summer fallow is the only thing amounting to much and they will run 10 to 20 bu. Mr. Snow says that summer fallow area is roughly estimated at about 35 per cent of the total acreage.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

There was a limited foreign demand for cash wheat at the seaboard, and no sales of consequence were claimed. Local handlers sold 58,000 bu wheat to the domestic trade, including 50,000 bu c.i.f. Buffalo; 76,000 bu corn; 71,000 bu oats, and 10,000 bu barley, with 55,000 bu wheat to go to store. Charters were for 250,000 bu wheat to Buffalo.

Bids on cash wheat and corn to come here from the country were advanced 1c during the day, with the bulk of the corn offered held above buyers' views. Spot basis on wheat was steady to 1c higher with No. 2 red 7@8c under; No. 2 hard, 7c under, and No. 1 northern, 6@7½c under September. Basis on corn was steady to ½c higher, with No. 2 mixed ½c under; yellow, 1@1¼c over, and white 1c over September. Cash oats were in demand and the basis steady to ½c higher, with No. 2 white 3@3½c under and No. 3 white, 3¾@4¼c under September.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Thursday: Wheat, 217 cars; corn, 38 cars; oats, 281 cars; rye, 19 cars; barley, 55 cars.

PIT NOTES

Most of the large local traders express themselves as more bullish on wheat, believing that the market has turned and, while there will be moderate declines occasionally from profit taking, the trend of the market is considered as upward, and there is an increasing disposition to buy on all setbacks. One of the most aggressive of local pit traders said at the close that he would not advise any one to be short of wheat and predicted materially higher prices within a short time.

Accumulations of wheat in transit in various positions are gradually being cleaned up and are more nearly so than for the last three weeks. This, with decreased country offerings, has brought a decided change in the cash market and the basis on contract grades is 2 to 3 cents better relative to September than the recent low point. There were cancellations for 568,000 bu of wheat from public and private elevators late Wednesday, the grain to be moved out largely by lake. This will ease the elevator situation.

Industries are using more corn and the Corn Products company is operating full time while for months the plants worked only five days a week. They are getting plenty of corn at the various plants and recently are said to have had a surplus. While country offerings of corn are small there is said to be liberal supplies available at terminal markets, especially in the southwest.

Winnipeg had three cars of new wheat yesterday, said to be the first of the season. Harvesting is making good progress as the crop has matured rapidly.

ARGENTINE GRAIN EXPORTS

LARD AND MEATS HIGHER

Light offerings of lard and meats a good part of the day, with buying credited to packers and cash interests, advanced prices yesterday despite the weakness and decline in hog values with receipts not large. Cash trade was said to be better, and, while there was profit taking at the last, lard closed 5 to 10 cents higher, with clear bellies up 12@15 cents, while ribs were unchanged at $12.50 for September. Lard in Liverpool was unchanged except October, which lost 3d, and American cut hams in that market were a shilling lower. Exports of lard were 246,549 lbs and of bacon, 25,000 lbs. Prices follow:

BUTTER PRODUCTION LOWER

Production of butter during the last week was smaller than during the previous week and also last year, but this failed to have any effect on futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, being more than offset by a further gain in the surplus in storage at the four leading markets by 155,000 lbs. August closed ¼c lower at 42¼c, while the December was ⅛c lower at 44½c. Sales were 25 cars and receipts 7,734 tubs. November eggs finished unchanged at 36⅞c, with the storage report construed as rather bearish. Sales were 83 cars, and receipts 7,700 cases.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

Hogs slumped 10@25c yesterday, but met with a good clearance at the full decline late in the day. Prices finished within 10@15c of the lowest level since July 3, the top falling to $12.00, and the general average to $10.80. Big packers bought freely on the break and left only 5,000 in the pens at the close.

The three large packers handled a combined total of 11,000 hogs, nearly 40 per cent of the supply on hand, including holdovers. Receipts are running smaller, but are still above a year ago and beyond trade requirements. Eastern points reported larger offerings yesterday, and outsiders purchased only 2,500. Losses of 15@25c at other points added to the weakness.

Buyers Block Upturn.

Buyers blocked further upturns in the market for weighty steers yesterday, and best available stopped at $16.90, or 10c under the peak for the season. Prime 1,610 lb averages brought the price, with only a scattering above the $16.00 line, due partly to the poorer quality of offerings. Top yearlings, eligible to $16.75, were absent and the best on sale stopped at $15.50. Cattle selling at $15.00@15.50 were considered 15@25c lower at the close, with some common heavy beeves off as much as 35@50c, compared with the recent high spot. Cows and heifers show a loss of 25@50c since early in the week. Calves held the high position attained in mid-week. Stockers and feeders were little changed.

Best Lambs Steady.

Best lambs were in demand and sold steady again yesterday, while others weakened slightly, spots late showing slight declines. Quality grades poorer and the best available stopped at $13.75, while tops from 26 carloads of range stock sold at $13.25@13.35. Total arrivals were fairly small at 14,000 comparing with 17,583 a year ago and with 21,182 two years ago. Aged sheep were unchanged and yearlings weak. Feeder lambs were in good demand and held firm, some of the lightest selling upwards to $13.60.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs and 12,000 sheep, against 2,307 cattle, 14,800 hogs and 7,170 sheep the previous Friday, and 2,395 cattle, 15,640 hogs and 10,292 sheep a year ago.

HAY DOLLAR HIGHER

The consistently light run of hay into this market has resulted in an upturn of around $1 per ton on all grades of tame hay. Light country loadings are still reported. Receipts were 4 cars of timothy, 1 packing, and 2 of rye straw. Quotations follow:

No stock in the Company owned by any of the executives or associates of E. H. Rollins & Sons is included in this offering, but on the contrary their stockholdings have recently been increased through additional purchases. None of the money raised from this financing will be used for the purchase from E. H. Rollins & Sons of any securities now owned by them.

American Equities Company was incorporated in July, 1929, under the laws of the State of Delaware, for the purpose, among others, of acquiring all of the voting common stock of a substantial and rapidly growing public utility holding corporation; and generally to control, manage and operate enterprises; to buy, sell, hold and exchange securities of any kind; to participate in syndicates, underwritings and other financial transactions; and to exercise such other of its charter powers as its board of directors may from time to time determine. Its principal operations will be the acquisition of majority or substantial minority holdings in the common stocks of public utility and other corporations with a view to aiding in and benefiting by the growth and development of such companies. It will maintain a technical personnel for its own use and for the use of such companies, in which it has or may have substantial holdings, as desire to avail themselves of its services.

The formation of American Equities Company is the result of the successful operations of a corporation of substantially the same name which was incorporated in December, 1925, all of whose voting common stock has at all times been held by executives and associates of E. H. Rollins & Sons, and the assets of this older company are in the process of being acquired by American Equities Company.

The earlier company during the period of its existence from time to time owned substantial interests in the capital stocks of a number of public utility holding companies. Certain of these capital stocks were sold at substantial profits which, together with profits derived from the sale of other securities forming a small portion of the holdings of the earlier company, enabled the earlier company in the years from 1925 to 1929 to distribute to its Class B common stockholders the equivalent of 173% of their investment.

Upon the acquisition of the securities in the portfolio of the earlier company, American Equities Company will own all of the outstanding voting common stock of a substantial and rapidly growing public utility holding company, and substantial holdings in the common stock and other securities of similar concerns. In these situations the holdings of American Equities Company will be sufficiently large to entitle it to participate in the formulation of their policies and in the direction of their business. Through these stockholdings American Equities Company will have interests and contacts not only in the United States, but also in Europe, South America, the Philippine Islands and the West Indies. In addition the Company is acquiring participations in the promotion or development of certain hydro-electric power projects in France, Spain and Italy and certain other substantial but less important stock interests in utility, industrial and other corporations.

Upon the completion of this financing American Equities Company will have total assets (including those acquired from the earlier company) in excess of $36,500,000, of which over $27,000,000 will be in cash.

The management of the Company will be closely associated with that of E. H. Rollins & Sons, and in addition thereto the Company will have an experienced personnel who, over a period of years, have demonstrated their ability. Their experience—and that of Howe, Snow & Co., Incorporated, merged in May, 1929—in governmental, municipal, industrial and public utility financing, both domestic and foreign, for a period of over 53 years, and the facilities of E. H. Rollins & Sons International Corporation, will be available to the Company and should prove of benefit to it. E. H. Rollins & Sons will receive no management or other fees for their activities in connection with the operations of the Company, but may, in the event they render unusual services, charge and receive fees from the Company, but in respect of these fees and in any other transactions between the Company and E. H. Rollins & Sons, the latter will accept full responsibility for the fairness of such transactions.

The Company may issue and sell in the future bonds, debentures, preferred and common stocks, warrants and other securities as from time to time determined by its board of directors and with such vote of stockholders, if any, as may be required by the laws of the State of Delaware. Stockholders will have no preemptive rights to subscribe for additional stock or securities convertible into stock.

A majority of the board of directors will, in the first instance, consist of executives of E. H. Rollins & Sons. It is proposed to add additional directors to the board from time to time.

LEASES CORNER IN EVANSTON FOR 99 YEARS

Thomas G. Anton Figures in Suburban Deal.

BY AL CHASE.

William B. Mulford of Rockford, Ill. yesterday bought the northeast corner of Elmwood avenue and Dempster street, Evanston. Michael L. Hayes was seller. The purchase was made subject to a ninety-nine year lease negotiated by Mr. Hayes with Thomas G. Anton of Wilmette.

The lease is dated Aug. 1, 1929, and calls for a net annual rental of $6,500 to 1934. From 1934 to 2028 Mr. Anton will pay $7,000 yearly. He has an option to buy the property from Mr. Mulford at any time prior to Aug. 1, 1949 for $115,000. The corner is improved with a three story building containing six stores and seventeen apartments. The lot is 116x64.

Enlarges Manufacturing Plant.

The Binks Manufacturing company, maker of spray painting equipment, occupying 150 feet of frontage at 3124 Carroll avenue, improved with a two story factory building, has doubled the size of its plant by the purchase from the Hafner Manufacturing company of the one story factory building and 155 feet of land adjoining on the west. A second story will be added at once to the building purchased. Cremin & O'Connor represented all parties.

The 120 car Capitol garage at 5537 North Clark street, standing on a lot 85x144, was sold by A. Matson and Theodor Kron to Joseph Tennes for an undisclosed consideration. The buyer already occupies the property under a lease. Shaeffer & Foster were attorneys.

Railroad Adds to Holdings.

The Pennsylvania railroad, which a few days ago bought the southwest corner of Green and Kinzie streets, yesterday purchased the southeast corner of those thoroughfares from the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation. The property is 130x117. Edwin A. Warfield took title from the corporation and then transferred it to Earl W. Steuber of Philadelphia, representing the railroad.

The Golde Clothes Shops, Inc., have leased the 25x52 corner store and all of the second floor space, 125x52, in the building to be erected at the northeast corner of West 26th street and Trumbull avenue. The lease is for fifteen years beginning Oct. 1, 1929, and calls for a rental based on 5 per cent of the gross receipts.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today, with offerings light, and only at higher levels. The only sale confirmed was 30,500 bags of Cuban at 3.80c late yesterday to an outport refiner for prompt shipment. Trading in raw futures was quiet, but the undertone was distinctly firmer and final prices showed net gains of 4 to 6 points. Approximate sales 35,300 tons. Prices follow:

FINAL PRICES ARE IRREGULAR IN BOND MARKET

New York, Aug. 15.—Light trading was the order of the day in the listed bond market today and final prices showed considerable irregularity. The market for many of the leading issues, including the convertibles, is still below the highs touched before the break just a week ago.

The market has not been aided very greatly by cheaper money and bond specialists are not inclined to predict any great changes in prices in the immediate future. American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s crossed 200 and finished at 199½, up ⅝ of a point, while the International Telephone convertible 4½s were also fractionally higher in sympathy with the stock. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s gained ½ a point as did Atchison convertible 4½s.

Both issues of Allegheny corporation 5s were a shade higher for the day. An advance of 4½ points in Schulco 6s was a feature. Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s recovered 3 points net in a sizeable turnover. National Radiator 6½s were down 2⅝.

Foreign bonds continued dull, with most of the net changes for the day in the active issues limited to small fractions.

Cotton in Bad Break Despite Larger Usage

An increase in consumption of cotton in the United States, with an aggregate of 546,457 bales, as compared with 439,821 bales last year, and unfavorable reports from Texas caused enough buying to give the cotton market a fairly steady tone yesterday during part of the morning. Selling increased toward the last and the market became heavier, due to improved weather reports, and prices declined more than $1.00 a bale from the top and closed easy at the bottom. The feeling at the last was bearish and the short interest increased.

There were net losses in Chicago of 17 to 25 points after an opening of 4 to 9 points lower. In other markets losses were 19 to 26 points. In the spot market losses were 15 points in New York with the price 18c, while New Orleans dropped 20 points to 18c, with Galveston 17.90c and Houston, 17.85c. Liverpool closed lower and news from there regarding the labor situation showed no particular improvement.

The census report gave holdings in consuming points at the end of July 1,051,535 bales against 1,011,721 bales last year. Stocks in public storage were 986,436 bales against 1,189,751 bales last year.

Offers on October cotton in Chicago were 17.80c and December 18.22c. Bids on December were 18.05c and offers 18.50c. Prices follow:

Mr. P. T. Potts, President, summarizes his letter to us as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: The Vortex Mfg. Co. is the largest manufacturer in the world of paper drinking cups, soda cups and sundae dishes, with output in 1928 exceeding one billion cups. Vortex products are cone-shaped. The important advantages are lower costs and compactness in packing. The Company has 88 issued United States and foreign patents, and a large number of pending applications. The Vortex trademark is registered in the United States and in the principal foreign countries.

The business was started in 1911 with $25,000 capital. It has never had an unprofitable year. It has attained its present size through reinvestment of surplus earnings after payment of over $1,000,000 in cash dividends, large stock dividends and cash retirement of $1,000,000 of preferred stock issued as a dividend. Its success has been due to able management; the invention of automatic machinery by Mr. Cesare Barbieri, the Company's consulting engineer; patent protection on machinery, processes and products, and the increasing public use of paper cups because they are sanitary and cheap. Health officials in many states are becoming increasingly active in enforcing laws and sanitary regulations pertaining to public drinking places and soda fountains.

Vortex products are marketed under the trade names of "Vortex," "Vortex-Burt" and "Burt" and are in widespread use in factories, offices, stores, soda fountains, hotels, restaurants, oil filling stations, railroads, steamships, etc. The Pullman Company has recently adopted Vortex cups. The Company has an established trade and extensive jobbing connections. A steady flow of "repeat orders" is assured by the vast number of dispensers and holders in use. Thousands of new installations are being made each month, and it is believed the business is susceptible of large expansion.

PLANT: The Company's plant and real estate is owned in fee and is located at Western and Austin Avenues, Chicago. FORWARD TREND SUBSIDES IN N. Y. STOCK TRADING attention on the rail shares today, boosting several of them for fresh gains of from one to more than five points. Union Pacific for one was up 5½ points at the close. New York Central gained 2, New Haven 2⅝, Erie 1⅛, and Baltimore and Ohio 1⅛ points.

On the other hand, United States Steel appeared to have bogged completely down from its exertions of the last five days. It ran into realizing early in the session and price movements were within the narrowest scale of several days. The closing sale was at 237½, which represented a net decline of a half point for the session. Bethlehem, lieutenant to the big leader in yesterday's advance, also slowed down considerably. It was unchanged at the close.

Attracts Attention.

American Can attracted attention with a spurt into new high ground at 176¼. It likewise met with some profit taking at intervals, but emerged with a net gain of 5⅛ points. Motor shares were active in the late trading when a drive against shorts resulted in an advance in several of the leading issues, among them General Motors, Chrysler, Hudson, Packard and Studebaker.

Copper shares were well supported and the oils were kept moving. Announcement of the resumption of dividend payments by Prairie Oil and Gas after a lapse of some two years focused attention on the oils group. Reports that the American Ice company may offer stockholders the right to subscribe to additional common stock, together with some rather rosy statistics on the concern's prospective earnings, helped to stimulate buying of these shares and the price moved forward nearly a point.

Little concern was manifested over the brokers' loans figures to be made public after the close of business, the rank and file of the trading element having convinced themselves that the borrowings of the week would be nothing to get excited about despite the rather wide advance of the share market.

PEACE NEARS IN ENGLISH COTTON MILL WAGE ROW

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Terms of arbitration of the dispute in the Lancashire cotton industry were agreed upon tonight at a conference begun early this afternoon between representatives of the employers and operatives, with Sir Horace Wilson, permanent secretary of the ministry of labor, in the rôle of conciliator. Full liberty of action was given individual mills to reopen for work on Monday.

While the wage dispute which brought about the great stoppage two weeks ago last Monday still remains to be settled, it appeared tonight that work at the old standard of wages would be resumed on Monday.

The dispute arose when the manufacturers declared a wage reduction of about 12½ per cent was necessary for them to meet foreign competition, especially in Asia.

As the result of the personal intervention of Prime Minister MacDonald and the labor ministry the employers recently agreed on the principle of arbitration, to which they had previously been opposed, providing an agreement on its method of application could be agreed upon with the workers. That was the purpose of the conference today, the first joint meeting since the mills closed.

It was expected that the majority of the mills would take advantage of the agreement to resume work on Monday at the old wage scale pending the arbitration award. At least a week was believed necessary to hear all the evidence in the dispute and prepare an award, and it was recognized that it might take much longer.

MICHIGAN CRIME BOARD WILL NOT DEBATE DRY LAW

Death Penalty Arguments Also to Be Avoided.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Michigan's new permanent crime commission, at its organization meeting here today, voted to avoid entering into controversies over prohibition or the death penalty. Evidently to facilitate attainment of this end, it was agreed that no member will talk for publication except through the commission's chairman, who will provide the press with any information that the members see fit to release.

Brucker Is Chairman.

The commission, provided for by act of the 1929 legislature, was created to study the crime situation and make recommendations from time to time. The first report probably will be made to the 1931 legislature.

Attorney General Wilber M. Brucker was made chairman in accordance with a statutory provision. The members, chosen a few weeks ago by Gov. Fred W. Green, are appointed for staggered terms so that the majority of the commission cannot be changed during any one administration. The members are Senators Ari H. Woodruff and Claude Stevens, both of Detroit, Representatives Charles Culver, Detroit, and Harry Barnard, Jackson, and the following lawyers: Willard J. Banyon, Benton Harbor; Harry Gault, Flint; Paul Voorhies, Detroit, and Lee E. Garvin, Marquette.

Code Considered Satisfactory.

The state's present code of criminal procedure is a satisfactory statute, it was agreed, and no marked changes in it are likely to be recommended. Its application in the courts, however, will be studied carefully as it is contended that the provisions of the code have not always been applied impartially.

The next meeting of the commission probably will be held in Detroit, early in September, when the state bar association convenes there.

ADMEN OF WORLD CLOSE CONGRESS IN AIR OF PEACE

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Lord Mayor Boess of Berlin today accepted the invitation by the St. Louis delegation to the International Advertising congress to visit the Missouri metropolis. Early in October is fixed for the lord mayor's arrival, probably Oct. 4 or 5. The delegation presented the lord mayor with a silver reproduction of the medal St. Louis presented to Col. Lindbergh.

The congress closed its sessions today after a formal farewell between President Charles C. Younggreen, representing the 5,000 delegates from many countries, and ex-Chancellor Luther, representing Germany as host to the convention.

President Younggreen, summing up the work of the week, pronounced the congress "the greatest gathering of its kind ever assembled." The sessions, he said, had demonstrated advertising as a powerful factor for world peace and prosperity.

German hospitality won the special thanks of President Younggreen.

Many delegates start tomorrow on a ten day official tour of Germany. They will be guests of the cities of Dresden, Leipzig, Rothenburg, Munich, Nuremburg and Frankfort. They will also visit the Black Forest.

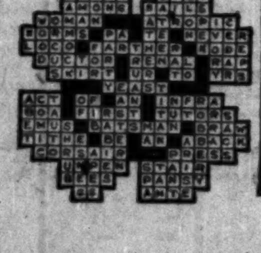
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



Elmer Twirls Dials Madly to Hear Good Ones

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It is getting to be a weekly event for the Thursday 8:30 to 9 period to develop into a dialing marathon, with three, four or five programs worthy of attention. After 9 o'clock the dialer's life is a comparatively easy one. Among the competing features last evening were several unusually good.

Sping, of W-G-N, always has some surprises. Last evening they were a number of first rate selections played by the station's symphony orchestra, and Sping himself in a dramalogue.

The Buffalo Symphony orchestra concert, through WBBM, had a threefold appeal. It was a first rate program and in addition there was the enchantment of distance and the allure of a guest soloist, Della Baker, soprano. Miss Baker displayed a pleasing voice, one having the essence of youth in it, and bearing evidence of being carefully schooled.

The open air band concert broadcast by WMAQ, WLS and WCFL was of special interest to listeners due to the fact that the conductor was Herman Felber Jr., violinist, and director of the WLS concert orchestra. Mr. Felber selected a cheerful, medium weight program, and the band responded splendidly.

A comprehensive category of events during the same half hour would include the concert by "The Old Colonel" and his orchestra from New York, through KYW.

Lesser in dimensions, perhaps, than the above, but nevertheless one of the evening's prettiest gems, was the Berceuse from "Jocelyn," played as a violin solo by Ben Simons, violinist, with orchestral accompaniment, during the W-G-N 9:30 to 10 hour. This familiar operatic excerpt has a grace and a sweetness that defies the monotony of repeated hearings.

JOHN D. HURLEY COLLAPSES; DIES OF HEART ATTACK

John David Hurley, president of the Independent Pneumatic Tool company, 600 West Jackson boulevard, died suddenly of a heart attack last night in his rooms at the Edgewater Beach hotel. He was 74 years old, but apparently had been in excellent health.

Mr. Hurley was a brother of Edward N. Hurley of Wheaton, former president of the United States Shipping board. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mae Ferris Hurley; two other brothers, Neil C. of Oak Park and Myer, of New York, and one sister, Mrs. James C. O'Neil of Los Angeles.

Born in Simsbury, Conn., Mr. Hurley came to Chicago with his parents when 12 years old. Since he began work he had been in the pneumatic tool business. He spent some time in Louisville, Ky., and in Mexico, but for the last 35 years had been a continuous resident of Chicago.

PRISON PAROLES CUT 50 PER CENT IN LAST 4 YEARS

A 50 per cent reduction in the number of inmates paroled from Illinois prisons in the last four years is noted in a statistical table made public yesterday by the board of pardons and paroles.

The figures, covering the period from 1919 to the present, show that from 1919 to 1925 an average of 1.81 per cent of the penal population was released on parole each month. Since 1925 the percentage has dropped to .94.

Maj. H. C. Hill, on his third day as warden at Joliet, announced that under his régime sightseers will be barred from both the old and new prisons. Except in extraordinary cases, relatives only will be admitted.

QUIZ SHOE SHOP OWNER IN HUNT FOR GIRL'S KILLER

Find Strands of Hair on Store Floor.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A few strands of hair and a suit of underwear, found buried in the basement of a shoe store, tonight had brought the proprietor, Albert Mollenhauer, into custody for questioning in the hunt for the slayer of 12 year old Dorothy Aune, strangler's victim, whose body was found in a lonely spot here early Wednesday.

Mollenhauer was held without charge while police questioned him closely.

Shop Near Girl's Home.

The clothing was found under a pile of rubbish in the store basement, while hair similar to strands found on the slain child's body was taken from the floor of the shop after the owner had been taken to police headquarters.

Police said the garment was damp, as though it had been washed recently.

The shoe shop is only a short distance from the Aune home, from which the little girl disappeared last Tuesday after starting on an errand to a near by grocery.

Clew in Automobile Tire.

Detectives also found an automobile in a garage at the proprietor's home, one tire of which, they said, bore the same sort of tread as the marks found in the roadway near the spot where the victim's body was picked up after she had been kidnaped, attacked, and then slain.

In the basement police also located three gunny sacks similar to those in which Dorothy's body was found.

The suspect was taken into custody after neighbors had told police the girl had visited his shop several times before last Tuesday, the day she disappeared. They also told of experiences of other young girls at the place.

CHICAGO ARTIST FOUND DEAD IN HIS HOTEL ROOM

Anthony Angarola, Chicago artist who recently returned from two years of painting in Europe made possible by the Guggenheim foundation, was found dead yesterday morning in the bathroom of his quarters at the Bradley hotel, 536 Rush street. Dr. Milton J. Latimer, who has been attending him for heart trouble and a stomach disorder, attributed his death to natural causes. There will be no inquest.

ANTHONY ANGAROLA.

The body was removed yesterday to undertaking parlors at 624 North Western avenue, and will be taken today to the home of Angarola's brother, Michael, at 5820 Markham avenue. Services will be held Monday morning, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

Mr. Angarola brought back with him from Europe fifty canvases, most of them done at Les Beaux, a small village in the mountains north of the French Riviera. The announcement of his appointment as head instructor of painting at the St. Paul, Minn., School of Arts, was made recently, and he was to have assumed this position in two weeks.

Prisoner Hits Woman Agent of U. S. at Narcotic Trial

Enraged when a woman government agent testified she had purchased an ounce of morphine from him, Edward Martin, 665 North Clark street, struck the witness, Mrs. Helen Jansen, yesterday, during a hearing before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Then Martin made a dash for liberty, but was captured and overpowered by narcotic agents. Commissioner Walker raised Martin's bonds from $2,000 to $7,500.

UNCLE POM

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Pomeroy Penfold, a wealthy American widower nearing fifty, loves to travel and visit friends. When the story opens he is a guest at the château of his sister, Alicia, and her husband, the Comte de Rennec. He is disturbed by the sight of an intruder—a man in yachting costume—who appears on the estate and stares rudely at Maia, the count's lovely twenty year old daughter by a first marriage. Maia admits having met the man in America and says his name is Capt. Seagrave.

Kirby Colton, handsome scapegrace son of an American bishop, an old friend of the Penfold family, calls at the château unexpectedly and is invited to spend the night. He, too, has met Maia in America.

The count surprises Uncle Pom by telling him Maia loves him and indicating the marriage would please him. Maia overhears and confirms her father's remarks. Later she confesses that both Kirby and Seagrave are erstwhile suitors. Knowing the two men hate each other, Uncle Pom goes in search of Kirby to avoid a clash. He is attacked from behind, knocked unconscious, and robbed of a belt containing priceless diamonds. That night a prowler in his room tries to choke him, then escapes. Maia suspects Seagrave in both attacks—he is always in financial difficulties—but Kirby astonishes every one by giving an alibi for his rival. And he confides in Uncle Pom that he has not come to see Maia, but to borrow one thousand dollars to save an innocent girl from trouble. Penfold gives him the money.

Seagrave calls, and is unabashed when told he is under suspicion for assault and battery. He denies the charges, announces he intends to marry Maia, and infuriates Penfold by hinting he knows something to her discredit which he can use as blackmail. Pressed for details, he declares she is involved in a case of murder, and says Colton can confirm it, because he was a witness. Colton explains that Maia did shoot a man in America by accident, but through Seagrave's fault. He challenges the latter to a duel, but later agrees with Penfold that this would only bring scandal to Maia's name, and the best thing for Kirby to do is to clear out at once.

First, however, Kirby makes a deposition, swearing he fired the shot, in order to forestall more blackmail threats, and surprises Penfold by confiding that he has just put through a coup with European financiers that will make him rich. He pays off the libel on Seagrave's yacht, hoping to get rid of him, because he feels Maia has more cause to fear the man, since she asked Kirby not to clear his rival by giving the alibi.

That night Uncle Pom is disturbed by a noise downstairs and, investigating, finds that the count's swords have disappeared. He suspects a duel and begins to search the grounds. He hears Maia and Kirby talking in the moonlight and discovers they are in love. He releases Maia from the engagement and then tries to persuade Kirby not to go on with the duel.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

CALLING A BLUFF.

Mr. Penfold shook his head. "That's a bad play, Kirby, on two counts. In the first place, you are not a skilled swordsman and even if he is no better, you must admit he's got it over you in strength and reach. In the second, it turns out this sort of irregular meeting would be considered nothing short of murder in the eyes of the law. Even a formal duel is illegal and carries its penalty. I wonder Seagrave hadn't sense enough to appreciate that."

"He doesn't know what's ahead of him," Kirby said. "Maia made this rendezvous."

Mr. Penfold looked at Maia in shocked astonishment. "You lured this man here to kill Kirby or be killed by him?"

"Of course not, Uncle Pom. I had no idea what Kirby was up to until just now. I sent word to Seagrave to meet me here."

Mr. Penfold was aghast. The wood dove making a tryst with the pigeon hawk or, worse, with a horned owl. In the daytime there might be the chance or escape or of a stray hunter with a gun.

"To do what?" he demanded.

"To try to buy him off," Maia said. "To bribe him to keep his mouth shut."

"With what?"

Maia tugged at a chain 'round her neck, and drew out the beautiful sapphire pendant Mr. Penfold had given her for her presentation at the Court of St. James. "With this. There are limits to his blackguardism, I think."

"That's just the trouble," Mr. Penfold muttered.

"Well, I happen to know he is in a tight place for money. To meet another payment on the yacht."

"And then there would be another demand and then another," Mr. Penfold said. "Better let him do his worst and be done with it than to take any chance of meeting him here."

"That's what I told her," Kirby said. "Lucky I was awake and heard her when she slipped down. I saw her go out and guessed what she was up to. Going through the library I caught sight of the swords, and I took them down. Too good a chance to miss, calling his bluff that he'll fight."

"Don't be a fool, Seagrave," Mr. Penfold said angrily.

"I doubt if it was bluff," Mr. Penfold said, "and if I know anything of men, then Seagrave is not an ordinary blackmailer. He may want money, but he wants Maia more, and he'd stop at nothing to get her."

The little dinghy was pulling up to the cale. They discovered there were two men aboard her, and that it was not Seagrave at the oars. He was in the stern and leaning back against the engine so as to be until this moment indistinguishable from it as it projected above the stern transom.

"Well," said Mr. Penfold. "This can't go on. I shan't permit it."

The dinghy rowed alongside the cale, and Seagrave stepped out.

Then, catching sight of them, he came forward in his trim alert way, lifted his yachting cap, and said mockingly: "I thought this was a tryst, Maia—but it looks more like a trap. Hope I'm not late. It seemed better to row the last lap, to lose any possible trailers."

"We are the trailers," Mr. Penfold snapped. "Fortunately we discovered Maia's folly in time to escort her."

"She ran no risk," Seagrave said. "I guessed why she wanted to see me. Because I was forced to accept a loan from Colton, she's got the wrong idea that I can be bought off."

"Your method so far would seem to indicate it," Mr. Penfold said. "Unless it's money you're after what do you hope to gain?"

Seagrave answered boldly: "To gain time until I can prove to Maia that she might as well take me first as last. I'll stop at nothing to get her."

"Are you still under the delusion that anything you could possibly do or say could make me do as you wish," Maia asked.

"Yes—that—or what I might not do."

"Then go ahead and do it," Maia said hotly. "Do your worst and see what it gets you."

"You don't any of you seem to realize what that means," Seagrave said. "I've got you all in chancery. I can force a United States public prosecutor to demand Maia's extradition on a charge of manslaughter—over there. She'd have to stand trial."

"That," said Mr. Penfold, "would be a wasted effort. There's Kirby's deposition."

"What price that? With Maia examined under oath," Seagrave said contemptuously. "You know as well as I do that she's not going to perjure herself."

"Even so," said Mr. Penfold. "It would be made clear to the court that you had coached her to do just what she did—fire at a holdup."

"O, yes, I'm not saying she would be convicted. But you know where a case like that leaves a person."

"I know where it would leave you," Mr. Penfold said, "and that's behind bars. Kirby thinks he can prove you tipped off the official crook to halt the car."

"Kirby can do nothing of the sort," Seagrave said.

"You'll find differently, Seagrave."

"You mean," Seagrave asked, "that he's prepared to frame me? I don't believe it."

"What," asked Mr. Penfold, "do you want? What's your demand?"

"That Maia break her silly engagement to you in the first place," Seagrave said curtly. "That's all rot, anyhow. Even if you're both foolish enough to go through it, you'd wish you hadn't. Then all I ask is that Maia gives me six months to make good and that she agrees to marry me then if I manage it."

Mr. Penfold saw instantly a chance to gain time but, though tempted, he would not employ it.

"Both conditions rejected," he said, promptly, "and that being the case this interview need not be prolonged."

Seagrave's eyes were fastened on the pair of swords in their polished silver scabbards tucked under Kirby's arm.

"Why the arsenal, Colton?"

Kirby came out of his abstraction with a start.

"O—these? Well, Seagrave, when I saw Maia sneaking out, I guessed she had a date with a sneak, and as there was nothing better handy I grabbed off these family heirlooms to call your bluff of yesterday."

Seagrave's white teeth shone in the moonlight. "No man living ever had to ask me twice to fight."

His voice had changed suddenly from its tone of curt mockery to one that was metallic.

"Strikes me we've got all we need right here—three witnesses and the tools."

"Don't be a fool, Seagrave," Mr. Penfold said angrily. "You're in deep enough now."

"I'm not alone in the bog. Here's your way out. That's my chief engineer in the boat. Do we need a whole staff?"

Kirby asked eagerly: "You mean you'll fight?"

"You're on, Colton. Something tells me it's bound to come to that, sooner or later. Why not now?"

"Because," said Mr. Penfold, "I'm here to stop it."

Flowers Mark Fatal Retreat from Fort Here

Dearborn Massacre Was Over 100 Years Ago.

Heroes of the garrison of Fort Dearborn who over 100 years ago were massacred by Indians during the war of 1812, were honored yesterday in memorial services conducted by the Chicago Historical society and the Old Time Printers' association, under the direction of William C. Hollister. A ton of flowers, donated by the Wholesale Florists' association, were strewn along Michigan avenue in the morning, starting from Tribune Square and the old site of Fort Dearborn at the river, to 18th street and Prairie avenue, where the small garrison was slain. A military salute of bombs, in charge of B. F. Hutton, was fired over the site of the massacre at nine o'clock last evening.

The men honored in the services yesterday were Ensign George Ronan and Sergeant Otho Hayes, who lost their lives in the battle, and also William Caldwell, "Sauganash," who later was instrumental in inducing the Indians to give up their English alliance.

"The world has little realized the heroism of these men," said Thomas A. O'Shaughnessy of the Chicago Historical society and of the Palette and Chisel club, during the services yesterday. "Under the instructions of the government these men left Fort Dearborn and marched south along the lake shore. Ensign Ronan took command when the attack by the Indians came. When he was killed Sergeant Hayes took his place. Every man in the village was slain."

Smart Turnouts of Gay '90s, Freaks for Transit Exhibit

The grand old days when the "coach and four" went prancing stylishly up the old Lake Shore drive are gone forever, but the coaches, and several smaller horse drawn vehicles of the gay '90s will be displayed in a museum.

Four such vehicles, stored for years in a Clark street building, were received yesterday from the McCormick estates, to be housed by the Museum of Science and Industry partly endowed by Julius Rosenwald. They will remain in the Soldiers' field stadium until the new museum is completed in 1932. Three were manufactured by the C. R. Kimball company, Chicago, and the fourth by the Brewster company, New York.

Musty black leather upholstering still in good condition, ponderous speaking tubes, large headlights, and even a special place under the coachman's seat for a hunting bowler distinguished the vehicles as they were being aired yesterday at the museum. Even a coachman's raincoat was found beneath a seat.

The sleek horses that pulled them are long since dead.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Dr. H. E. Lyons, 936 West 63d street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

What do you think of the idea of sentencing careless and inefficient drivers to a school of instruction?

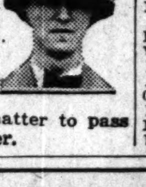
The Answers.

Elmore W. Le Roy, 201 East Ontario street, artist.—The idea is good. And if there were some way by which a credit could be furnished and displayed on the car so that police officers, among others, could easily recognize that the driver has gone through this schooling an added value to the original suggestion would be obtained.

Mrs. Emy Martin, 1765 Fay street, East Cleveland, O., housewife.—Anything that will make for greater responsibility and care among drivers should be tried. Let me say that since recently arriving in Chicago I have been deeply impressed with the quietness and orderliness of the moving traffic as compared with Cleveland.

Gene Montgomery, 1516 East 62d street, artist.—The idea sounds good. Most drivers wish they knew more about their car as well as driving, while others absolutely need a lot of instruction. If one could only be in the place of the other driver many apparently careless moves might be found to be excusable.

Miss Ruth Drake, Allerton house, student.—The tendency throughout the country is toward the doing away with rules, restricting laws, and fines. Instead of fines there is a tendency to make the convicted work out their penalty. A school for drivers and careless experienced drivers is a timely suggestion.



Fred O. Quitmeyer, 1024 North Waller avenue, paper cutter.—Seems to me the public would be strongly in favor of some sort of school for automobile drivers, either for experience or punishment. I know from experience that it would not be an easy matter to pass muster as a perfect driver.

Musicians' Union Plans Series of 30 Public Concerts in Parks

Thirty concerts in Chicago parks by a band of 100 musicians under the sponsorship of the Chicago Federation of Musicians were outlined yesterday as part of the city's musical program for the month of September. The first program will be given in Grant park on Labor day, Sept. 2. Others will be announced later for other parks but it would seem that at least one concert a day will be given somewhere in Chicago.

Of the band's personnel, fifty musicians will form a permanent unit, the others varying from time to time according to circumstances. Ten conductors are to be invited to direct various programs. Those already on the invitation list are Frederick Stock, Eric DeLamarter, Giorgio Polacco, Max Bendix, and Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa. The plan has been under consideration for several weeks, but James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, released the announcement only yesterday after having perfected details of financing the series.

Music critics of the Chicago newspapers have been invited by the Chicago Federation of Musicians to act as members of an advisory committee for the concerts.

Since the installation of talkies there has been considerable unemployment among musicians. The expense of the concerts is provided for by a fund raised by subscriptions and also from musicians now employed.

The United States Marine band will make its first appearance in Chicago on Oct. 1, giving two concerts at Orchestra hall under the auspices of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. The afternoon concert will be for school children. Gov. Emmerson and state and government officials will be guests of honor at the evening appearance.

The marine band is known as the "President's own," and has been in existence for more than a hundred years. It has played at all inaugurals, White House weddings and receptions and funerals of national heroes. It played on Lafayette's first visit to the United States and at the Gettysburg battlefield dedication.

It is only since 1911 that the band has been permitted to play outside of the District of Columbia.

HOOVER PLANS BUSY WEEK-END AT CAMP; TO GREET VIRGINIANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—President Hoover with a party of guests will leave Washington early tomorrow afternoon for what is expected to be the most active weekend he has spent at his fishing camp on the Rapidan river in Virginia.

Saturday morning the President expects to throw open the camp to inspection of newspaper men and photographers. Later the same morning he will motor to Madison court house, about twenty miles away, where he will participate in a celebration in his honor given by the citizens of that section. Gov. Byrd of Virginia will be present to thank the President for choosing that particular section of the country as his playground.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. William P. MacCracken Jr., of Chicago, will be among the guests who will accompany the presidential party. Others include former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke, Representative Franklin W. Fort [Rep., N. J.]; George E. Akerson, secretary to the President, and a number of aides. Mrs. Hoover and Allan, the youngest of the two Hoover boys, are now at the camp.

As on former occasions, the guests will be expected to spend their time hiking over mountain trails, horseback riding and pitching horse shoes. The men will be impressed into service to continue work on the dam which the President has undertaken to build in the stream running near his camp to provide a trout pool. Rapid progress has been made on this project, and the labor has been furnished in large part by the male guests of the President in this summer's week-end parties. The horse shoe pitching tournament will be held in camp, probably on Saturday.

Splashing Girls Dedicate Pool in Y.W.C.A. Memorial

Twenty girls splashed merrily in the new swimming pool in the Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A., Dearborn and Oak streets, at its formal opening and dedication yesterday. The pool is in the basement of the building and is equipped with the most modern ventilating and filtration systems. The pool room, with its dressing rooms, showers, and spectators' gallery, is decorated in a modernistic effect. The pool itself is of green tile, 20 by 48 feet in size, and the water is kept at a temperature of 78 degrees. The first regular swimming classes will open Sept. 9. Miss Beatrice Krafft is in charge.

Evanston Boy Scouts to Tour in Europe, Then Return Home

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A group of nineteen Evanston Boy Scouts arrived in London this morning from Arrowe Park, where they took part in the world jamboree. They will call on Ambassador Dawes at the American embassy tomorrow morning.

The Scouts broke their journey to London by spending Tuesday visiting the Shakespeare country. On Wednesday they stopped at Oxford, where they were entertained by Dr. Fred Eastman, director of religious drama at the University of Chicago, who showed them through the university and later took them on a boat excursion.

Today the youths journeyed to Windsor castle and Eton. They will depart on Saturday evening for Belgium and will tour Germany, Switzerland, and France before sailing on Aug. 31 from Cherbourg on the liner Aurania. The party arrives in Quebec on Sept. 9, returning to Chicago the next day in time for opening of school.

Scoutmaster Allen Towne is in charge of the group, assisted by Miles Towne and Harland Roden. The party consists of Clarence Mack Jr., William Dolke, Alan Wilson, Jerry Wilson, Robert Wilson, Norman Westerhold Jr., John Mercer, Dudley Robinson, Martin Hapeman, Roy Kercher, Willard Shibley, Clifford Taylor, William, Robert and Chester Himel.

PLAN GREAT MEDICAL CENTER IN NEW YORK; MAIN UNIT 24 STORIES

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Plans for the second great medical center to be erected in New York City were filed with the Manhattan bureau of buildings today by the New York hospital-Cornell Medical College association, which will represent an outlay of $16,000,000. The center will comprise 13 connected buildings, commanded by a 24 story structure on the area between 68th and 70th streets, between York avenue and Exterior street, on the East river. Sixty-ninth street will be closed there. North of 70th street will be the 14th unit of the group and service buildings and a garage.

With full wards and resident physicians, nurses and students installed, the center eventually will house about 2,000 persons and include the most modern equipment for the practice and teaching of medicine and surgery. It will be a giant neighbor of the Rockefeller institute for medical research.

Construction will begin immediately. It is estimated it will take nearly three years to build.

Russians Equal in Misery, Says Yankee Woman

Rosemary Baur Slightly Ill During Tour.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—How Russia looks to a free, unprejudiced American woman who went there with a warm heart and open eyes, can be gleaned from Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York.

Miss Rosemary Baur, Chicago heiress, was one of the members of the party to suffer an attack of a sort of influenza, but she is recovering rapidly.

Mrs. Pierce saw Russia at its best as a favored guest of the Russian government, together with ninety prominent American business men and their families, whom Russia wanted to impress favorably.

But her first words when she arrived in Germany by airplane from Moscow with her husband, Henry Pierce of New York, expressed deep pity for the "uniformity of misery" she found all over Russia. Poverty, hunger and unhappiness she felt all around her every minute of her stay there.

Mary Pierce is a tall American girl who was a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin's most dangerous attempt to fly to America in May, when its motors suddenly stuck and the airship was caught in the mistral storms. Since then at Friedrichshafen the Zeppelin's crew has been singing praises of "her unwavering courage and kindness." She was in Russia four weeks. She visited not only Moscow and Leningrad, but the Volga, the Tartar republic in the southern mountains, and Russia's newly growing industrial districts.

"There is no doubt from what everybody told me and from what I could observe," she said, "that conditions have improved in the course of the last three years. We saw plants being erected. We were shown the new electrical works. But the masses still are hungry and poorly dressed. The Russians talked equalization of human rights. There is certainly one point at which equalization is carried through strikingly — everybody is equally poor and miserable.

"They are so poor that they must export their eggs, their butter, and their milk, and while we were in Russia every single Russian was allowed to buy only one European pound of butter monthly. That is a tenth more than a single American pound. You know that is not enough for a full grown person to keep in good condition on. That is only one point, but there are many others.

"One of the most gruesome experiences our party had was to visit the former czar's private palace at Tsarskoye-Selo. Everything stands as it was left by the Romanoffs. Children's toys are lying around. Dresses are hanging there as if ready to be used.

"But close to Tsarkoye-Selo is the most beautiful sight we found. Leningrad has overwhelming art galleries and the world's most famous Rembrandts. The stock rooms of its museums, castles, and public buildings are filled with historical treasures that Russia is trying to sell to help to buy the machinery needed so that its industry will progress."

While the prices for art treasures are not too high there is an export duty of 35 per cent.

"The government is like a huge trust company of Russia," Mrs. Pierce mused. "But it is more than that. It is the only trust in existence there, and thus it is without the slightest competition which could keep prices within limits."

At reminiscences of the food served at banquets in Russia she said, "Anybody who wants to reduce should take a trip to Russia."

She spoke of the perfectly adorable children, healthy and bright, and of the keen, fine faces of engineers—men who are clear thinking and seeking to teach their followers to build new plants and new industries the country needs.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce left Russia a few days earlier than the bulk of the American millionaires touring the country. They flew to Berlin.

Raspberries Make Delicious Conserves, Jams

Their Praises 'Are Sung 'Round the Globe.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Blessings brighten as they vanish. No, the lovely raspberry still comes to market, but already it has begun to appear in the smaller containers and we have to pay just as much for them as for the larger ones. Yet we may, for the next two weeks, still get the larger boxes, and when we can we should perhaps make some of those many precious conserves—jams, "sirops," and those combinations in which the raspberry counts altogether as the flavor. Which reminds us of the "fillers," or fruits and vegetables—rhubarb, melon, carrot, marrows, and even beet—that so readily take the flavor of berries like raspberries, and fruits like oranges, when we wish to make inexpensive jams and marmalades. That is why we see rhubarb for sale in August.

The popular and so-called seven minute jam is made of half rhubarb and half raspberries. Often the late raspberries are quite and delightfully acid and their flavor peculiarly right for this combination. Cut the rhubarb fine and cook it a bit in the least bit of water, add raspberries and as much sugar as the two together measure. Cook in small portions, rapidly stirring all the time. Flavors and aromas are retained by the quick cooking of jam and also, paradoxical enough, by quite slow but not hot cooking.

The art of jam making is not as simple as it seems. In the oldest recipes the fruit is mashed and cooked with the sugar without any water, and the amounts of sugar varied with each berry or fruit used.

Raspberry History.

In a great history of food written nearly one hundred years ago, it says that the ancients hardly mention the raspberry, which they placed on a level with the bramble [blackberry]. Yet the Romans certainly had an entertaining name for it when they did mention it. They called it "bramble of Ida" because it was common on that mountain, which is reputed to have cradled the great Jupiter himself. The author of this item ends by saying that the Romans undoubtedly knew how to appreciate the raspberry "so much esteemed in our days."

The German name, "Himbeeren," for the raspberry, has a rather grand sound, and the flavor of this berry is highly valued in Germany and used the year through in cookery. In different books we may find various reasons given for the name of the raspberry, one of which in England and Scotland has been "hindberry," because it is a favorite berry with the hind or stag.

In 1868 Charles Dickens edited, and probably he or Thackeray wrote, a series of articles under the title "Leaves from the Mahogany Tree," at the time when a dining table was rarely ever mentioned except as "the mahogany tree," and one of the most delightful numbers of this series has the title "A Dish of Fruit." [This and the others prove that the English have been able to write as finishedly and enthusiastically about foods as have the French.] The part in this about the raspberry, which the author found so delicious when he could pick it himself from "straggling canes," is certainly entertaining:

"The raspberry is almost the earliest fruit of the year in France, and it lasts on the French table from the end of April to the end of September. Here nature is less generous with the fine flavoured dark crimson berry. How pleasant it is to pick the pulpy raspberries that often come off the stems as you touch them, and leave white, bald and pithy stalks, like hat pegs from which the hats have fallen. What fragrance there is in the seed, how refreshing the smell as you bruise the berries, and their nectareous blood reddens your hands. The raspberry is balsamic, refreshing, and eminently wholesome, though delicate people call it cold, and consider that it requires sugar and wine to correct its effect on the stomach.

"As it is a shame that Milton and Shakespeare should be associated with the weariness of school tasks, so it is a thousand pities that the mature man should have his mind poisoned against that fragrant, fine flavoured, and delicious preserve, raspberry jam, by the horror of youthful powders—cruel alliance, hideous ambuscade!—lurking wickedly under beguiling sweets." [This is the first time we believe that we have been told how the immature John Bulls took their medicine.]

Bouquet of Raspberry Jam.

Being curious about the origin of English jams, after having run across the following statement in a famous volume: "Virgin honey, indeed—but be so good as to give me the marmalade—after the essence of flowers, the fruit smacks of paradise, and I shall conclude with jam," I found that a most rare volume on preserving, of date 1681, contained no recipos for jams, and in one of 1815 there were only a few. Therefore the following statement, after the above quoted paragraph, was peculiarly interesting:

"It is a curious fact, and one that does not redound to the credit of French confectioners, that even as late as 1805 raspberry jam was unknown in France! A cookery book of that date says distinctly—and no commentator, however much a special pleader, can explain away the matter—'They have tried to make compotes and confitures of raspberries, but hitherto without success! The fire carries off almost all the perfume.' Carries off, quotha! Why, no preserve in the world has such bouquet!"

Juice and "Sirop."

The French of today make for export raspberry "sirops" of great elegance, and of a far more wholesome sort than is our American raspberry shrub, and probably they send this all over the world in the charming containers shaped and colored like a giant raspberry. For some reason or other it seems much more "swank" to me to drink "sirops" than sirups. The old "barkeeps" called them zests, and we can readily buy both raspberry zests and domestic sirups of excellent quality which are not only fine for beverages but in other cooking.

One compendious English book giving one hundred and eight uses for raspberries, including wines and liquers and combinations with such, says in introducing the subject: "The juice of the raspberry is exceedingly luscious, and possesses a peculiarly rich aroma, for which reason it is much used by cooks, confectioners, and the manufacturers of liquers."

RADIO CORRECTING STATION TO BE READY FOR USE IN DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Formal announcement that the constant frequency radio station authorized by congress last winter will be erected at Grand Island, Neb., in December was made today by the department of commerce. The station, the first of its kind, is expected to bring about the elimination of "whistle" in radio receiving sets.

W. D. Terrell, chief of the commerce department's radio division, says that if the operator of any commercial or broadcasting station finds that his station is not operating on its authorized frequency or wave length he can communicate with the monitoring station and request that his frequency be checked.

By doing this, Terrell said, the broadcasting station will be "put right" on its frequency and will be able to eliminate the heterodyne, or "whistle," from the receiving set, which will benefit the users of commercial radio sets.

Construction of the station resulted from more than three years' planning and research.

Fish Combinations.

A menu came to me the other day from one of the most pretentious hotels in America. I have not been there but I have been told how very fine the place is. On this menu there was this query: "Do you know fish and milk do not go well together?"

Perhaps the people who eat at this hotel do not eat these together but when they do not it is likely to be because of the peculiarity of the individual eater. At any rate, I have some reason to believe that fish and milk have been used together since 3000 B. C. A reminiscence of that date was served to me at Marseilles, France, some years ago. It was some fish cooked in milk, and was a most dainty thing. The claim was that the recipe had come down from the Phoenicians, founders of that city and who, we have reason to believe, were very eminent in the arts, or invented many of them.

In England, a little while before this, I had been given a recipe for cooking sole in milk with the very highest type of recommendations.

But we do not need to go centuries back to prove that fish and milk must go fairly well together. The main solid part of the fish is albumin, another name for protein, and so is the main solid part of the milk albumin. Just as several kinds of fat used in a stew improve the flavor, one of another and of the stew, so in many cases does the combination of one protein with another enhance both.

A great many people think a thin white sauce with very little seasoning the most delicious thing to serve with baked shad and, as everybody knows, a white sauce is just thickened milk. The perfect finish of the fish chowder has always been milk, and we could find many other ways of proving that milk and fish, whether they go well together or not, have been much used. Probably we could not find a recipe for fish soufflé that did not contain milk.

About ten years ago a New England woman who had a fine restaurant on the Pacific coast looked in my face and said in such a convincing manner that potatoes should not be served with fish that for a minute I believed her and went away with my wits entirely unserviceable. And yet she had been brought up on the fish balls, the famous fish balls, which certainly were made with as much potatoes as fish and in some cases twice as much. There is no prettier garnish to a broiled or baked fish than little potato balls with plain butter and chopped parsley.

Here Are Tips for Lightening Week-End Woes

Efficient Tools Are Boon to Hostesses.

BY SALLY LUNN.

It takes an ambitious woman to assume the responsibilities of a summer place, and an efficient one to engineer such a residence successfully, without returning to town in the fall a nervous and physical wreck from her "restful" summer. The house in the country or at the lake inevitably entails a succession of week-end parties, and they seem to require a super-special degree of managerial ability to be satisfactory from both the guests' and the hostess' point of view.

The meals for a week-end house party are one of the prime considerations, and it seems to me it is just as necessary to have them served in a decorative and palatable fashion, as it is to see that the provisions are sufficient to quell the apparently unbounded appetites. That doesn't mean that they must be served elaborately. On the contrary, the food and service should be simple and appropriate to the occasion. Therefore, the buffet style of meal is by far the most satisfactory. Besides, the time of meals at the summer place is apt to be disconcertingly variable, and any captain of household destinies knows how impossible it is to tell the men when they go off on the golf course or the lake that they simply must be back at a set time. It is much better to arrange the meal and service so that it can be produced at any time within a slightly elastic period.

Proper China Helps.

Providing the summer household with large plates and platters for salads and cold meats, and with trays or sandwich baskets for sliced and buttered bread or sandwiches is one move toward efficiency. Lemonade sets for cold drinks of all kinds, with large pitchers that don't have to be refilled frequently is another aid. The table may be set with stacks of plates, silver, and glasses, and the edibles may be placed on it at the most convenient moment.

A table set in this fashion is decorated sufficiently to be appetizing and pretty. Paper napkins, that can now be obtained in a variety of smart designs and sizes, are generally considered quite proper to use in the summer cottage, and many women solve the dishwashing problem by using the cardboard plates. The napkins and plates may match, and it is not at all necessary to have a messy picnicky effect to your meals.

Simple Decorations.

A simple bowl of garden flowers, or a decorative container with fruit is ample decoration for the table, but it should be arranged with an eye to making it decorate itself, as it were, by careful placing of the food.

The buffet style is not only a help to the hostess for lunches and dinners or suppers, but also for breakfast. She may prefer to serve the breakfasts individually to the guests in their rooms, but if they rise at a reasonable time, they may descend to the dining room at odd times and should not be kept waiting for the entire party to gather. It is much simpler to institute a self-service régime than to reset the table every time a guest arrives or dparts from it.

Ice Cream Gets Richer as Public Appetite Grows

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Dairymen and manufacturers are having to double time to keep up with the appetites of ice cream eaters in this country. There are nearly three times as many gallons of manufactured ice cream consumed by the average person today as there were twenty years ago. And lately, with encouragement coming from mechanical refrigeration, home made ice cream making is being greatly increased in the city. Country ice cream suppers are still about as popular as ever in many sections.

With the home made ice cream left out of the picture it takes a herd of more than 40,000 cows to produce the milk used in making ice cream for Chicago alone. These cows are required to produce more than 162,000,000 pounds of milk, furnishing work for more than 2,000 farmers.

Eighty-Four Dishes a Year.

It is roughly estimated that Chicagoans consume an average of three and a half gallons of ice cream each year. That is about eighty-four dishes for each person, according to R. L. Hammond, executive secretary of the Ice Cream institute. The average per capita consumption for the United States is less than three gallons.

Philadelphians have the reputation of eating more ice cream than the people of any other city in the country. There the per capita consumption is nearly eight gallons a year. Quality is used to sharpen the ice cream appetite in Philadelphia.

Quality Going Higher.

Dairymen in the Chicago territory are coöperating with the ice cream makers and health officials to continue to raise the quality of ice cream. They made a long step in that direction by backing up health authorities a few years ago when the city of Chicago passed a regulation requiring that all milk used in manufacturing ice cream must come from disease free cattle.

The state of Illinois requires that ice cream test 8 per cent butter fat, but competition has forced the test up to 12 per cent in Chicago. The National Dairy council officials say that the Chicago standard is in keeping with the recommendations of the federal bureau of standards. The United States veterans' hospitals will not accept ice cream that has a butterfat test below 12 per cent.

Within recent years the butterfat content of ice cream in Chicago has been increased from 8 to 12 per cent without an increase in price.

BABIES MUST BE VACCINATED TO BE PERFECT, RULE

No baby which has not been vaccinated and innoculated against diphtheria will be judged perfect in the future at any baby show officially sanctioned by the Illinois department of health. A grade of 99½ is the highest that can be made by a child lacking these protective measures.

The new rule was announced yesterday at the central states fair in Aurora, where 800 babies have been entered for honors in health, weight, beauty and disposition. Examination of all the entrants will be completed today.

A battle between aerial bombers and a "city" equipped with anti-aircraft guns will close the fair's airplane show tonight.

Society to See Indians Dance, Make Whoopee

BY THALIA

The summer season at Harbor Point, Mich., where there are numerous Chicagoans, is at its height, according to accounts of the many activities going on there now.

Many of the summer colonists will take the Lake Shore drive along the cliffs tomorrow to Cross Village to watch the annual pow-wow held there by the Indians. The native Ottawas, whose ancestors resided in the vicinity before the coming of the white men, doff their store clothes for buckskins, beads and feathers, wear moccasins and paint their faces to execute dances as savage as any the cohorts of Pontiac knew. The ceremony occurs on a tribal feast day and is considered highly picturesque.

Another event being anticipated by the colony is the annual horse show and gymnkhana to be held at the Little Traverse Bay Riding academy on Friday, Aug. 30. Henry K. Chapin and W. C. Seipp are among the Chicagoans who keep their own horses there.

MISS MARJORIE FLORENCE PARDEE.

Crisp, Clear Days Add New Zest to Camp Algonquin

Crisp cool days and crisper nights this week have brought a new delight in the woodsy life at Camp Algonquin to the 500 tenement mothers and children on vacation at THE TRIBUNE'S haven up on the Fox river. By stretching their imaginations a bit they can pretend the place is a real mountain camp.

The big fireplaces in the lodges and dormitories heaped with logs are the scene of many a cozy hour these pre-autumn days. Children eagerly hunt the ravines for dead wood for kindling. Then, as the fire making ceremony takes place, they watch with an interest that never grows old. Soon the logs are crackling and the fairy flames dancing, and children toast their hands and feet before the lively wood fire and listen to stories.

A few cool days with excuse to use the fireplaces never come too often to suit Algonquin guests. Away from the heat and noise of the city, Algonquin is usualy cooler even in sultry burning days than Chicago. The pleasant Octoberish days with their invigorating chill fills children with vitality and puts roses in their cheeks.

Only a month remains to give tenement families their promised outings before Algonquin closes for the season. Fall hasn't come by any means. September may run true to form and bring languid hot days with midsummer suffering to the poor. It will be just as necessary to keep the Algonquin fund growing then as during July. In fact, the fund will have to do a great deal of growing if the expenses of giving 1,500 persons their outings are to be paid.

"I am a cripple and don't get out much," wrote "A Friend," inclosing $5 for the camp fund. "But I realize how nice it must be for the poor people to get out on a vacation."

◆

Billy and Dorothy Freudenberger, Hobart Curran and Shannon and Keith Gustafson of the 4900 block on North Christiana avenue put on another lemonade sale, earning $1.70 for the camp. A continuance of the Eleanor and Winifred Hassmann show given in their yard at 5518 North Sawyer avenue brought the free ice fund $2. A circus in Babette Klein's back yard in Winnetka brought $5.06, which was divided between both funds. Others taking part were Jane Wilkie, Jean Owen, Joe Oliver and Burnham Converse, assisted by Junior.

Tribune on Sunday Will Name Sally's "Mystery Gang"

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Well, girls and boys, it's all settled now, who'll be my hundred guests to see Thomas Meighan in "The Argyle Case" at the Chicago theater Aug. 22, next Thursday. I know you're anxious, because with all the fine treats I've told you about, and a lot more, too, it will be a program nobody will want to miss. But next Sunday will tell the story—so watch next Sunday's TRIBUNE!

And let me say, too, that the new party I'll tell you about Sunday will be one of the finest we've ever had. And there's something special about it that will make invitations twice as easy to win—so be sure you see the good news.

Now just a word for my guests to see the Jack and Jill Players tomorrow. You remember I told you that the girl and boy writing the best letters would get an autographed copy of the latest book of plays written by Frances Cavanah, author of one of the plays we're going to see. Well, I think that today we'll know who the winners will be—and tomorrow morning's TRIBUNE will tell who they are. Then you'll all meet the winners when we give the books at the party.

And giving the books isn't all, for the two lucky girls and boys. I've told you before that the Jack and Jill Players have a magazine of their own—and their founder and director, Agnes Marie Foley, has promised to print the winning letters in the next number.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Youthfulness and chic are expressed in the bertha cape collar of this pretty dress, and the shirred skirt hugs the hips, helping to keep the silhouette slender looking. It is attached to the molded bodice that shows the higher waistline. Crêpe de chine, taffeta and voile are interesting materials for its development.

The pattern, 2850, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 3 yards of binding.

Called Her "Stuck Up."

My girl friend and I both worked in a certain office. Being new employés we didn't know much about our boss or the others working there, either.

One or two days after we got our jobs we were going home on the bus. Our conversation drifted to our employer.

"How queer he acts towards us when that stuck-up secretary of his is around," she said. "Have you ever noticed it?"

Before I had a chance to answer the man in front of us turned and said: "Pardon me, but that stuck-up secretary of mine happens to be my wife."

Embarrassed? No, not much. We got off at the next stop. M. H.

Diet May Affect the Skin for Good or Ill, So Beware

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The effects of diet on the skin becomes a matter of deepest concern to women. Skin specialists could tell some morbid tales on the subject, where nonintelligent courses of weight reduction have been followed.

The exceedingly fat person with oily, oozing skin and with blood vessels that look as if ready to burst, profits immeasurably from a change from her usual heavy, rich foodstuffs to plain, substantial fare. But even with her, too rapid and ill-advised reduction may have baleful influences on her skin, especially if she is in middle life.

The good looks that are lost through too hasty and too strenuous dieting are of the face. For instance, eruptions of the skin are not uncommon where a person has swallowed obesity cures that depend largely on cathartic pills for weight removal.

Where reduction is carried too far or too rapidly the face may take on an anemic look or the sallowness that adds weariness and age. One can see in hands what happens to skin when the fat underneath is depleted. The skin becomes loose and the veins take on additional prominence and color. Malnutrition has been known always to be the cause of a number of diseases in which the skin is noticeably affected.

In cases of acne sufferers who are overweight, the cutting down of starchy foods is highly beneficial; also the elimination of sweets and fat meats is helpful.

A well organized diet, practiced sanely, will invariably improve the condition of the skin. I have seen numerous instances of improvement—clearer skins, better color and finer texture.

Some one said that the skin is a Janus with two faces, one of which receives the impressions from the exterior, while the other is turned toward the internal laboratories of the body. So, internal disturbances caused by diet and its effect on the skin is something due for serious consideration.

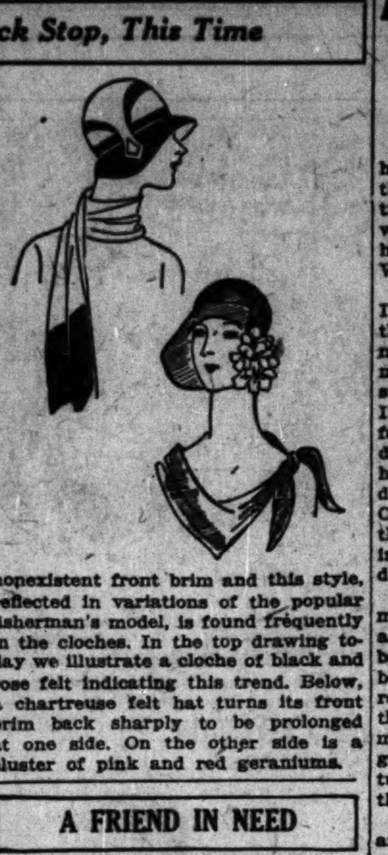
Millinery Has No Back Stop, This Time

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of the talking points of the new millinery is the talking back point. Very long backs—and this even in the case of the fitted turban or bonnet—are simultaneous with a brand new curiosity about the forehead. The latter, cloistered at least partially throughout many seasons, is now exposed as ruthlessly as a Spartan child. It is the hairline which the new millinery seeks to follow.

The turban, which includes the tightly fitted bonnet, is undoubtedly the most emphasized model of the fall. This molds the head but in doing so seeks always some irregularity of effect. For example, one of the fashionable turbans is a skull fitting shape of black felt pushed far back from the brows, dipping at the sides and relieved by a plaited, tiaralike fold of belting ribbon all around the face. Another bonnet of black velvet draped about the head is set off by a feather that is brought about from the back to the front. Everywhere we look we find the ambition to combine molded head lines with some capricious and even erratic exaggeration.



The long back goes hand in hand with extended sides and narrow or nonexistent front brim and this style, reflected in variations of the popular fisherman's model, is found frequently in the cloches. In the top drawing today we illustrate a cloche of black and rose felt indicating this trend. Below, a chartreuse felt hat turns its front brim back sharply to be prolonged at one side. On the other side is a cluster of pink and red geraniums.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

In Bed for Two Years.

"I have been confined to my bed for two years due to an accident in which I broke my thigh. I am too old to expect it ever to heal, but I would like to get out in the sunshine now and then and I could do this if I had a wheel chair. Do you think you could get one for me through your column? "C. O."

What a sad outlook this woman would have through her remaining years if she is to spend them within the four walls that isolate her now. If you have an invalid's chair to give, it would be instrumental in bringing her some happiness.

Offers Wool Pieces.

"I have two large sacks of all wool square and oblong pieces, each piece being edged in blue silk for making patch quilts. If any of your readers would like to have them, put them in touch with me. L. W."

These lovely pieces should make extremely attractive quilts, and the woman handy with the needle should have no difficulty putting them together. Write me, if you'd like this collection of pieces; please do not telephone.

Philandering Mates Are Betrayed by Their Coat Pockets

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"When my husband comes home he puts his arms around me and says that I am all he cares for. Yet, every time I brush his suit I find a different woman's name and phone number in his pocket. He will explain nothing. What should I do? ANNA."

If I were feeling more facetious I might advise you to quit brushing the suit. Let the tailor do it. But men are so dumb—I mean the pocket memoranda type—I'm reduced to a state of discouragement. Not that I'm for them becoming collectors of fancy names and numbers—but why don't they memorize them if they have to go in for them? Or, why don't they lock them up in the vault? Or why don't they do something with them besides leave them where they'll interrupt the home suit brushing industry?

If I were one of the country's lawmakers I'd certainly insist upon a law against wives brushing their husbands' suits or getting them ready to be sent to the tailors. In fact, I'd recommend padlocks for the pockets that just hang in the closet. I'll wager more women—and men—have come to grief through this scandalous habit of turning pockets inside out than through any other known medium.

Unless you are an insurance agent, an automobile salesman, or a bootlegger you can't alibi away that femme name and phone number. And don't try to, is my caution, gentlemen. But why not go in for collecting something else in the interests of happier homes and fewer disillusionments? Why don't you collect marbles or jacks, or even dice wouldn't get you in half so wrong with the party you promised to honor above all the rest of her sex?

There are just two things a man can't explain to a woman — that phone number and the snookeyookums letter to the blue-eyed sweetums.

A cartoon the other day depicted a loving wife giving her arm-chaired mate the stranglehold, inquiring in his ear: "Don't you love me?" His response was: "Didn't I tell you before we were married I did?"

Between that spouse and the one who hugs his surreptitious phone numbers in his breast coat pocket as he winds his arms around the little woman at home there's not much choice.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Practically a Stranger.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 21 and in love with a fellow of 27 whom I have known 3 weeks. He has asked me to marry him within a week without the consent of our parents. What would you advise me to do? "CHARMAINE."

When you marry it is for life, dear, and you want to know the young man very well—know his character, his eccentricities, etc., and these you become familiar with through constant association. He is practically a stranger to you.

A House Divided Is Reflected in Conduct of Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There is one kind of problem that is presented again and again in letters that come to me filled with a greater sense of discouragement than any other one kind. This sense of discouragement is always accompanied by a feeling of pity for the child or children involved.

The problem is described in these extracts from a letter (with necessary changes):

"My son, aged 12½, is a constant distress and source of worry to me. Spoiled, selfish, and lacking in discipline at all times, he has now absolutely rebelled. This summer I wished him to go to a camp, because he seeks no company among his schoolmates or other boys. We live in the city and I can't get him outdoors, and he is pale, undeveloped, and small. There are ways in which he spends his time that keeps him indoors. He is often quite aimless, too. . . . (Then near the end of the letter): I forgot to mention that his father sides with him in everything, permits him to do whatever he likes, and in every way indulges him. He knows no law, no bounds, for his every wish and whim are granted. How can I change my boy and make him see that the life he is leading is not a wholesome one?"

The last question should read: "How can I change his father?" A mother would have to be a superwoman to be able to neutralize such an influence as the father exerts over his son. To be sure, she might make a little impression, but it would be hard going. (Incidentally, here is a case where camp would help a great deal. It might change the boy's viewpoint.)

This situation is a frequent one, and accounts for much trouble with children. To some fathers anything and everything their children do is right. The mother, though she is with the children most of the twenty-four hours, has a terrific handicap to work under when the father is of the over-indulgent kind. I have seen mothers who under these circumstances succeeded in being the stronger influence in the children's lives, but not often, because, strangely enough, this type of father is often a domineering man in his other family relationships.

Where this conflict in ideas and training exists between a man and woman, and the children are showing undesirable results, the real cure for the children's conduct lies in the conduct of the parents. It becomes necessary for the one who has the vision, who sees the damage that is being done, to make other see it. It is not easy. Sometimes it's impossible.

In any case, where letters appeal for help in child training and this conflict is going on between the parents—where the house is divided against itself—the first step should be for the parents to "get together." One of the parents needs the training first.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

June, aged 4, accompanied her mother to Iowa on a visit. Her playmates while there were Louis, aged 5, and Kathleen, a little older. She and Kathleen were good friends.

Upon returning home her sister asked her who she played with.

"Well," she said, "I played with Kathleen and I played and fighted with Louis." M. S.

◆

Dorothy was starting with her parents on a months' automobile trip. The morning they left they drove around by grandma's house to say goodby.

When they left grandma said, "I hope you'll have a lovely time," and Dorothy called back, "and don't forget to miss me." E. L. R.

Russian Colony 3 Years on Arctic Isle Found Safe

MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—[U. P.]—A dramatic story of three years of isolated existence on Wrangel island, off the northernmost coast of Siberia in the arctic sea, was radioed back to civilization today after an aviator had made his way to the site of a small Russian colony on the island and returned with the news that all was well.

The fate of the six Russians and a group of Eskimos on Wrangel island has been unknown for three years. Today Pilot Krasinsky flew from the ice boat Litke, which had crashed its way to within 60 miles of Wrangel island, found the colony and returned to the ice boat.

The whole colony greeted the aviator with joy as he landed on a smooth stretch of ice "prairie." But few shreds of the clothing which the Russians had worn when they left Russia remained. In their three years' stay they became accustomed to Eskimo methods of subsistence and appeared in excellent health.

Starts Nurses' Home.

The corner stone of the new nurses' home and chapel of St. Francis hospital, Evanston, was laid yesterday afternoon by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. L. Bierman, at whose instigation the hospital was founded in 1900. The Rev. Fr. Lynek, chaplain of the hospital, prepared a history of the institution, which was sealed in the corner stone. The pastors of all the Catholic parishes in Evanston were present and assisted in the ceremonies.

Bremen, Ocean Greyhound, on Its Second Voyage

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, the fastest liner on the Atlantic, today is on her second voyage to America. A great crowd came down to the piers yesterday to see the ship off for New York. There was no mention made of new attempts at her mark of 4 days 17 hours and 42 minutes, made July 22.

German Plane Flys to France.

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Bremen cleared from here for her New York run at 7 p. m. today [1 p. m. E. S. T.], four hundred passengers went aboard, all hoping the liner would again break the speed record for the westward crossing. Weather conditions were favorable for a fast crossing tonight on this side of the Atlantic. The wind was light and the sea calm.

The Bremen carried 21 bags of mail shipped here from Cologne, Germany, by special airplane. This German postal plane was the first to fly over the Cherbourg military zone, receiving a special permit from the French air and war ministries.

These lists already exist in many of the forty-three countries in which we operate over five hundred branch offices. We are just commencing operations in the United States and our expansion program calls for about forty men in the Illinois territory.

These men will be assured of a splendid income and remarkable future with a financially strong, old company. Inasmuch as we are the only ones in our particular field we cannot get experienced men, and the qualifications are loyalty, intelligence, and aggressiveness.

Men who apply for personal interview from 1:30 to 5 Friday will be able to start work immediately if they are accepted.

TRIBUNE TOWER

The TRIBUNE TOWER is the coolest building in Chicago.

All the corridors are open to the outside air.

Every office is an outside office.

Every south, east, and west window has an awning.

The building is kept immaculately clean.

Windows stay up. It is quiet. The air is pure and there are no buildings to cut off light and breeze and radiate heat in your office.

Our offices are cheerful, delightful in summer and comfortable in winter.

If you are interested, let us try to meet your requirements.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

The condition of the money market has not affected our ability to amply meet the requirements of Chicago home owners who might desire second mortgage loans.

Money rates have been high, and the charges against second mortgage loans are up. It may be that our rates are too low, but so long as we enjoy the favorable circumstances as we have in the past it has not been found necessary to raise them.

We are still charging 6% accruing interest, and a commission of 3½% for a 1 year loan, 6% for a 2 year loan, and 9% for a 3 year loan. These commissions are applied regardless of whether the borrower chooses to liquidate his loan in installments of 2% a month, or more.

We believe that we offer to home owners of Chicago and suburbs not only a unique plan of second mortgage financing, but one which is saving them a tremendous amount of financing charge.
